Voted, That the Moderator of this meeting, with the outgoing and incoming Selectmen, the Town Clerk, Town Treasurer and thirty citizens at large to be appointed by the Moderator, constitute a committee to consider the appropriations recommended by the Selectmen and other town officers and committees, and the remaining articles in the warrant after the fourth article, and to report in print, with appropriate forms of votes, at the adjournment of this meeting. The report of the committee shall be distributed as the warrants for town meetings are usually distributed.

In conformity with the foregoing vote, the Moderator appointed the following thirty citizens, in addition to the elected officers specified, to constitute said committee:—

Edwin P. Bowker, Henry B. Cabot, B. Frank Carroll, Alfred D. Chandler, Benjamin C. Dean, Charles H. Drew, James Driscoll, James R. Dunbar, Willard W. Estabrook, Desmond FitzGerald, John F. Fleming, Emery B. Gibbs, Thomas B. Griggs, James B. Hand, Edwin B. Holmes, Osborne Howes, George P. Johnson, Patrick Johnson, Jerome Jones, Francis W. Lawrence, James J. Lynch, Michael D. Mealey, Oscar B. Mowry, Burton W. Neal, Jr., Patrick O'Loughlin, James P. Stearns, Reuben S. Swan, Joseph Walker, Charles A. Williams, Fred H. Williams.

Second Article taken up,—"To choose by ballot the following town officers: One Town Clerk, for one year; five Selectmen, for one year; one Collector of Taxes, for one year; one Treasurer, for one year; three Assessors, for one year; three members of the School Committee, for three years; four Trustees of the Public Library, for three years; two Trustees of Walnut Hills Cemetery, for three years; one Park Commissioner, for three years; one member of the Water Board, for three years; three Auditors, for one year; a Committee for Planting Trees, of three members, for one year; five Constables, for one year; two Fence Viewers, for one year. Also, upon the same ballot, to vote 'Yes' or 'No' upon the question, 'Shall licenses be granted for the sale of intoxicating liquors in this town?' Also, upon the same ballot, to vote 'Yes' or 'No' upon the question, 'Shall an Act (Chapter 344 of the Acts of 1899) to make eight hours a day's work for city and town employees, be accepted?' For these purposes the polls will be opened at seven o'clock in the forenoon, and may be closed at 5.15 in the afternoon. Also, to choose or appoint all the other usual town officers in such manner as the town may determine."

The Moderator appointed Constable Willard Y. Gross to have charge of the ballot-box and the space inside the railing.

In accordance with the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts governing elections, the Town Hall had been fitted up as a polling place, a space railed off and fifty compartments or shelves provided for the convenience of voters in examining and marking their ballots, and each compartment was supplied with cards of instruction and other necessary facilities.

The Town Clerk then delivered to the Ballot Clerks three sealed packages, one marked "2,000 Official Ballots, March 29, 1900," a second marked "2,156 Official Ballots, March 29, 1900," and a third package marked "509 Ballots for School Committee only, March 29, 1900," and took their receipt therefor.

The Ballot Clerks were then provided with duplicate sets of the lists of registered voters of the town, one for men voters and one for women voters, as prepared by the Registrars of Voters for use at this election. They were also supplied with the official ballots taken from the sealed packages received from the Town Clerk, and stationed at the entrances to the polling place, with instructions to deliver such ballots only to voters whose names were found and checked on the voting lists.

Cards of instruction and specimen ballots were also posted in different parts of the building outside of the rail.

The ballot-box to be used at elections, the "Ideal," was then opened in public meeting, examined by the Moderator and Town Clerk, and found to be empty. The register of the box was set at zero (0), the box was locked, and the key delivered to Constable Gross.

At eight minutes past seven o'clock in the morning the polls were declared open for the reception of votes, and were kept open until thirty minutes past five o'clock in the afternoon, when, after due notice, they were declared closed.

During the voting the ballot-box was opened several times by the consent of the Moderator and Town Clerk, for the purpose of counting the ballots cast, and again at the close of the polls, when the register of the box stood at two thousand five hundred and eighty-seven (2587).

The voting lists as checked at the entrances to the polling place and at the ballot-box were then counted up and found to agree, and the number of names which had been checked was two thousand five hundred and eighty-seven (2587).

The number of ballots left at the close of the polls, deducted from the number receipted for by the Ballot Clerks, showed that two thousand five hundred and eighty-seven (2587) had been delivered to voters, two hundred and thirty-five (235) of which had been delivered to women.

The Moderator and Tellers then canvassed the votes given in, and the whole number was two thousand five hundred and eighty-six (2586), two hundred and thirty-five of which were women's votes for School Committee only, which were sorted, counted, and declaration thereof made in open town meeting, at thirty-five minutes past eight o'clock in the evening, as follows : —

On motion of Mr. Horace James —

The Selectmen presented in print the following report on the laying out of Crowninshield Road.

We, the undersigned, Selectmen of Brookline, having given printed and written notice to Fanny C. Adams, Charles Francis Adams, 2d, and Charles U. Cotting, trustees under the will of Caspar Crowninshield, Charles U. Cotting and Francis C. Welch, trustees under an indenture, being all the parties known to us to be interested in the subject-matter of the street to be laid out, of our intention to lay out a street substantially on the line of Crowninshield road, so called, such notices requiring such persons to appear before us at our room in the Town Hall, on Monday, March 5th, 1900, at five o'clock P. M., and having caused such notices to be actually served according to law upon all such persons by a constable of this town, at least seven days before the day so appointed for the hearing, and having given notice to them and all other persons (if any) who may be interested in the subject-matter of said street, whose names are not known to us, by posting up true and attested copies of the same notice in three public places in the town, seven days at least before the day appointed for the hearing.

Pursuant to such notice, we met at the time and place appointed, and no person appearing to object, and the route of the street having been viewed and examined by us, do adjudge that it is necessary for the public convenience that said street should be laid out and maintained by the town as hereinafter described by its center line:—

Beginning at a point on the southerly line of Commonwealth avenue situated 524.3 feet westerly from the southwesterly corner of Pleasant street and said Commonwealth avenue, said point being also situated 253 feet easterly from the southeasterly corner of Commonwealth avenue and Babcock street, thence running southerly and deflecting easterly $89^{\circ} 43' 30''$ for a distance of 276.28 feet; thence deflecting $23^{\circ} 20' 20''$ easterly and running southeasterly for a distance of 711.71 feet; thence curving to the left and running southeasterly with a curve of 152.09 feet radius for a distance of 176.92 feet; thence running easterly by a tangent for a distance of 281.81 feet to the westerly line of Pleasant street, and taking a parallel width of twenty-five (25) feet on both sides of said center line.

At the intersections of the side lines of said street with the westerly line of said Pleasant street, the corners are to be rounded with curves and the necessary land is hereby taken therefor, as follows, to wit: At the southwesterly corner with a curve having a radius of 10 feet, and at the northwesterly corner with a curve also having a radius of 10 feet; and taking from Fanny C. Adams, Charles Francis Adams, 2d, and Charles U. Cotting, trustees under the will of Caspar Crowninshield, Charles U. Cotting and Francis C. Welch, trustees under an indenture, about 72,387 square feet of land.

For a further identification of this description and location, reference is hereby made to a plan and profile made by Alexis H. French, Town Engineer, dated March 1st, 1900, approved by us, verified by our signatures, and adopted as a part of this record.

No awards are made. The owners of the land abutting upon said street, and of the fee of the land over which said street is laid out, in consideration of the laying out and its acceptance by the town, waive all claims to land, grade or other damages.

A sewer and surface-water drain have been laid in said street by the owners of the land, and we have agreed to pay for the same and levy assessments on abutting estates in the usual manner.

The street having been constructed by the owners of the fee is open to the public for travel. And said street as so laid out, located and described, is hereby reported to the town for acceptance as a townway, and when so accepted, allowed and recorded, is to be called Crowninshield road.

On motion of Mr. Horace James —

The Selectmen presented in print the following report on the laying out of Clark Road.

We, the undersigned, Selectmen of Brookline, having given printed and written notice to Lisa Curtis, being the only party known to us to be interested in the subject-matter of the street to be laid out, of our intention to lay out a street, substantially on the line of a part of Clark road, so called, such notice requiring said Lisa Curtis to appear before us at our room in the Town Hall, on Monday, March 5th, 1900, at 4.30 o'clock P. M., and having caused said notice to be actually served according to law, by a constable of this town, at least seven days before the day so appointed for the hearing, and having given notice to her and all other persons (if any) who may be interested in the subject-matter of said street, whose names are not known to us, by posting up true and attested copies of the same notice in three public places in the town, seven days at least before the day appointed for the hearing.

Pursuant to such notice, we met at the time and place appointed, and no person appearing to object, and the route of the street having been viewed and examined by us, do adjudge that it is necessary for the public convenience that said street should be laid out and maintained by the town as hereinafter described:—

The northerly line of location of Clark road begins at a stone bound set in the easterly line of Dean road at a point 17.03 feet distant southerly from the stone bound marking the southerly end of tangent at Dean-road bridge over the Brookline branch of Boston & Albany railroad, said distance being measured on said easterly line of Dean road, thence runs southerly curving easterly on a curve of 20 feet radius by land of Lisa Curtis 36.53 feet to a stone bound; thence easterly curving southerly on a curve of 1508.28 feet radius by land of said Lisa Curtis 753.08 feet to a stone bound; thence continuing easterly curving northerly on a curve of 80 feet radius by land of said Lisa Curtis 40.45 feet to a stone bound; thence S. 39° 9' E. (magnetic bearing) by land of said Lisa Curtis 90.63 feet to the division line between land of said Lisa Curtis and land of William B. Rice, said last-described line being tangent to the curve at a point 10 feet distant northerly from the point of reverse curvature in said northerly line of location measured at right angles thereto.

The Selectmen presented in print the following report on the laying out of Devotion Street.

We, the undersigned, Selectmen of Brookline, having given printed and written notice to the town of Brookline, the only party known to us to be interested in the subject-matter of the street to be laid out, of our intention to lay out a street substantially on the line of the extension of Devotion street to Stedman street, such notice requiring said town of Brookline to appear before us at our room in the Town Hall, on Monday, March 5th, 1900, at five o'clock P. At the intersections of the northerly and southerly lines of the said Devotion street with the easterly line of Stedman street the corners are to be rounded with curves, and the necessary land is hereby taken therefor, to wit: At the northeasterly corner with a curve having a radius of fifteen (15) feet, and at the southeasterly corner with a curve having a radius of twenty-five (25) feet, and taking from the town of Brookline 8,848 square feet of land.

We, the undersigned, Selectmen of Brookline, having given printed and written notice to Joseph H. White, Elizabeth P. Lee, the City of Boston, and Estate of Charles Heath, Edward Atkinson, trustee, being all the parties known to us to be interested in the subject-matter, of our intention to alter, widen and relocate Boylston street, between Sumner road and Fisher avenue, such notices requiring such persons to appear before us at our room in the Town Hall, on Monday, the nineteenth day of March, A. Pursuant to such notice, we met at the time and place appointed, and no person appearing to object, and the route of the street having been viewed and examined by us, do adjudge that it is necessary for the public convenience that said street should be altered, widened and relocated by the town as hereinafter described, so that the parcel of land hereinafter described is hereby made a part of said street as herein altered, widened and relocated. Said parcel is described as follows, to wit:—

Beginning at a point on the northerly line of Boylston street situated 62.18 feet westerly from its intersection with the center line of Sumner road, thence running westerly by a curve to the left of 8000 feet radius for a distance of 249.19 feet; thence running westerly by a tangent, for a distance of 279.72 feet; thence curving to the left with a radius of 941.96 feet, for a distance of 209.71 feet; thence running westerly by a tangent, for a distance of 645.42 feet; thence curving to the right with a radius of 800.00 feet, for a distance of 186.61 feet; thence running westerly by a tangent, for a distance of 85.34 feet; thence running easterly by a curve to the left of 1159.23 feet radius, for a distance of 270.41 feet; thence running easterly by a tangent, for a distance of 645.42 feet; thence curving to the right with a radius of 875.00 feet, for a distance of 211.97 feet; thence running easterly by a tangent, for a distance of 404.24 feet; thence deflecting $0^{\circ} 39' 38''$ southerly and running easterly for a distance of 124.61 feet to the point of beginning; and taking land as follows, viz.:—

From Joseph H. White 6,206 square feet.

The said alteration, widening and relocation of said Boylston street is in accordance with a plan and profile of the same, made by Alexis H. French, Town Engineer, dated March 14th, 1900, approved by us, and said plan and profile are adopted by us as a part of this record.

We have estimated the damages sustained by the owners of lands, rights and interests caused by said alteration, widening, relocation and construction of said street, whether by taking land or by injuring property in any manner whatsoever, and do estimate and determine the amount to be paid to the said parties respectively as follows:—

To Joseph H. White, $3,860.

To Elizabeth P. Lee $750, she agreeing to release all damages growing out of this laying out and its acceptance by the town, or growing out of the alteration, widening and relocation of Boylston street, accepted by the town on November 9th, 1899, in consideration of said sum of $750, and of the manner in which the work is to be done by the town, viz., a substantial mortar-laid retaining wall $2' 9''$ in height to be built along her entire frontage on Boylston street and so much of her land as will lie below the level of the new grade of the sidewalk to be filled up to the level of the sidewalk and surfaced with soil.

W. Y. GROSS, Constable.

In pursuance of the foregoing warrant, the inhabitants of the town of Brookline, qualified to vote in elections, met in the Town Hall, in said town, on Tuesday, the sixth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred, it being the Tuesday next after the first Monday in said month, and were called to order at six o'clock in the forenoon, by James M. Codman, Jr., Esq., of the board of Selectmen. The Town Clerk then read the warrant calling said meeting, and the return thereon of the officer who served the same upon the inhabitants.

Horace James, Esq., chairman of the board of Selectmen, took charge of the meeting after the reading of the warrant and acted as presiding election officer.

In conformity with the laws of the Commonwealth in relation to elections, the Town Hall had been fitted up as a polling place, a space railed off, and seventy shelves or compartments provided for the use and convenience of the voters, to examine and mark their ballots. Each compartment was supplied with suitable facilities for the purpose, and with cards of instruction.

The following having been appointed by the Selectmen were sworn by the Town Clerk to the faithful discharge of their duties as follows:—

A sealed package of ballots supplied by the Secretary of the Commonwealth, marked "Second set of ballots, 4150, Town of Brookline," was then delivered to the Ballot Clerks, by the Town Clerk, together with specimen ballots and cards of instruction, and their receipt therefor was taken in conformity to law.

The presiding election officer publicly broke the seal on the package, and delivered the ballots to the Ballot Clerks, who took their positions at the entrances to the polling place, and furnished the ballots to the voters who presented themselves and were found to be qualified. The Registrars of Voters had provided duplicate lists of the qualified voters entitled to vote at this election, one copy of which was placed in the hands of the Ballot Clerks at the entrance to the polling place, and the other copy was placed at the ballot-boxes in charge of Robert A. Smiley and Daniel J. Daley, checkers. No voter was furnished a ballot until his name had been found and checked on the list at the entrances to the polling place, and he was not allowed to deposit his ballot until his name had been found and checked on the list at the ballot-boxes. The cards of instruction and specimen ballots were posted in different parts of the building, outside the rail, as required by law.

The two ballot-boxes — the “Ideal,” as furnished by the Commonwealth to be used at elections — were then opened in public meeting, examined by the election officers and found to be empty. The register of each box was then set at zero (0), and the boxes were locked ; the keys were delivered to Willard Y. Gross, the constable appointed in charge of the election.

At nine minutes past six o'clock the polls were declared open for the reception of votes, and were kept open until thirty-two minutes after four o'clock in the afternoon, when, after due notice, they were declared closed.

By unanimous consent the ballot-boxes were opened at twenty minutes past eight o'clock, and also several times during the day, for the purpose of removing the ballots to be counted. The ballot-boxes were opened at the close of the polls, and the register of the “A to K” box stood at 1685, but this box had registered five times without taking in the ballot, so that the exact number of ballots deposited was 1680. The “L to Z” box register stood at 1591. The total of the registers of the two boxes indicated 3271 ballots to have been deposited.

The names checked on the voting lists by the Ballot Clerks at the entrances to the polling place, and by the Checkers at the ballot-boxes were counted up and compared and found to agree, and the number of names so checked was thirty-two hundred and seventy-one (3271), which agreed with the total number registered by the ballot-boxes.

The Ballot Clerks reported that forty-one hundred and forty-nine ballots were found by them in the package marked “4150,” of which thirty-two hundred and seventy-one (3271) had been delivered to voters, and eight hundred and seventy-eight (878) unused ballots were enclosed in a package, endorsed and sealed, and delivered to the Town Clerk.

The election officers then proceeded to canvass the votes given in, and the whole number was found to be thirty-two hundred and seventy-one (3271), which were sorted, counted and recorded, and declaration thereof made in open meeting, as required by law.

In counting the votes the blank forms approved by the Secretary of the Commonwealth were used by the Tellers.

WM. F. HUMPHREY,
LUTHER M. MERRILL,

Selectmen of Brookline.

NORFOLK, SS.

BROOKLINE, MASS., January, 12, 1901.

By virtue hereof, I have notified and warned the inhabitants of the town of Brookline qualified to vote in elections, to meet at the time and place and for the purposes herein named, by causing a true copy of this warrant to be left at their last and usual place of abode, and I also posted true copies of this warrant in three or more public places in said Brookline, all of which was done four days at least before the said day of meeting.

W. Y. GROSS, Constable.

In pursuance of the foregoing warrant the inhabitants of the town of Brookline, qualified to vote in elections, met at the Town Hall in said town on Thursday, the seventeenth day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and one, and were called to order at thirty minutes past seven o'clock in the evening, by the Town Clerk, who read the warrant calling said meeting, and the return thereon of the constable who served the same upon the inhabitants.

First Article taken up,—“To choose a Moderator.”

The meeting nominated and chose for Moderator, Rufus G. F. Candage.

Second Article taken up,—"To accept and allow the alteration and laying out of Walnut and Chestnut streets at their intersection, as laid out by the Selectmen and reported to the town at this meeting; and to appropriate $500 to pay the land damages and cost of constructing the same."

On motion of Mr. Horace James,—

Voted, That the reading of the report of the Selectmen on the alteration and laying out of Walnut and Chestnut streets at their intersection, be dispensed with.

The Selectmen presented in print the following report under this article:—

Alteration and Laying Out of Walnut and Chestnut Streets.

We, the undersigned, Selectmen of the town of Brookline, gave written notice to Martin P. Kennard, being the only party known to us from whom land is taken, or who may be interested in the subject matter of our intention to alter and lay out Walnut and Chestnut streets at their intersection, such notice requiring said Martin P. Kennard to appear before us at our room in the Town Hall, on Monday, the tenth day of December, 1900, at four o'clock P. M., and caused said notice to be actually served according to law upon said Martin P. Kennard by a constable of this town seven days at least before the day so appointed for the hearing, and gave notice to him and all other persons and corporations (if any) who may be interested in said alteration and laying out, whose names are not known to us, by posting up true and attested copies of such notice in three public places in the town seven days at least before the day appointed for said hearing.

Pursuant to such notice, we met at the time and place appointed for the hearing, and no person appearing to object, and the route of the streets as hereinafter described having been viewed and examined by us, after fully considering the subject, do adjudge that common convenience and necessity require that said streets should be altered and laid out, and they are hereby altered and laid out, over a parcel of land at their northwesterly intersection, bounded and described as follows:—

Beginning at a point on the southwesterly line of Chestnut street situated about 35 feet northwesterly from the northerly line of Walnut street; thence running southeasterly by the said southwesterly line of Chestnut street for a distance of 18.81 feet; thence running southerly by a curve of 12 feet radius for a distance of 24.60 feet to the northerly line of Walnut street; thence running southwesterly by the said northerly line of Walnut street 19.10 feet; thence running northerly by a curve to the left of 23.50 feet radius for a distance of 48.40 feet to the point of beginning; said parcel contains 240 square feet of land and is taken from Martin P. Kennard.

The alteration and laying out of said Walnut and Chestnut streets is in accordance with a plan and profile of the same made by Alexis H.

French, Town Engineer, dated December 6th, 1900, approved by us, verified by our signatures and adopted as a part of this record.

We have estimated the damages sustained by the said Kennard, the only party from whom land is taken by said alteration and laying out, whether by taking land or by injuring property in any manner whatsoever, and do determine and award the amount to be paid to him to be one hundred and twenty ($120.00) dollars.

The estimated cost of constructing said alteration and laying out is three hundred and twenty ($320.00) dollars.

And said alteration and laying out is hereby reported to the town for acceptance.

The said plan and this record have this day been filed in the office of the Town Clerk.

SECTION 3. If, within five days from the final adjournment or dissolution of such town meeting, a petition addressed to the selectmen shall be filed with the town clerk, signed by at least one hundred legal voters of said town requesting that any vote or votes passed at such meeting as aforesaid be submitted to the voters of said town at large for ratification, then the selectmen shall, after the expiration of said five days, forthwith call a town meeting for the sole purpose of submitting said vote or votes, except the final votes aforementioned, for such ratification to said voters at large. In case two or more votes passed at a town meeting relate to one subject-matter and a petition is filed as aforesaid for the ratification of one or more of such votes the selectmen may in their discretion submit in addition to those for which petitions are filed any or all of the votes, relating to the same subject-matter, and for this purpose a vote to borrow money shall be held to relate to the same subject-matter as the vote or votes to appropriate the money to be thus borrowed. The polls shall be opened at two o'clock in the afternoon, and shall be closed not earlier than nine o'clock in the evening, and a vote shall be taken by ballot upon the question, "Shall the following vote (or votes) passed at the town meeting (or at the adjourned town meeting) held on the day of 19 . . . , be ratified? All such petitions shall be preserved by the town clerk until at least twenty days after the final adjournment or dissolution of said meeting, and during said time shall be open to public inspection.

SECTION 5. It shall be the duty of the selectmen of said town to prepare the ballots to be used at such town meeting, and the conduct of such meeting shall be under their charge, subject to the laws relating to elections so far as the same may be applicable thereto.

SECTION 6. A meeting may be held for the purpose of submitting the question of the acceptance of this act to the legal voters of said town at any time within two years after the passage thereof. At such meeting the polls shall be open not less than eight hours and the vote shall be taken by ballot as in the case of the annual town election, in answer to the question, "Shall an act passed by the general court in the year entitled 'An act relating to town meetings in the town of Brookline' be accepted?" and the affirmative votes of a majority of the voters present and voting thereon shall be required for its acceptance. If at any meeting so held this act shall fail to be thus accepted it may at the expiration of three months from any such previous meeting be again thus submitted for acceptance, but not after the period of two years from the passage thereof.

REPORT.

The Selectmen submit the following report for the fiscal year ending January 31st, 1901:—

The year has been one of unusual activity in public work. The more important results accomplished have been the widening of Boylston, Harvard and Cypress streets, with the accompanying construction of new lines of street railway track on these streets and on Brookline avenue, the paving of Village Square with vitrified brick, the completion of the new Police Station and of the Pierce Grammar School, and the remodelling of the Town Hall and adjoining school-house. In addition to large sums required for these objects, $50,000 has been raised, but not yet expended, towards the cost of the proposed school on Druce street.

The Town Debt.

The net increase in the town debt has been $136,489. The whole debt is now $1,398,218, about $70 per capita for every man, woman and child in the town. The amounts borrowed have been $250,000 for the widening of Boylston street, $11,500 for land on Corey Hill and $13,500 for land adjoining the High School, $275,000 in all. This amount is payable in equal annual installments extending over ten years. The rate of interest is 3.15 per cent on $200,000 and 3.10 per cent on $75,000. Loans for $50,000 for widening Harvard street and $25,000 for widening Cypress street, authorized by the town, have not been made because it seemed probable that the cost of these widenings could be met from the unappropriated balance in the Treasury without borrowing. Accordingly, the cost of constructing these widenings, and such land damages as have been settled for, have been paid from the general balance in the Treasury. Loans amounting to $135,000, which were authorized for land for playgrounds, have not yet been issued, but purchases have been almost completed, which will require the borrowing of $55,000 of this amount.

There has been paid off $138,511 of debt which came due. The amount of debt to be paid off this year from taxes and receipts is $160,011. The usual comparative statement showing what these large payments are for, follows.

* Final payment.

A municipal debt should, as far as possible, be incurred only for objects of permanent value. The amount outstanding should always represent future rather than past enjoyment, and so debts ought not to be made payable at a time beyond the life of the object for which they are incurred. Debts payable at remote periods become an increasing burden when before their maturity other debts are added to them. The condition of our town debt is constantly improving in the particulars referred to. More than three quarters of it is for land and permanent improvements on land, leaving less than one quarter for buildings, fittings and machinery. Our debt is mostly payable by annual installments, and of the debt incurred for perishable objects, more has been paid off, in almost every case, than the amount of the depreciation. More than half our debt comes due in the next six years.

Population, Valuation and Tax Rate.

The population according to the United States Census is 19,935. The valuation of real and personal estate for 1900 is $77,952,900, compared with $74,530,000 in the previous year, an increase of $3,423,900. The tax rate was $10.20, a reduction of thirty cents from the previous year. Owing to the increase in the debt, the borrowing capacity under the municipal indebtedness law has decreased and is now $1,171,417.

Requirements of the New Year.

In the coming year, money must be provided for the new Manual Training School and the new Pumping Engine already authorized by the town, and an additional sum will be required to finish paying for the widening of Boylston street. Only half the estimated cost of the proposed school on Druce street has yet been raised. The construction of new contagious hospital accommodations, long discussed, cannot safely be delayed much longer. With all these large expenses to be met, great caution must be exercised in undertaking any more new enterprises and in making permanent increases in the regular annual appropriations, if the low tax rate is to be maintained.

State Tax.

This year the triennial reapportionment of the State tax is to be made. If the Tax Commissioners' figures are accepted by the Legislature, as they doubtless will be, our share of the State tax will be $27.21 for each $1,000, instead of $24.24, as at present. If the State tax remains $1,500,000, the amount at which it has stood for several years, our share will amount to $40,815, instead of $36,360. The tax is not likely to be decreased this year, and may be increased. Should the whole tax reach $2,000,000, our share would be $54,420.

County Tax.

Our proportion of the Norfolk County tax is also changed this year, and will be $27.21 out of every $69.98 of the County tax, or nearly 39 per cent, compared with a little more than 36 per cent at present. The County Commissioners estimate that a County tax of $150,000 will be sufficient this year. Last year the County tax was $165,000. Our share of $150,000 at the new rate comes to $58,322.66.

Metropolitan Sewer Tax.

The legislation of 1899 which provided for a new high level sewer, at an estimated cost of $4,600,000, also consolidated into a single sewerage district the areas formerly served by the Charles River Valley sewer and the Neponset Valley sewer, as well as the additional area to be drained through the high level sewer. All the cities and towns in the new consolidated South Metropolitan district are required to contribute towards the cost of maintaining all three of the Metropolitan sewers mentioned and towards the interest and sinking fund requirements of the loans issued for their cost. A new award of the proportions in which the different municipalities contribute to these expenses has been made by a special commission during the past year. The commissioners followed the precedents of previous awards and decided that the interest and sinking fund charges, representing construction, should be borne by the several municipalities in proportion to their respective valuations, and that the cost of maintenance should be proportioned to population, as a rough measure of use. The proportion of Brookline was fixed at 19.23 per cent for interest and sinking fund and 7.86 per cent for maintenance. The whole assessment for 1900 in accordance with these proportions was $23,334.87. On the basis of the loans now outstanding and the maintenance appropriations asked for by the Metropolitan Sewerage Commissioners, this year's assessment should be approximately $25,000. Only $1,000,000 of the $4,600,000 has yet been borrowed, however, and the borrowing of each additional million will increase our assessment about $6,750 a year, so that when the whole amount is borrowed our annual Metropolitan Sewer tax is likely to be not less than $50,000.

Metropolitan Park Tax.

As stated in the Selectmen's report for the town meeting of last November, a special commission has fixed the proportions in which the cities and towns are to contribute to the cost of the Metropolitan Park system, including Nantasket Beach, and the percentage of Brookline was fixed so high that the matter was taken to the Supreme Court, where it is still pending. The percentage assigned to Brookline is 6.029% of the Park and Boulevard expenses, and 5.90793% of Nantasket Beach. These percentages are larger than are warranted by any consideration of valuation, population or special benefits, and the reasons for them have not been explained. They are larger than those assigned to any other city or town, except Boston, whose percentage was fixed by the Legislature. If the award is confirmed the assessment for 1900 will be $31,185.92, and this amount has been set aside, ready to be paid if required. The whole amount of loans issued by the state for Metropolitan Parks is $6,805,000 and for Boulevards $3,025,000. On the basis of outstanding loans and the maintenance appropriation asked for, the percentage of the Commission's award would require an assessment for 1901 of about $34,500. The flood of propositions pending for new loans for these purposes makes it, however, hardly profitable to speculate as to what figures this tax may grow to.

Appropriations.

The amount of the annual and minor exceptional appropriations recommended for the current financial year, as shown in the table below, is $1,064,355.49 compared with total amounts charged against the taxes and receipts of previous years of —

$1,044,971.75	$1,040,765.13	$1,213,811.25

These figures taken in connection with the probable receipts and the unappropriated balance on hand indicate that only a portion of the cost of the undertakings, for which new special appropriations are contemplated, can be met from taxes and receipts without an increase in the tax rate. It is therefore important that only so much of the cost of these new undertakings as may be actually needed during the current fiscal year be provided for at present.

The net expenditures from all sources, after deducting payments on account of maturing debt, compare as follows: —

The appropriations recommended for the current year are presented below in tabular form, both in groups and in detail. The formal vote authorizing and limiting the expenditure of the various appropriations will be presented later. Such a vote has been in use for several years and has proved very convenient.

The amounts recommended for Schools, Library, Water Works, Parks and Tree planting, are recommended by the several boards having those matters in charge and have not received the independent judgment of the Selectmen.

Highway Department.

The work of this department has been carried on in the usual manner without any especially noteworthy changes. The cost of removing snow and ice has been unexpectedly small, and this has made possible a correspondingly large amount of other work on the streets within the appropriation. The vitrified brick pavement in Village Square has greatly improved the conditions at that very crowded spot. Horses properly driven have not been found to slip much on it. Estimates are being made of the cost of paving Harvard Square in a similar manner. The same appropriations as last year are recommended for highways, sidewalks and street watering.

A classified statement of the expenses from the highway appropriation for several years is as follows:—

	1898.	1899.	1900.	1901.

Lighting Streets.

A considerable number of new lights, mostly of the Welsbach pattern, have been added during the year. The lighting of Harvard Square has been much improved by placing an arc light at the corner of Davis avenue and Washington street. The Elevated Railway Company has asked permission to place a cluster of incandescent lights upon the pole opposite the transfer station in the village, and this permission has been given.

The Brookline Gas Light Company is now ready to make a new contract for electric lighting providing for the improved enclosed arc form of lights. The company has recently made a contract with the city of Boston, and has submitted a similar proposition to the town, the terms and details of which are under consideration by the Selectmen. A better diffused light can be obtained with the enclosed arc, but more lights are needed and the price per light is about the same. Some of these lights are now being put in on Beacon street.

The Welsbach lights continue to give satisfaction on a large number of the streets in the town. The care of them by the company was for a time not up to the standard required, but this has been remedied and now leaves nothing to be desired. The oil lights have been continued on outlying streets.

To maintain the existing lights and those already ordered for Beacon street, with a reasonable allowance for new lights, will require an appropriation of $49,000, as figured in detail below. Should enclosed arc lights be adopted instead of those now in use, and put in at a distance of not more than 300 feet apart, an addition of at least $12,000 to this amount would be needed.

Police Department.

The Police department moved into the new building in November, and when the new vault is fitted up will be comfortably established, with everything needful for the efficiency of the department. The Selectmen approve the recommendation of the Chief of Police that four more men be added to the force, chiefly in order that a new route may be established in the Chestnut Hill district. It will cost somewhat more in fuel, lighting and janitor service to maintain the new building than it did the old one, and a new horse must be purchased to replace an old one.

An appropriation of $59,000 is recommended, made up as follows:—

		Expended in 1900.
Salary of Chief	$1,800 00
Inspector and 2 Lieutenants @ $1,400	4,200 00
3 Sergeants @ $1,250	3,750 00

Police and Fire Alarm Telegraph, Poles and Wires.

In addition to the regular work of maintaining the fire and police alarm telegraph system, the central apparatus has been moved to the new police station. A repeater has been placed at fire department headquarters for sounding fire alarms received by telephone, two new fire department boxes and two new police boxes have been put in, all the old-style police boxes which remained have been changed to the modern style, and a greater amount than last year of the town's wires have been put under ground. Two new wagons have been purchased to replace old ones sold. The rooms in the new police station assigned for the police and fire alarm batteries, switchboard and other apparatus, are thoroughly well equipped, and the improved police boxes also add to the efficiency of the system. No new apparatus is asked for this year. Space has been reserved in the conduit laid by the telephone company in Boylston street for the town's wires on that street, and it is intended that these wires shall be put under ground early in the coming season.

In accordance with the contract of the West End Railway, printed in last year's report, the feed wires on Beacon street, from St. Mary's street to Coolidge's Corner, have been put under ground and the current shut off from the old wires, which will shortly be removed altogether. Work is progressing on the telephone wires on Beacon street, and they are expected to be removed in a few weeks. After several conferences with

Mr. H. M. Whitney and other officers of the gas company, they agreed to bury all the electric light wires on Beacon street as far out as Marion street, and this is nearly finished. Public opinion, in favor of removing overhead wires and unsightly poles, is steadily growing, and while this work cannot all be done at once, the different companies understand that in Brookline progress in this direction must be continuous, and they all plan to do something each year.

The appropriation asked for is $6,000, made up as follows:—

	Recommended 1901.	Expended 1900.
Salary of Superintendent	$1,500 00	$1,500 00
Wages of assistants	1,677 00	1,560 90

Fire Department.

A new combination wagon has been purchased for the new engine house on Washington street, as recommended in the last annual report. The engine house on Boylston street has been entirely remodelled and the cost charged to the widening of Boylston street, as it was made necessary by the change of grade in that street. New heating apparatus has been put in at the Monmouth-street station and two additional regular permanent men have been appointed. These last expenses, together with the expense caused by the unusual amount of sickness which prevailed in the department in the latter part of the year, involving the hiring of temporary men, were more than the appropriation provided for. When the condition of the appropriation was brought to the attention of the Selectmen by the Commissioner his statement was accompanied by the suggestion that his own salary be withheld in order that the appropriation might not be overdrawn. While an interesting precedent might have been set by adopting the suggestion, the Selectmen deemed it best, on the whole, to assume the responsibility of ordering the salary paid. The Fire department is now a thoroughly efficient one, as of course it ought to be when the great increase in its cost is considered. The amount recommended by the Commissioner for salaries for 1901 is a little more than $50,000, compared with an expenditure of about $28,500 in 1898, and of less than $19,000 in 1895. The Selectmen approve the Commissioner's recommendations for the purchase of new hose and a new wagon and for the remodelling of the old steamer.

	Recommended 1901.	Expended 1900.
Salary of Fire Commissioner	$500 00
Salaries of present force of 40 permanent men	42,649 75
Additional pay for officers from May 5th	1,190 00

Sewers and Surface-Water Drains.

A considerable balance remains unexpended in the appropriations for the construction of sewers and drains. About $12,000 is due Mrs. Curtis for sewers and drains which the town has agreed to purchase in the new streets on Fisher Hill. The sewer assessments on these sewers amount to about $9,000, and it was expected that the matter would be settled by the payment of the balance before the end of the fiscal year. If the Neponset Valley Metropolitan sewer be extended to the Brookline line a number of sewers should be laid at once in the vicinity of Newton and Hammond streets. The Engineer's estimate of the cost of this work is $23,000. The question of surface-water drainage in the same neighborhood is also under consideration. The increased cost of sewers to be expected this year will, of course, be to some extent offset by sewer assessments.

For some years a small section of the city of Newton has been drained through the Brookline sewer system, and this year an agreement has been made by the terms of which this service is to be continued, in consideration of which the city of Newton has paid to the town of Brookline the sum of $11,000.

Engineering Department.

The work on Boylston street has occupied the attention of this department throughout the year. The press of work on this matter and the moving of the department from place to place as the work of altering the Town Hall proceeded have delayed various matters, and much remains to be done to bring all the regular work of the department up to date. The new offices for the Engineering department are almost ready for occupancy.

The same appropriation as last year is asked for.

The Changes in the Town Hall.

Although the work on the Town Hall and connecting school-house is not quite finished, and several town officers are not yet established in their new quarters, it is already difficult to realize what the old crowded conditions were, so great is the improvement which has been effected. Instead of the dark, dingy, old-fashioned, cramped offices with scarcely room to work or to lay things down in, many departments have already been provided, and all soon will be, with spacious, light, clean, convenient, modern offices, equipped for work, although without display of any kind. To make over and connect two old buildings in such a way as to furnish suitable offices for the numerous different town officers seemed to many a difficult, if not impossible, task, but its success has fully justified the undertaking. Whatever the architectural defects in these buildings as originally planned, both were thoroughly well built, and are today as sound and as strong as when they were new, notwithstanding the cutting of doors and windows and other alterations. The changes in the schoolhouse were tolerably simple, specifications were made and the work let out by contract. In the Town Hall it was difficult, if not impracticable, to foresee in advance precisely what work would be necessary, and rather than make contracts upon partial specifications, with the inevitable result of having large bills for extras, it was deemed best to begin the carpenter and mason work by the day, the town itself in the latter case employing the workmen directly. As the work went on, it became feasible to make specifications and contracts for certain things, such as painting, plastering and wiring, and this was done. The cost of remodelling the schoolhouse and building the connecting passage has been less than $25,000. The cost of remodelling the lower floor of the Town Hall has been less than $12,000. These figures do not include the architect's commissions. A little more than $6,000 has been expended or contracted for on account of furniture, fittings, interior telephones, repairs and cleaning. By far the largest item in this sum is for vault fittings in the vaults provided for the Treasurer, Town Clerk, Assessors and Engineer. While these fittings are expensive, their convenience and value for expediting the town's business can hardly be overestimated. Several hundred dollars have been spent in cleaning and repairing old furniture and gas fixtures, changing gas pipes and clearing away old pipes, removing rubbish and general cleaning up. Most of this work, and some of the painting, should have been done even if no other repairs or changes had been made. The necessity for and the price of every new article of furniture has been carefully scrutinized before giving the order. Nothing has been paid or contracted for in excess of the appropriation, although a considerable amount of additional furniture is needed, and some of it is indispensable. While a considerable part of what has been done is of a kind that would ordinarily be charged to the regular appropriation for maintenance of the Town Hall, it has seemed best to the Selectmen to charge all the expenses mentioned to the special appropriation and to ask for an additional appropriation for such additional objects as are necessary. A detailed list of what is required will be submitted at the annual meeting, and meanwhile it is proposed to adhere rigidly to the rule that the amount of the appropriation is the limit beyond which no expenditure will be authorized by the Selectmen. The whole appropriation is $45,000, and if there be added to this the special appropriations of $1,000 for changing the entrance and $675 for Treasurer's safe, as well as $4,918 expended early in the year in strengthening the roof and repairing the windows in the upper hall, together with the probable cost of additional furnishings, the total cost will be about $55,000, which cannot be considered excessive in view of the difficulty of the problem and the results accomplished.

Widening of Boylston Street.

The work of widening Boylston street was pushed forward vigorously as early in the spring as the weather permitted. There were a great many pipes, wires and conduits of all sorts in the street, and nearly all were moved and relaid and many additional ones had to be put in. All this underground apparatus is the property of a number of different independent corporations, which, for the most part, were unable to work at the same time, and a good deal of delay inevitably resulted. Another source of delay was the use of the street itself for the storage of material taken from one section until it should be needed in another. Under these conditions, the completion of the whole widening in a single season was more than could reasonably be expected. Nevertheless, the extremely dry weather throughout the summer, and the very late autumn, which made work possible up to Christmas, resulted in the substantial completion of the work and the opening of the new street and car line for travel throughout. There remains, however, a good deal to be done in the spring in the way of paving gutters, putting down concrete sidewalks, crosswalks, fencing, changing grade of Chestnut Hill road at its southerly intersection with Boylston street, planting trees and grass, and other minor items. A more detailed account of the work of construction will be found in the Engineer's report.

In accordance with its agreement made in connection with the grant of the location, the West End Railway put down its rails on different sections of the street as fast as asked to do so. As the tax paid by the street railway company for 1901 is to be apportioned according to the mileage in operation on September 30, 1900, a special effort was made to get cars running on at least a portion of the route before the latter date, and on September 29th the line was opened, with cars running regularly as far as Chestnut Hill avenue.

The Selectmen have had a great number of interviews with owners of land along the street who claimed damages, and, acting under the general advice of counsel, have settled a large proportion of all the claims made, upon fairly reasonable terms. Suits have been brought by Johnson Brothers, owning land at the corner of Cypress street; Luke Mahon, near Reservoir lane; the Wrights, who own a long frontage above Reservoir lane; Maud O. Wilkinson, nearly opposite Norfolk road; Rose L. Saltonstall, at the corner of Chestnut Hill road, and James J. Lynch, at the corner of Hammond street. All these, except Mahon and Wilkinson, are cases of damage to vacant land. It is expected that several more of these claims will be settled without trial. In some cases it has been possible to make settlements by doing some construction work for the landowner. The Selectmen's awards for damages were $55,509. Claims upon which the awards amounted to $44,110 have been settled by the payment of $56,248.29, an increase of $12,138.29 over the awards. Claims upon which the awards amount to $11,399 are still outstanding.

The estimate for construction was $198,700. There has been paid for construction $193,568.26, a portion of which is for work not included in the original estimate, and done outside the limits of the street in lieu of cash payment to settle additional claims made for land damages, and to make the changes found necessary in the engine house. To complete the work mentioned above and to pay for work already done, bills for which are now in course of adjustment, will cost, according to the Engineer's present estimate, $22,500. This will make the whole amount to be paid for construction about $216,000, approximately $17,300 more than was originally estimated. Perhaps half of this $17,300 is due to the work already referred to not included in the original estimate. A part is due to the use on Chestnut Hill road of material taken from Boylston street instead of using it there, a corresponding balance remaining unexpended in the appropriation for Chestnut Hill road. One item underestimated by the Engineer in his original calculation was the amount of new material required for filling on certain parts of the street in excess of what was obtained by excavation in other parts.

The whole cost of the widening is now calculated at $283,647.29, as follows:—

Estimate for construction including changes authorized at the annual meeting	$198,700 00
Expended for construction		$193,500 00
Additional estimate for construction due in part to work done in lieu of land damages and in part to underestimate of amount of extra material needed	17,300 00
Amount of bills in course of adjustment and estimated cost of additional construction		22,500 00
Awards for land damages	55,509 00
Paid for land damages		56,248 29
Amount already paid for land damages in excess of awards in cases settled	12,138 29
Awards on unsettled claims		11,399 00
Present estimate of cost of widening	$283,647.29	$283,647.29

The town has so far authorized the borrowing of $250,000 in all, and the whole of this amount has been borrowed. This leaves $33,647.29 to be provided now. In addition to this, it will be necessary to pay any sums which may be recovered, in excess of the awards, on the claims now in suit. Nothing has been included in the estimates for work on the old part of Boylston street running over Wright's Hill. This piece of street, which has been subjected to unusually severe usage during the past year, should now be repaired and fenced and the surface water taken care of. The cost of all this will be about $1,200, and it seems best to include this amount in the general appropriation for the widening rather than to make it the subject of another appropriation.

Widening of Harvard Street.

This work was done by the Street department early in the season. The estimated cost of construction was $18,000, and $15,814.26 has been expended, with some crosswalks and other small items still to be done. The awards for land damages were $30,375. Suits have been brought by the heirs of E. C. Wilson and by Mary I. Wason. Three other small claims remain unsettled. With these exceptions, all the claims have been settled by the payment of the amounts awarded.

Widening of Cypress Street.

This work was also done by the Street Department during the summer. The estimated cost of construction was $11,000, and $9,223.26 has been expended. Some of the sidewalks included in the estimate have not yet been constructed. The total awards for land damages were $13,567. Claims on which the awards amounted to $7,925 have been settled for $9,775. Five claims upon which the awards amount to $5,617 remain unsettled. Suit has been brought by Johnson Brothers at the corner of Boylston street.

Legislation.

Since the publication of our last report, the bill referred to in that report authorizing the town to take additional water from Charles River has become a law, and will be submitted to the town for acceptance at the annual meeting.

Bills embodying the legislation which the Selectmen were instructed at the last town meeting to apply to the present General Court for have been presented by Representative Dean, and are now pending. They are three in number, and relate to extending the Neponset Valley sewer to the Brookline line, the choice of Moderators on the official ballot, and the submission to a vote by ballot of certain action of town meetings at which 700 or more are present.

Purchase of Land for School Purposes.

During the year the town made appropriations for the purchase of two lots of land for school purposes, one adjoining the Parsons School, and the other adjoining the High School. The details of completing the purchases were left to the Selectmen. Much trouble was experienced in obtaining the lot near the Parsons School, as rights which would prevent the transaction from going through were claimed by different persons. After nine months of wearisome negotiation, it was found that the matter could be satisfactorily arranged by the payment of $100 in excess of the appropriation, and the Selectmen took the responsibility of doing this, feeling at least partially justified by the fact that the saving in interest during the nine months and the amount of the taxes which were levied and paid during that time somewhat exceeded that amount. The other lot was purchased without difficulty for the price agreed upon.

Old Brookline Cemetery.

The Selectmen have been asked to provide in some way for perpetual care of lots in the Old Brookline Cemetery on Walnut street. For many years the town has annually made a small appropriation and chosen a committee on the cemetery, usually consisting of a single undertaker, and in 1850 it was voted in town meeting "that the Committee be authorized to make the annual improvements in the grounds, and draw upon the Treasury for the funds to meet such expenditures." In order that the matter may receive the attention it deserves, we recommend that the town vote at the annual meeting to add the Trustees of Walnut Hills Cemetery to the Committee on the Brookline Cemetery without, however, giving them any authority to restrict the rights of lot owners.

Contingencies.

It seems to the Selectmen that the expenses of the Assessors, Town Clerk and Town Treasurer, now charged to this appropriation, can advantageously be made the subject of separate appropriations. The various appropriations now made for the Assessors' department for salaries and clerical and draughting assistance can be combined with the cost of stationery, printing, postage, carriage hire, lists of deeds, and other expenses now charged to contingencies, and a single appropriation made, similar to the one for the Engineering department. In the same manner the Town Clerk's and Town Treasurer's expenses can all be brought together and charged to single appropriations. The same principle can perhaps, be further extended in course of time but these departments are enough to begin with.

The usual comparative summary of the expenditures from this appropriation is given below. If the plan of making separate appropriations for the Assessors', Town Clerk's and Town Treasurer's departments is adopted a corresponding reduction should be made in the $14,000 recommended for contingencies.

Exterior Repairs of Town Buildings.

The total cost of this work has been $3076.07. A detailed statement of the work done and paid for up to November 10th was published in the Selectmen's report on the articles in the warrant for the town meeting of November 22d. The shingling of the Parsons School, mentioned in that report, has been begun but not finished. Since November 10th there has been expended the sum of $300.53, chiefly for petty repairs on school-houses, and for repairing bulkhead and steps of the Public Library. The Accountant's report will show the work of the whole year in detail.

Guide Boards.

In compliance with the Statutes we report that the same guide boards have been maintained as previously reported. They are, in our opinion, sufficient for the present.

Reports.

The reports of the different boards and heads of departments, which contain much valuable information, can be obtained by citizens on application to the Town Clerk. Some matters which the Selectmen might be expected to report upon are so fully treated in these reports that repetition here seems unnecessary.

REPORT ON SUITS TO WHICH THE TOWN IS A PARTY.

BOSTON, January 28th, 1901.
HORACE JAMES, ESQ.,

Chairman Board of Selectmen, Brookline, Mass. : —

DEAR SIR,—I report as follows concerning the suits I have had charge of for the town:—

First.

Stephen A. Ferrin vs. Brookline.

I have nothing to add to my report of last year in regard to this case.

Second.

Ætna Mills et al. vs. Brookline.

These are the cases of the mill owners on Charles river against the town of Brookline. There were twelve separate cases brought in the County of Norfolk, and twelve in the County of Suffolk, by the same parties. Commissioners to hear the cases have been appointed in the Norfolk cases, and the Superior Court has ordered the Suffolk cases to be dismissed. The mill owners have taken exceptions to the order dismissing the Suffolk cases, and these exceptions will have to be argued in the Supreme Judicial Court.

Third.

James Quinn vs. Brookline.

Thomas J. Kelley et al. vs. Brookline.

Thomas J. Kelley vs. Brookline.

Walstein R. Chester vs. Brookline.

There is nothing to be added to my report of last year concerning these cases.

Fourth.

Martha A. McKay vs. Brookline.

David H. McKay vs. Brookline.

These are petitions for damages for the laying out of Naples road, and nothing has been done with regard to these cases since my last report.

Fifth.

All Saints Parish of Brookline vs. Brookline.

All Saints Parish of Brookline vs. Brookline.

These two cases were heard in the Superior Court on agreed facts, and were reported to the Supreme Judicial Court by the judge who heard them. They were argued before the full bench at the present January sitting, and we are now awaiting the decision of the court.

Sixth.

Mary Cleary vs. Brookline.

I have nothing to add to my report of last year concerning this case.

Seventh.

Samuel B. Thing vs. Brookline.

I have nothing to add to my report of last year in this case.

Eighth.

Joseph H. Darragh vs. Brookline.

This was an action brought to recover damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained by reason of a fall on the sidewalk on Boylston street, Brookline.

The case was tried before Judge Sherman and a jury, and the jury returned a verdict for the defendant, which disposed of the case.

Ninth.

Town of Dedham vs. Brookline.

This is a bill in equity to secure the removal of a so-called dam of gravel erected by the Water Board in Charles river, for the protection of the water supply of the town. No action having been taken in this case, there is nothing to add to my report of last year.

Tenth.

L. Shannon Davis et al. vs. Brookline.

This was a petition for damages caused by the laying out of Greenough street through the land of the petitioners.

The case was referred under a rule of court to Albert L. Lincoln, Jr., as referee, and judgment for $3316.36 was entered for the petitioners, and the proper entries made on the docket of the court disposing of the case. The parties appeared before the referee without counsel, Mr. L. Shannon Davis appearing for the petitioners, and Mr. Horace James for the town.

Eleventh.

Rose L. Saltonstall vs. Brookline.

This is a petition for land damages on Boylston street. This case was entered in May, 1900, but has not yet come up for trial.

Twelfth.

Charles P. Gardner vs. Brookline.

This was a petition for abatement of taxes. The petitioner was assessed a tax on his personal estate in the town of Brookline. He claims to be a resident of Newcastle, Maine. The petitioner applied to the Assessors for an abatement on the ground that he was not legally taxable in Brookline, and upon their refusal to make the abatement appealed to the Superior Court.

The facts in the case were agreed upon by me after consultation with the Assessors, and the case was argued before a judge sitting without a jury at the last October sitting of the Superior Court. The court reserved its decision.

Thirteenth.

M. F. Dickinson, Jr., vs. Brookline.

This is an action brought by the plaintiff to recover a tax paid by him under protest, on the ground that he is not legally taxable in Brookline. The case has not yet come up for trial.

Fourteenth.

Maud O. Wilkinson vs. Brookline.

This is a petition for land damages on Boylston street entered July, 1900.

Fifteenth.

Martha A. McKay vs. Brookline.

Martha A. McKay vs. Brookline.

These are two petitions for land damages, one for the laying out of Thorndike street, and the other for the laying out of Coolidge street.

Sixteenth.

Luke Mahan vs. Brookline.

Luke Mahan vs. Brookline.

One of these cases is an action of tort, and the other a petition for land damages, both growing out of the widening of Boylston street, Brookline, and have recently been brought.

Seventeenth.

Charles G. White et al. Trustees, vs. Brookline.

Charles G. White et al. Trustees, vs. Brookline.

Charles G. White et al. Trustees, vs. Brookline.

These are petitions for land damages for the laying out of Boylston street, and were returnable to the Superior Court in the present month.

Eighteenth.

Eben Wright et al. vs. Brookline.

Esther Wright et al. vs. Brookline.

These are two petitions for land damages growing out of the laying out of Boylston street, and have just been entered.

Nineteenth.

Harriet C. Moore vs. Brookline.

This was a petition for land damages growing out of the widening of Boylston street, Brookline, and was settled after conference between the Selectmen and myself for $2000, and the proper entries made in court.

Twentieth.

Richard P. Waters vs. Brookline.

This is an action brought to recover for injuries to a horse and harness belonging to the plaintiff, alleged to be due to a defect on Hammond street. As the defect, if there was any, was due to the action of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, that company has been notified by me to come in and defend the case.

Twenty-First.

Mary H. Tivnin vs. Brookline.

This is an action of tort for injuries alleged to have been sustained by the plaintiff owing to a defect in Boylston street. As the defect, if there was any, was due to the acts of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, I have notified that company to come in and defend.

Twenty-Second.

William G. Wilson et al. vs. Brookline.

Emeline G. Wilson vs. Brookline.

These are two petitions for land damages growing out of the widening of Harvard street, and have just been entered in court.

Twenty-Third.

Twenty-Fourth.

James J. Lynch et al. vs. Brookline.

This is a petition for land damages growing out of the widening of Boylston street, and has just been entered in court.

Twenty-Fifth.

Mary I. Wason vs. Brookline.

This is a petition for damages growing out of the widening of Harvard street, and has just been entered in court.

Twenty-Sixth.

Nicholas J. Larkin vs. Brookline.

This is an action of tort in which the plaintiff claims damages for injuries due to an alleged defect on the corner of Clark road and Boylston street in Brookline, and is returnable at the March sitting of the Superior Court at Dedham.

Twenty-Seventh.

Stephen M. Weld vs. Brookline.

This is a bill in equity brought in the Supreme Judicial Court to secure the removal of the dam referred to in the case of Dedham vs. Brookline, on the ground that said dam causes the plaintiff's meadows to be overflowed. This case has not yet come up for trial.

Twenty-Eighth.

Town of Brookline vs. Sidney C. Whiting et als.

This was a bill in equity brought in the Supreme Judicial Court against the owners of the Hotel Wollaton to compel them to take the structure down or to make it safe.

It was necessary to make all persons who claimed any interest in the property defendants, and the title to the property proved to be very much involved.

After numerous hearings, the court last summer made two decrees requiring the defendants to take the building down or to make the same safe before September 1st, 1900. The effect of these decrees was to compel the parties to settle their respective claims among themselves, and the result was that the whole title to the property finally became vested in the first mortgagee. As it was not practicable for the first mortgagee to comply with the decree of the court requiring the property to be taken down or made safe before the first of September last, I consented to a modification of that decree, extending the time, and the present owners of the property at once entered upon the business of strengthening and restoring the building. The work of restoration is being done under the supervision of French & Bryant, and, as I believe, has been pushed forward in good faith and with due diligence. In the meantime the bill in equity has been retained by the court, which will enable the court to make further decrees should any be required.

Twenty-Ninth.

William B. De Las Casas, Metropolitan Park Commissioners, vs. Brookline.

This was a petition for the appointment of commissioners to apportion among the cities and towns in the Metropolitan Park District the expenses of construction and maintenance of Metropolitan parks and boulevards.

Commissioners were appointed, and made an award which seemed to the Selectmen and to the counsel of the town to be very unjust to the town of Brookline. It was believed that the amount which the commissioners required the town of Brookline to pay was out of all proportion to the benefit received. Accordingly steps were taken to have the case reported to the full bench of the Supreme Judicial Court, where it was argued at the last November sitting, and we are now awaiting the decision of the court.

I will add that a number of claims for land damages have been settled by the Selectmen during the year, acting in pursuance of my general advice.

Yours very truly,

CHARLES A. WILLIAMS.

Assessors' Plans.

It will be noticed in the division of the expenses of the department that the sum of $539 was spent on these plans. This work was done early in the year in order that the plans should be as nearly up to date as possible on the first of May, when the Assessors begin their work. Inasmuch as the town, at the adjournment of the annual meeting on April 11, 1900, made provision in the appropriation for the Assessors' department for "draughting assistance," little or no work has been done on the plans by this department since that time.

Sewers and Drains.

Aside from the sewers and drains acquired by purchase and those built in Boylston street in connection with the improvement of that street, a much smaller amount has been built by the town than for several years past. It does not follow from this fact, however, that the usual quantity will not be called for the coming year.

In connection with the development of the Crowninshield estate on Pleasant street, and the Lisa Curtis land on Fisher Hill, the sewers and drains were laid in advance of the street construction in order to avoid breaking up the road surfacing. Water and gas mains were laid for the same purpose. On the acceptance of the streets by the town, the sewers and drains became public property, the town to pay the cost of the same, and assess the abutting property as if the work had been done by the town. It should be said in passing that the plans for work done under such circumstances are either the work of this department or approved by it, and that under a recent decision of your board, such sewers and drains laid by private parties in places where they are likely to become public property are inspected by appointees of this department.

The most important surface drainage work undertaken for several years has been done this season in the Chestnut Hill district, the drainage area being about ninety acres in extent, situated between Boylston street and the Boston and Albany railroad, and extending easterly from Hammond street to Reservoir lane. The district in question has an almost absolutely impervious soil, slopes to the northward, and has been very difficult to build upon in such a way as to secure dry cellars.

The natural drainage was originally into the swamp on the site of the Chestnut Hill reservoir, but is now into a brick masonry channel, built in Beacon street by the city of Boston to divert the surface drainage around the reservoir.

To secure a proper outlet it became necessary to arrange with the authorities of the city of Boston and the Metropolitan water department for permission to lay an additional 24" drain in Reservoir lane, within the city limits and opposite the pumping station, the original channel being too small to provide for the increased flow due to the improvement of the water-shed.

The outlet of the new drain is into the open brook channel beneath the railroad, at a point about 130 feet westerly from Reservoir lane, is 42" in diameter for a distance of about 450 feet, 36" in diameter for a distance of about 1050 feet, 28" by 35" for a distance of about 1,300 feet, and smaller sizes for the balance of the system, as shown in the appended table. Excepting for a short distance near the railroad, the new drains are either located in a projected street on the Lyman and Craft land or in Middlesex road, Chestnut Hill road, Devon road, and Norfolk road, which are already townways.

Owing to the peculiar relation of the town boundary to the system of streets, it was necessary to obtain permission from the city of Newton to build and maintain about 650 feet of 28" by 35" drain in Middlesex road, a public way, and from private parties authority to build 250 feet of 24" by 30" drain in Chestnut Hill road, and 140 feet of 10" drain in Devon road, both being private ways within the limits of Newton and public ways in Brookline.

The work done incidentally benefits some of the wet lands in Newton, but probably 90 per cent of the flow will be collected from lands in Brookline, is conducted into Newton and is then brought back into Brookline farther down the valley.

The drain furnishes an outlet for the surface water collected on Boylston street between Chestnut Hill road and the summit about 1,200 feet east of the same.

The estimated cost of the work was	$20,000 00
The actual cost	19,977 74
Balance unexpended	_____	$22 26

The details of sewer and drain construction for the year are given in the appended tables.

Boylston Street Widening.

This improvement, which has been under discussion for several years, and, for a considerable time, in work of a similar character has only been exceeded in magnitude by the Parkway construction commenced in 1890, and the Beacon street improvement begun in 1887, was so far advanced toward completion that the street was opened to travel throughout its length the latter part of December.

Before widening, the street had a width of $57\frac{3}{4}$ feet from Cypress street to Sumner road, and a varying width of from 45 feet to 65 feet between Sumner road and Chestnut Hill avenue, the average width between these two points being about 57 feet. The section between Chestnut Hill avenue and the Newton line had widths varying from 56 feet to 63 feet, with an average width of about 58 feet.

The plan of widening accepted by the town November 9, 1899, and the modification of that widening, opposite the Boston reservoir, accepted at the annual meeting March 29, 1900, gives a street of a uniform width of 75 feet from Cypress street to Chestnut Hill avenue. Above Chestnut Hill avenue the street was widened to a uniform width of 65 feet, excepting for a distance of about 1500 feet opposite Wright's Hill, so called, where the maximum width is about 138 feet.

Below Sumner road the street is constructed with two sidewalks each 6 feet wide, two planting spaces each 5 feet wide, and a roadway 53 feet wide, in the centre of which the car tracks are located. Between Sumner road and Chestnut Hill avenue the street is graded with a single sidewalk, 7 feet wide, placed on the northerly side, adjoining which is a tree-planting space 5 feet wide, then a roadway 34 feet wide, and then a car reservation 29 feet wide adjoining the southerly line of the street. In those parts of the street above Chestnut Hill avenue, where the width is 65 feet, it is graded with walks and tree-planting spaces on either side, 6 feet and 5 feet wide respectively, with a roadway 43 feet wide, in the center of which the tracks are located.

At Wright's Hill, in order to avoid the steep grades of the old street and yet furnish access to the abutting land on either side, the new way has been graded at two levels, the southerly roadway being left at its original elevation and the northerly one so graded that at the point of greatest difference it is 18 feet lower than the other. The space between the two roadways is occupied by a slope, although for a short distance, on account of insufficient width, it was necessary to build a low retaining wall in addition. The northerly roadway at this point has the same cross-section as that opposite the Boston Reservoir, excepting that the street-car reservation is three feet narrower.

Although the street has been much improved by the comparatively slight addition to its width, the most important change has been in the improvement of the grades, many of which made the use of parts of the street practically prohibitive for the heavier class of traffic, such as building material, coal, etc. As showing the extent of the improvement of some of the steeper grades, it is interesting to note that the 6 per cent slope opposite Fisher avenue has been reduced to 4 per cent; the 7 per cent slope at Houlihan avenue has been reduced to 4 per cent, and the two sides of the street placed at the same level, whereas when the work began the northerly line was from 3 to 4 feet lower than the southerly line. The grade of the easterly slope of the new roadway over Wright's Hill is 3.5 per cent, while the old road has a slope of about 6.5 per cent. The corresponding westerly slopes of the same hill are 2.17 per cent and about 7.2 per cent respectively. The easterly slope of Coolidge's Hill has been reduced from about 5.2 per cent to 3.6 per cent, and the westerly slope from about 6.5 per cent to 4.9 per cent. Slight changes in the grades were made wherever their introduction was desirable for improving the surface drainage and the general appearance of the street.

Although the completion of the street in a single working season involved the doing of an exceedingly hard year's work, it seemed best to make the effort, especially as the West End Street Railway Company signified its willingness to lay the car-tracks as fast as the grading would allow. The contracts and specifications were accordingly drawn with the idea of completing the street as nearly as possible during the year.

The proposals for the work were received on the 24th of March, 1900, and the contract for the grading awarded to the C. H. Eglee Company of Boston, that for the surface-water drains in the section below Chestnut Hill avenue to Thomas J. Kelly of Brookline, and that for similar work in the section between Chestnut Hill avenue and the Newton line to Frank

W. McCusker of Waltham. In addition to the work indicated above, the Water department laid a new 6-inch main in the south side of the street between Cypress street and Warren street, either raised or lowered its main between Sumner road and Fisher avenue, according as the grade of the street was altered, laid a new 10-inch main from Chestnut Hill avenue to Hammond street in consequence of the old 8-inch main having become too small for the draft upon it, and useless because of the very radical change in grade. The main west of Hammond street was raised to conform to the new grade.

The Brookline Gas Light Company laid a new main from Cypress street to Chestnut Hill road, the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company a new conduit for its cables from Chestnut Hill avenue to Hammond street, the Boston Elevated Railway Company a new conduit for its cables from Cypress street to Chestnut Hill road.

The change of grade between Pound lane and Houlihan avenue made it necessary to lower about 450 feet of the 48-inch water main of the Metropolitan department, the point of greatest difference in elevation being about 5 feet. Incidental to this change of grade, the entrance to Station D of the Fire Department, which has always been difficult, was rendered impassable. The entrance to the building was changed to the rear end on Pound lane, and the horse stalls, sleeping rooms and other interior fittings adapted to the new conditions. The cost of this work was $4,738.54.

In the latter part of the season your board ordered that a sewer be laid in Boylston street between Chestnut Hill avenue and Pound lane, also one for a distance of about 318 feet westerly from Hammond street.

For financial reasons the practice was followed, so far as possible, of putting in the underground work in advance of the filling where the grades were to be raised, and subsequent to the cutting down where the grade was to be lowered. The great amount and variety of the underground work of necessity limited the rate of progress on the grading, macadamizing, etc.

Owing to the fact that the amount of embankment to be made exceeded the excavation by some 40,000 cubic yards, a search was made for a place where a side-track from the Boston and Albany railroad could be advantageously laid so that the filling material might be brought in on the cars and then moved by teams to those points of the street where it was required. All things considered, the land at the easterly end of Middlesex road, belonging to the estate of Ebenezer Craft, was best situated for our purposes, and its use secured. In order to reach the land it became necessary to make a public way of about 450 feet in length of Middlesex road, adjoining the Craft land.

A contract was made with the Boston & Albany Railroad to furnish all the filling material needed at 51 cents per cubic yard, bank measurement, and the contract for grading the street embraced a cubic-yard price for hauling the material from the store-pile to Boylston street.

It is proposed to plant trees at 50 feet intervals on both sides of the street, the total number required being 400. Each tree will be provided with a loam-filled pit, 10 feet long, 5 feet wide and 3 feet deep, which ought to insure very vigorous growth.

The work of building surface-water drains required 14,034 cubic yards of excavation in earth, and 1,216 cubic yards in rock, the laying of 764 cubic yards concrete masonry, 759 cubic yards of brick masonry, 4,079 feet of pipe drain, and 64 catch-basins.

The street grading work comprised about 42,000 cubic yards earth excavation, 4,124 cubic yards rock excavation, about 35,000 cubic yards of filling material and gravel deposited in the street from the store-pile on the Craft land, 4,461 square yards of paved gutter, 38,000 square yards of macadam, in addition to the work of building walls, fences, walks, land drains, cross-walks, etc.

The West End Street Railway Company began laying tracks at Cypress street August 13, 1900, and followed up the work as rapidly as the grading would allow. The company began to operate its cars to a point about 200 feet east of Chestnut Hill avenue September 29, 1900, and to the Newton line November 19, 1900.

The work of macadamizing the roadways was done by a day force under the charge of Mr. F. A. Leavitt, one of the assistants in the department.

The work yet to be done consists of building permanent fences over Wright's Hill in place of the present temporary ones, laying about 2,000 square yards of gutter paving, 2,900 square yards of concrete sidewalks, 525 square yards of cross-walks, excavating for and supplying with loam such tree lawns and tree pits as are not already finished, finishing the loaming of the slope between the two roadways at Wright's Hill, setting out about 400 trees, doing certain grading work agreed upon in the adjustment of land damages, besides some miscellaneous work, such as sowing grass seed, etc.

Chestnut Hill Road.

The labor of widening and improving the street was done by day work under the charge of this department. The street was surfaced with four inches of trap-rock after rolling, paved gutters laid on the slope adjoining Boylston street, a new plank walk laid on the westerly side and gas lights erected.

The appropriation for the work was	$4,500 00
The cost	3,428 26

Unexpended	$1,071 74

Walnut Hills Cemetery.

At the request of the Trustees, a careful survey has been made of Walnut Hills Cemetery, showing accurately the position of all avenues, walks, lots and single graves. The survey had become imperatively necessary by the fact that the avenues and paths have not all been built where they were shown on the original design, and also for the reason that the sizes of the lots, as sold, differed greatly from those shown on the design, the two circumstances together producing considerable confusion in the records. A topographical survey of the cemetery, which will be of much service in future improvements, is nearly completed.

Street Numbering Plans.

These plans, which were reported last year as being in progress, have been completed.

Park Maintenance.

The work of the department, including as it does the care of public grounds, removal of snow, etc., has been continued under the care of Mr. David H. Sheehan. The only work done other than that of simple maintenance has been the clearing up and thinning out the forest on the Newton-street land, on which the sum of $484.70 has been expended. The town will receive the sum of $225 from the sale of the wood removed.

The part of the Park drive southerly from the Willow Pond road has received practically nothing in the way of repairs for nine years, is badly worn, and, in my judgment, should be repaired this season in a manner similar to the work done on the section opposite Leverett Pond last year. The cost of this work will be about $1,500.

The following is an approximate division of the expenditures for the year:—

Amount appropriated	$8,500 00
Clerk of Board	150 00
Weekly pay-rolls	5,645 90
Watering drives	745 00
Road materials	53 87
Use of driving horse	592 14
Miscellaneous	549 56
Total	$7,736 47
Balance unexpended	$763 53

In the classification of expenditures of the Engineering department, the item of $1005 for parks, playgrounds and public grounds is for services on the surveys and studies for the improvement of the Griggs Playground, so called, for surveys of the Newton-street land purchased last year, for plans and superintending the improvement of the grounds at the Police Station and the Pierce Grammar School.

The appropriation for the Police Station grading was	$5,000 00
The cost of grading, walls, paving, fences, etc., was	4,134 51

Balance unexpended	$865 49
------------------------------	----------

The appropriation for the Grammar School grading was . . .	$9,000 00
The cost of grading, drainage, masonry, etc., was	7,658 48

Bridges.

The parts of the bridge structures for which the town is responsible are in good condition. The Chestnut Hill avenue bridge over the tracks of the Boston and Albany railroad, and for which the railroad company is responsible, is being extensively overhauled. The abutments are being rebuilt where necessary, and an iron bridge substituted for the old wooden one, which was very much out of repair. In order to obtain additional head room for trains, the northerly side of the new bridge has been placed about eighteen inches higher than the old one, and the grade of the avenue changed as far as the Boston line.

Office Accommodations.

The new office accommodations for the department in the new Town Hall annex will give the opportunity which it has long lacked of so systematizing its work as to render it much more useful to citizens and others having occasion to come to it for information.

Assistants.

The following is a list of the assistants connected with the department: H. A. Varney, E. S. Phelps, F. A. Leavitt, D. W. Robbins, A. H. Pratt, J. F. Driscoll, E. G. Carey, G. J. Shay, E. L. Barrows, A. L. Bridgham, E. T. Anderson, W. J. Fielding and W. F. Sanderson.

Respectfully submitted,

ALEXIS H. FRENCH,
Town Engineer.

For other details of this expenditure, reference is made to the reports of the Town Accountant and the Town Treasurer, which show the same result, but in different forms.

Mr. Fred. B. Richardson was appointed Assistant Superintendent of Streets, and has continued to perform his duties in an acceptable manner.

One old horse died during the year, and three have been exchanged for younger horses; one has been transferred from the Fire department, making the whole number owned by the Highway department the same as reported a year ago, twenty-three. The Superintendent and his assistant each furnish a driving horse, making the whole number maintained at the expense of the department, 25; three of these are kept in the steam roller shed on Devotion street. One horse, belonging to the Wire and Light department, has been boarded at the Cypress street stable, and the cost of his keeping (\$221) has been paid in, and is included in the receipts of the Highway department. Four horses are constantly employed in collecting ashes and rubbish, and for the greater part of the year from six to eight are needed, the average number for the year being $6\frac{1}{3}$; two are used in sewer work and three in sectional care, so that the number available for the work of construction and repairs, and other cleaning, is inadequate, and teams are hired for this work as needed. It would be well to increase the number of teams in the Health department, so that the important work of collecting ashes and house rubbish may not be interrupted as frequently as is the case at present, when during and after snow storms every horse is needed to plow out the sidewalks.

Chapter 244 of the Acts of 1899, making eight hours a legal day's work, was accepted by the town at the annual meeting, 1,263 voting "yes" and 764 voting "no," and since then the department has been working on an eight-hour basis, in accordance with the law.

The quality of the stone in the ledge on the Westminster Land Company's property on Washington street, in the Brighton district, where our principal stone crusher is located, has been gradually growing poorer, until it is now a question whether it is wise to continue its use any longer. Trap rock from West Roxbury and Westfield has been used in surfacing Harvard, Cypress and Boylston streets, and although the first cost is considerably more than that of the conglomerate, I have no doubt it will be found more economical. It is, however, important that we should have a plant of our own, that we may be sure of a supply of suitable road material, and also that we may give employment to our own citizens in preparing it. It is hoped that a suitable place for the crusher may be found on the land recently purchased by the Park Commissioners on Hammond street.

Village Square, the intersection of Washington and Boylston streets, was paved with vitrified brick furnished by the Eastern Paving Brick Company of Catskill, New York, and Higley, Keplinger & Company, of Canton, Ohio. The edge-stones were all reset, and the street railway tracks were relaid to conform to the new cross-section adopted. The paving was laid on a concrete base, six inches thick, composed of one part hydraulic cement, two parts clean, sharp sand, and four parts broken stone, making a firm and solid foundation. To facilitate the work, Portland cement was used in a part of the concrete base, the higher cost of which was offset by the larger proportion of sand and stone which could be used. The bricks were laid on a sand cushion and the joints were filled with Portland cement grout. To allow for expansion, at intervals of twenty-five to thirty feet, and on both sides of the street at the curbstone, the joints were filled with pitch. At this point the traffic is very heavy, and the paving is subjected to a very severe test. So far the results have been very satisfactory, and petitions for a similar pavement in Washington street, north of the railroad bridge, and in Harvard Square, will doubtless be received.

A fifteen-ton steam road roller was purchased from the Buffalo Pitts Company, for which $3,000 was paid. It was put to work on April 9th, and was constantly used until December 22d, when it was laid up for the winter. It has cost very little thus far for repairs, and we are very well satisfied with it. It is now possible to make repairs in both ends of the town more expeditiously and with less inconvenience to the travelling public.

Locations for double tracks in Boylston street, from Cypress street to the town line, in Harvard street from Washington street to Beacon street, and in Brookline avenue were granted to the Boston Elevated Railway Company. A new location for double tracks, to replace the single track, with its many turn-outs, in Cypress street, was also granted.

Brookline avenue from Emerald street to Pearl street was widened, and the cost was paid from the Highway appropriation. Double tracks were laid by the Boston Elevated Railway Company, and were paved with granite blocks. The edgestones on the westerly side of this part of the road were reset at the grade adopted some few years ago. It was deemed best to allow those on the easterly side to remain as they are until the cheap buildings there are removed. The edgestones on the easterly side along the Parkway, and on the westerly side from Aspinwall avenue to the town line, should be reset during the coming season, as they have settled considerably since they were first set, thereby making the crown of the street too great.

The guide boards heretofore reported to the town are all maintained, and seem to be all that are required. Constant renewals and repainting are of course necessary, and it would be well to see if something more ornamental in appearance can be had for the street signs, as well as the guide boards.

The method of cleaning the streets, known as "Sectional Care," has been extended, and most of the thickly settled section of the town is cared for in this way; seventeen men and three teams are constantly employed in this work. The street cleaning force is sent periodically over the whole town, including those parts covered by the section men; a considerable improvement over former conditions is apparent, and this improvement would be more noticeable if the sections were somewhat reduced in area.

The Boston & Albany Railroad Company is engaged in rebuilding the bridge over its tracks at Chestnut Hill avenue; the parapet on the northerly side is to be raised somewhat, and this will necessitate regrading and resurfacing the street from the bridge to the town line; the whole expense of rebuilding the bridge and the roadway is to be borne by the railroad company. The Highway department has been asked to make other disposition of the surface water on the west side of the street, south of the bridge, which now runs through a wooden box into the railroad cut. Just how this shall be done, and at whose expense, has not yet been fully determined.

Street Crossings.

In most of the new crossings laid this year, granite was used instead of North River flagging. In addition to those laid on Boylston, Harvard and Cypress streets, in connection with the widening of these streets, new crossings of granite flagging, with small granite blocks, were laid at the following places:—

- Across Beacon street (north side) at Corey road.
- “ Beacon street (south side) at Dean road.
- “ Beacon street (north side) at Whitney hall.
- “ Bartlett crescent at angle in road.

New Streets and Street Widening.

BOYLSTON STREET. The widening of this street from Cypress street to the town line, which was accepted by the town at the meeting held November 9th, 1899, was done under the direction of the Town Engineer, and a description of what was done, and the present condition of the work, which is not yet finished, will be found in his report.

HARVARD STREET. The widening of this street, from School street to Beacon street, was accepted by the town at the meeting held November 9th, 1899, and the work, which is completed except in a few minor details, was done by the Highway department. Double tracks for the electric cars were laid by the Boston Elevated Railway Company, from Davis avenue to Beacon street, and were paved with granite blocks. Nothing but a little patching was done from the Square to School street, as the street has not yet been widened between these points. From School street to Beacon street the edgestones were reset and the gutters were paved with granite blocks, except on the easterly side from Sewall avenue to Longwood avenue, where the extra width gained for the roadway was so small, and the risk of injury to a fine row of trees was so great, the edgestones were allowed to remain in the old location. New circular and straight edgestones were furnished and set where needed.

New concrete walks and granite crossings were laid at all intersecting streets. The roadways were brought to a sub-grade four inches below the finished grade, and thoroughly rolled, after which the surfacing, which is of trap rock from West Roxbury, was placed and rolled until thoroughly consolidated. To hasten the completion of the work, and to further test the comparative merits of trap rock and our native stone for surfacing, short pieces were finished with broken stone from our crusher in Brighton. Twenty-four new catch-basins were built.

The appropriation for construction was $18,000, and the expenditure was as follows :

Pay rolls, laborers	$3,609 77
“ teaming	1,613 93
Edgestones, crossings and paved gutters	3,891 75
Broken stone and gravel	2,156 01
Concrete sidewalks	2,343 24
Catch-basins and drains	1,708 62
Water pipes	309 85
Carpenter labor on steps, etc.	114 36
Lumber, tools, oil and signs	66 73
Total	$15,814 26

CYPRESS STREET. The widening of this street from Boylston street to the car-house at Franklin street was accepted by the town at the meeting held November 9, 1899, and the work was done by the Highway department. Double tracks were laid by the Boston Elevated Railway Company, and were paved with granite blocks. At the end of the line at Franklin street the space covered by the tracks and the northeasterly roadway were paved by the railroad company with vitrified bricks on a concrete base. A new water main was laid by the Water Board from Walnut street to Franklin street, and new house connections were laid. The fence on the town stable lot was rebuilt, and the entrances to the Sewall school-house were changed, and a retaining wall was built between them. A neat iron fence in front of the school-house lot was substituted for the old wooden fence, which was too dilapidated to replace. New edgestones were furnished and set in front of the stable lot, and the other edgestones were reset and the gutters paved with granite blocks. Six new catch-basins and one drop inlet were built, and the crossings were repaved. The roadways were finished with trap rock from Westfield, Mass., a Telford foundation being provided wherever necessary. Delay in settling land damages prevented the finishing of the work ; the sidewalk from Hart street to Franklin street, and in front of four houses on the Vass estate, is not yet completed. The appropriation for the construction of the street was $11,000, and the expenditure was as follows:—

Pay rolls, laborers	$2,520 88
“ teaming	1,550 13
Edgestones, crossings and paved gutters	1,853 35
Broken stone and gravel	1,184 62
Concrete sidewalks	883 87
Catch-basins and drains	212 74
Fencing	573 57
Change of school entrances and retaining wall	444 10
Total	$9,223 26

COOLIDGE STREET. That part of Coolidge street between Harvard street and the private way known as Gibbs street was accepted as a public way at the town meeting held November 9th, 1899, and an appropriation of $1,500 was made to pay for paving gutters and finishing the street in part. What was contemplated has been done, but the paving stones cost so little, being supplied from the Harvard street widening, there is a balance of $981.56 unexpended, which can be used to good advantage in paving the gutters on the other part of the street, and I would suggest that this be done as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

GREENOUGH STREET, reported a year ago as partly constructed, was opened to travel early in the season, and is in good condition. Last year the sum of $1,168.46 was expended for construction; this year $468.33 was expended in finishing the street.

CROWNINSHIELD ROAD, COPLEY STREET, ADAMS STREET and ELBA STREET were accepted as public ways at the annual meeting. These four streets were built in a most thorough manner by the owners of the Crowninshield estate, situated at the corner of Pleasant street and Commonwealth avenue, and were offered to the town free of cost. The sub-grade is of gravel, with broken stone surfacing, gravel sidewalks and tree lawns. Trees have been planted on all the streets.

CLARK ROAD, CLINTON ROAD, DRUCE STREET, CHESHAM ROAD, COTSWOLD ROAD and HYSLOP ROAD were accepted as public ways at the annual meeting. These six streets are on the estate of Lisa Curtis, on the northerly slope of Fisher Hill, and have been constructed by the owners in an exceptionally thorough manner, and offered to the town free of cost. The road-bed is of heavy Telford macadam, with gravel sidewalks and grass borders. The gutters on the steep parts of the streets are paved with granite blocks.

DEVOTION STREET, as originally laid out, extended from Babcock street northerly to land owned by the town a distance of 197.8 feet. It was laid out as a public way to Stedman street, and accepted by the town at the annual meeting. It had previously been constructed by the Highway department, and nothing has been expended on it this year.

EUSTON and CARLTON STREETS were accepted as public ways at the meeting held June 28th, 1900. These two streets were thoroughly well built by the owners, on the Lawrence estate in Longwood, and were offered to the town free of cost. Broken stone was used for surfacing, and the sidewalks are of gravel with grass borders. An appropriation of $1,500 was made to pay for circular edgestones and cross-walks, which have been laid.

MIDDLESEX ROAD was accepted as a public way at the meeting held June 28th, 1900. This is an extension of the present Middlesex road, running 347.33 feet in a northeasterly direction, and has been partially constructed by the owners. An appropriation of $500 was made to pay for putting the street in order when the heavy teaming of material delivered by the Boston & Albany Railroad for use on Boylston street is finished. Seventy-five dollars of this appropriation was used to put the street in passable condition for this winter.

CHESTNUT HILL ROAD was accepted as a public way at the meeting held June 28th, 1900. An appropriation of $4,500 was made for its construction; the work has been done under the direction of the Town Engineer, in connection with the work on Boylston street.

WALNUT and CHESTNUT STREETS. An alteration and widening of these streets was accepted and allowed at the meeting held January 17th, 1901. The change consists in rounding the corner and improving the grade at their intersection, and an appropriation of $500 was made to pay the land damages and cost of construction, of which $320 is for construction. Nothing has yet been done.

Watering Streets.

The appropriation for this work was $17,000, and $16,148.14 was expended. Two teams only of the Fire department sprinkled streets this past season, one on Monmouth street and the other on Heath street. Twenty-three hired teams were employed, and the same rates were paid as heretofore, viz., $100 per month for each team for the six months beginning May 1st and ending October 31st, which rate included watering on Sundays. Before May 1st and after October 31st payment was made by the day, at the rate of $5 per day for each team. The widening of four important thoroughfares this year, on which double lines of electric cars are operated, will most likely necessitate the employment of additional teams this coming season.

The carts owned by the town have been put in order during the winter.

Sidewalks.

The kind and amount of work done on sidewalks is shown in the following table, which does not include the small patching on brick and concrete walks, nor the repairs of plank walks. When plank walks have been rebuilt with old stock, the work has been considered in the nature of repairs, and is not included in the table:—

The appropriation for sidewalks was $15,000, and the net expenditure $14,908.28 (which is given in detail in the Treasurer's and Accountant's reports) was for the following:—

Edgestones and setting	$2,149 70
New concrete walks	5,221 59
Repairing concrete walks	412 00

Repairing plank walks, etc.	1,439 86
Brick walks	396 74
Artificial stone walks	1,005 96
Gravel walks, grading and sundries	837 57
Total	$14,908 28

The allowance towards the cost of artificial stone walks was fixed at 55 cents per square yard.

The contract for laying and repairing coal-tar concrete work was awarded to C. W. Lynam, and the prices paid were as follows:—

Care of Sewers.

The appropriation made at the annual meeting for keeping the sewers, catch-basins and drains in good working condition was $5,000, and an additional appropriation of $500 was made at the meeting held January 17th, 1901. The expenditure was $5,450.40. The work was of the usual routine character, and consisted chiefly of cleaning catch-basins, inspecting, cleaning and flushing sewers, repairing manholes and catch-basins, etc. Two new odorless carts were bought for $450. Eight new catch-basins and one drop inlet were built by this department, and the cost was charged to the appropriation for "Surface Drainage."

The expenditure of $5,450.40 charged to "Care of Sewers" was for the following:—

Cleaning catch-basins	$3,264 80
Cleaning and repairing main sewers	249 74
Cleaning and repairing lateral sewers	353 16
Cleaning and repairing surface-water channels	400 33
Rebuilding and repairing catch-basins	249 71
Rebuilding and repairing manholes	248 58
Cash paid for two new iron carts	450 00
Sundries	234 08

Collecting Ashes.

The cost of collecting ashes and refuse throughout the town was $11,205.63, which sum includes $1,970.64 credited to the Highway department for the use of horses, the whole cost of whose keeping was charged to the highway appropriation. The cost of this work for the last eight years was as follows:—

1893	$5,723 50
1894	6,299 11
1895	6,996 37
1896	7,401 59
1897	8,075 24
1898	9,105 65
1899	10,903 16
1900	11,205 63

The number of loads collected was 19,374. No permanent arrangement has yet been made for the disposal of the combustible waste, which is collected separately from the ashes, and which is still burned on two of the dumps and in Cowan's pit, in as unobjectionable a manner as possible. The negotiations which were in progress a year ago were interrupted by the death of the principal member of the company with which a contract for the disposal of dry combustible waste had been made. Very recently parties who were connected with him in business have signified their willingness to make a new contract on the same terms, if the town will provide a suitable lot in some central location. The question is under consideration by the committee appointed by your board, and a report on the subject will be made to you in the near future. The advisability of the town's erecting and operating such a plant as has been proposed, will also be considered and reported upon.

Sundries.

Sundry work in connection with building new sewers and surface-water drains was done by this department, amounting to $712.77, which was charged to the appropriations for sewers, surface-water drains, and Chestnut Hill surface drainage.

Sundry other work in connection with town buildings, care of town hall, grading at the new police station and the new Pierce grammar school-house, etc., was done, and the cost, amounting to $589.22, was charged to the proper appropriations.

The inventory of property belonging to the department will be filed with the Town Accountant.

Arc Lights.

Little change was made in this system during the year. Four lights were added and one discontinued. On February 20th one light was connected by underground wires, at the corner of Chapel street and Longwood avenue, which reduced the price one cent per night. This adds one more to the park lights, making the number fifteen. June 14th one light was discontinued on Kent street, between Aspinwall avenue and Kent square. December 26th, three lights were added on Boylston street, one on either side of Wright's Hill, and one at the corner of Boylston and Hammond streets.

The location of one light was changed on Boylston street, between Wright's Hill and Coolidge's Hill, which makes a more uniform distance between the lamps and gives a better distribution of light.

December 29th, one light was added on Brookline avenue near Emerald street. The lamps on Boylston street between Chestnut Hill avenue and Sumner road were put up temporarily, there being a question as to which would light the street best. One objection to arc lights was the additional number of poles, and as it would be necessary to set them in the planting space between the car-tracks and the roadway, it was thought they would be a very objectionable feature, there not being height enough on the wood poles for a mast arm, and it also brought the light over the car-track so that the roadway would receive very little light.

The lamp poles have been set on Beacon street between St. Mary's street and Park street, which will be connected by underground wires. It was intended to have these connected and lighted before the 1st of February, but owing to delay in getting the cable, it will be about March 1st before they are ready for use.

In the report of last year it was said the Brookline Gas Light Company were investigating the enclosed-arc light, and they have decided to use the enclosed alternating arc lamp for street lighting.

It has been suggested that more lights be added on Beacon street, and that they be placed nearer together on some other streets. Most of our lights are placed six hundred feet apart. This seems to be too great a distance for most of the streets. If they are added on Beacon street, I would recommend placing them from 250 to 300 feet apart. Should your committee decide to make the addition throughout the town, it would require half as many more as are in use today.

The total number of hours out for the year was 3,810 ; with the enclosed-arc it should be very much less.

Welsbach Lights.

There has been quite an increase in the number of lights in this system during the year. Forty-one were added and one discontinued, making the total four hundred and thirty-nine.

Boylston street, between Sumner road and Chestnut Hill avenue, is to be lighted with the Welsbach lights. Your committee thought this work had better be postponed until spring, rather than open up the roadway so soon after its completion. As the main gas-pipe runs about three feet from and parallel with the gutter paving, between the above points, the lights will all be placed in the planting space on the northerly side of the street. This will light the sidewalk better and the street equally as well as it would to alternate them. It would also save trenching the entire width of the roadway.

While most of our streets seem to be fairly well lighted, I would recommend that the appropriation be made for fifty new lights for the coming year. This would allow for the lighting of some new streets.

Naphtha Lights.

The use of naphtha lights still continues in the outskirts of the town. Nine were added during the year, five on Lagrange street and four on Newton street. These have received good care during the year, as they have in the past, which is shown by the number of hours out. A great deal of the outage is due to boys breaking the glass, and sometimes by young men, who think it a great pleasure to drive by and see how many lights of glass they can break by striking them with a whip; and in one or two cases bullets from a revolver have broken both glass and burner.

Fire Alarm.

Quite a good many changes have been made during the year. The work of changing the apparatus from the engine house in the village to the new police station was finished in June. The wires were all cut over and connected on the 28th of the month, and we now have a six-circuit repeater in place of a two-circuit. The circuits are so divided that should a break occur in the wires very little territory would be unprotected. The number of boxes in each, and territory covered, are:—

		Boxes
No. 1 Circuit.	Village District, High, Cypress and Washington sts. . .	10
No. 2 “	Boylston, Clyde, Newton, Tappan, Buckminster rd. . .	13
No. 3 “	Washington, Beacon, and sections each side	11
No. 4 “	Harvard, Park, Summit ave., Naples rd.	8
No. 5 “	Longwood District	10
No. 6 “	Includes Bell on the Town Hall, Gong and Indicator at Headquarters, Gong and Indicator in Police Station . .	2

In connection with the repeater is a register, which gives a record of all alarms from boxes, or any trouble occurring on any of the circuits. A time-stamp was arranged to set into the top of the cabinet, which gives the time for everything passing through these machines. On the partition between the instrument room and battery room is a six-circuit switch-board, which is accessible from the back as well as from the front. The battery room, which contains batteries both for fire alarm and police signal, has two double racks, four shelves high, with a capacity of four hundred and thirty-two cells of "type B" storage battery. Provision has been made to add a third rack, which would give an increase of two hundred and sixteen cells.

In this room an asphalt floor has been laid, which would prevent water or acid going through and damaging ceilings below, should an accident occur to the battery jars. Connecting with the battery room is a room which will be used for sleeping accommodations. This was furnished at the same time the Police department purchased their furniture, which made quite a saving.

The wires were changed from the old poles to the new on Boylston street from Heath to Hammond street. The only extra expense for material was sixteen dollars for circular loom cable used for temporary work at the corner of Heath and Boylston streets, where the poles were moved. The arms and wires were changed from old poles to new on Warren street from Dudley to Cottage and on Winthrop road from Beacon to near Gardner road. Inspecting and testing boxes once a month is continued. The painting of boxes and iron pipes is done in early spring. What aerial wire remains is looked over to keep it clear from trees ; pins are inclined to decay and have to be replaced.

During the year we have had only one false alarm. All others were accounted for, by mistakes made while cutting over wires, etc.

Three new boxes were added during the year. Box 54 was placed on Flora street opposite Walter avenue, 13 arms being used and 2,400 feet of wire. Box 331 was placed on Beacon street opposite Short street. This is connected direct with underground wires. Box 261 was placed on Colbourne crescent at the junction of Rawson road, 12 arms and 3,200 feet of wire being used. Box 35, Harvard street, was changed from the easterly to the westerly side of the street and connected direct with the underground wire. Wires and arms are removed from the poles, thus clearing the street of overhead wires belonging to the town.

Police Signal.

This system has given better satisfaction this year than ever before. The line trouble has been comparatively nothing—one broken wire is the record for the year. Occasionally a box needs some spring or tension adjusted. Two new boxes were added, one on Winchester street opposite Thorndike street, and one on Goddard avenue, opposite Rockwood street, 44 new arms being used for this work and 2,800 feet of wire. As all the material was in stock, we were under no extra expense.

The location of two boxes was changed. Box 312 on Harvard street, at the corner of Coolidge, was moved to Harvard opposite Kenwood street, and later to the corner of Kenwood street, and connected direct with underground wires. Box 323 was changed from Harvard and Harris streets to School street, near Harvard; this was placed on an iron post and wires connected direct from the manhole. The old Chicago boxes were changed for new and improved boxes of the Gardner pattern at a cost of $375, the amount recommended last year.

On the 15th of November the police signal desk was removed from the old building to the new station, connected up and in working order, being out of service about three hours. This desk was originally finished light, and in order to have it in keeping with the finish of the new room, it was necessary to have the old finish removed and the wood refilled and polished, the cost of which was $25. The location of the desk is in the main business office, placed in such a position as to have the light direct from one of the windows, and with space enough in back to permit of work at any part without moving it. Placed on a movable frame close to the wall back of the police signal desk is a protector board for both fire alarm and police signal wires. On this are switches, fuses, lightning arresters and automatic protectors, all mounted on a slate board about four feet square. Over this is the combination fire-alarm gong and indicator. The case is of special design, as our space was limited. This brings all the apparatus together, and can be seen from any position in the room.

It will not be necessary to describe the switch-board and battery for this system, as it can be found in the fire-alarm report.

A special appropriation of $3000 was made for changing the apparatus to the new station, and the amount expended was $2,884.82. The switch-board batteries and protector-board were furnished and placed by the New England agents of the Gamewell Fire Alarm and Police Signal Company. The cabinet work was by Mr. C. I. Freeman, and all was done in a thorough and workmanlike manner.

Underground Wires.

Considerable progress has been made this year in having wires placed under ground. The New England Telephone & Telegraph Company of Massachusetts, as in the past, have extended their conduits through the streets where the demand for telephones has increased the number of wires to such an extent as to overload the poles.

When Harvard street was widened quite a number of open wires were removed, the company laying ducts to all side streets and placing cable boxes on the Harvard-street line of poles, so that the runs from these boxes to the subscribers' houses are very short. This was done to avoid having open wires cross over the trolley wires, and at the present time this part of the street is clear from Harvard Square to Beacon street. This method of construction has been adopted from Beacon street to the town line, but all of the aerial wires have not yet been removed. The wires on the Beacon-street line, from St. Mary's street to Harvard street, are nearly all transferred to the underground cables. I see no reason why this part of the street should not be free and clear within the next month.

Following is a list of streets on which work has been done and the amount of conduit and cable laid in 1900:—

Under date of January 25, 1900, the Boston Elevated Railway Company were requested to place all feed-wires under ground within ten years, not less than one-tenth to be so placed each year. The first part to be constructed was on Boylston street from Cypress street to Chestnut Hill avenue, which was as far as the cars could be operated.

On September 29th the wires were connected and the first car was run on this section of the street, since which time the upper section between Chestnut Hill avenue and Chestnut Hill road has been finished and all feed and return wires are under ground between the above points. Beacon street and Chestnut Hill avenue was finished soon after, and the old feed-wires on Beacon street are now ready to be removed.

The amount of work done on placing town wires under ground was not as large as was anticipated. Harvard street, from Naples road to Thorndike street, was opened for a fire-alarm box, and as far as Kenwood street, for a police box. A pole connection was made on Fuller street to reach open wires for the box on Winchester street. Extra wire was run on Washington street, from Cypress street to Harvard Square, and on Harvard street to the corner of School street.

It was intended to have the wires all in on Boylston street to Hammond street. As there were many changes to be made and a small force to do the work, I thought it best to defer this until such time as the season would permit. It will require about 52,000 feet of wire for this section, half of which will be for private line telephone and indicator for the Water department.

I also find some of the pipes running from the manholes to our boxes will have to be changed, as they are rusting out at the surface of the ground. This is also the case with the Telephone Company's iron pipe. Three ducts were laid from the Town Hall to the new Police Station, and all wires connected with the buildings are brought through these. There were five pairs for exchange telephone service, and eleven pairs for private lines for the School department.

Poles and Locations.

The number of pole locations and the number of poles set are given in the following table. Harvard street has a double line of wooden poles, to be used jointly by the Telephone Company and Boston Elevated Railway Co. on the east side, and the Brookline Gas Light Company and Boston Elevated Railway Co. on the west side. The total number is seventy-six. The line on Boylston street, on the south side, was rebuilt from east of Cypress street to Hammond street. These poles, 98 in number, were set by the Telephone Company, permission being granted to the Brookline Gas Light Company and the Boston Elevated Railway Co. to attach their wires. The Boston Elevated Company set iron poles on the north side of Boylston street to Hammond street. At Wright's Hill a double line of iron poles was set, as the construction of the street was such as to make it necessary to change the old line of wooden poles. The number of iron poles set was 117, and three were removed east of Cypress street. On Brookline avenue 23 iron poles were set by the Boston Elevated, and nine wooden poles were set by the Brookline Gas Light Company.

Interior Wiring of Buildings.

Careful inspection has been made of all buildings wired during the year, the number being twenty-seven less than that of the previous year. It was suggested to your committee that a set of rules for installation of wires be printed, a copy of which was submitted and approved. It contains the by-laws, rules and requirements for such installation, and there should be no excuse for electricians doing poor work.

Inspection of Gas.

This branch of the work requires considerable time. With other work to look after, it was found necessary to employ some one to assist and I was authorized by your honorable board to employ Mr. Henry Murray, Jr., as clerk and assistant. Since his appointment his whole time has been given to inspection and to the keeping of the record, and his work has been done in a creditable manner.

Crime.

During the year thirteen houses and apartments have been entered by thieves. With two exceptions the residences so entered have been temporarily unoccupied. There was one murderous assault committed. (The assailant, Thomas Mosby, was arrested by Inspector Paige after a long search, and will be tried at the April term of the Superior Court at Dedham.)

With the above exceptions, general good order and peace has been maintained in the town.

The Liquor Laws and their Enforcement.

There have been but few well authenticated cases of violation of the liquor laws the past year. All violations have been promptly prosecuted whenever sufficient evidence could be obtained to warrant prosecution.

Detective Work.

The detective work of the department is performed by Inspector Albert S. Paige. He is well versed in this branch of police service, and his intelligence and skill in the pursuit and apprehension of criminals has been rewarded by the recovery of a large quantity of stolen property and the arrest and conviction of the thieves.

Especial Mention.

During the year the following-named members of the force have performed acts deserving of especial mention:—

Patrolman Stephen D. Halloran, for rescuing an aged woman from a house which was on fire, at the corner of Huntington avenue and the Parkway, on the night of May 12th.

Patrolman James P. Meade, for the capture of a burglar who was attempting to force entrance to a dwelling.

Patrolman Emery E. Allen, for the arrest of two thieves who had committed numerous larcenies in the Chestnut Hill district.

Recommendations.

I beg to recommend that the force be increased to fifty. This would require that four additional men be appointed. I desire to establish an additional route in the Chestnut Hill district, and also to detail one patrolman as assistant to Inspector Paige. I also recommend that a new horse be purchased to replace one that is not fitted for the service required in this department.

In General.

I beg to commend to your attention the officers and patrolmen of the force for their active and persistent work during the past year, and to express to them my personal appreciation.

The by-law relative to hucksters and peddlers has proved a success during the time it has been in force.

This department was admitted to membership in the National Bureau of Identification on July 9th, 1900. Most of the large and many of the smaller police departments in the United States and Canada are connected with the bureau, and membership in the same is of mutual advantage to each department.

In conclusion, I desire to tender my thanks to your honorable board for the support you have given me; also to the justices, clerk and probation officer of the Municipal Court for advice and assistance rendered.

Yours respectfully,

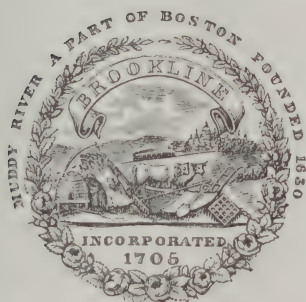

ALONZO W. COREY,
Chief of Police.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

REPORT
FIRE COMMISSIONER
OF
MASSACHUSETTS,

FOR THE YEAR ENDING JANUARY 31, 1901.

BROOKLINE :
THE RIVERDALE PRESS: C. A. W. SPENCER.
1901.

REPORT.

OFFICE OF THE FIRE COMMISSIONER,
342 WASHINGTON ST., BROOKLINE, Feb. 12, 1901.

To the Board of Selectmen:—

GENTLEMEN,—I herewith respectfully submit my second annual report of the service of this department for the year ending January 31st, 1901, and with it a few recommendations.

We have had a large number of alarms during the past year, but our loss has been smaller than for a number of years, this being due in a measure to our increased force of permanent men, and also to our new apparatus for striking in alarms when received by telephone. On receipt of an alarm by telephone we can immediately ring in all four rounds of any box by putting on a small numbered disc and pushing a lever. This does away with the old method of using a press-button, which was never safe or satisfactory.

There have been three new permanent men appointed during the past year, and one discharged.

Our houses have been kept in fairly good repair. A new heating plant has been installed in Station C. Station B has been put in more modern condition, a new bath-room being added, and new officers' rooms built and sleeping quarters and recreation room made on the third floor, and the entire house has been repainted and varnished inside. Station D is almost like a new building, having been changed to face on Reservoir lane, and wholly remodelled inside by the Boylston-street widening appropriation. Stations A and G will need considerable repairing this year.

Our horses are in good condition, although new ones will be needed to take the place of some that have been disposed of.

Our apparatus is in good condition with the exception of Engine 1, which I consider not safe to use much longer without being repaired.

A short synopsis of some of the changes in the department during the past year is as follows :—

- May 24. New Universal Transmitter for striking in alarms when received by telephone was put in service at headquarters.
July 31. Combination 4 put into service, taking the place of Hose 4. Combination 4 is a new piece of apparatus purchased from S. F. Hayward & Co., agents for the Babcock Fire Extinguisher Co. It is all steel and a first-class piece of apparatus in every respect.
Sept. 22. Hose 3 changed from a one-horse to a two-horse hitch.
Dec. 1. Patrol system for the whole twenty-four hours at the desk put in operation at Stations A, B and G.

Recommendations.

I would recommend that the sum of three hundred dollars be appropriated for the purchase of a new wagon, to be used as a spare hose wagon, to take the place of our hose or combination wagons when they are being repaired. We have nothing at present for this purpose, or for an express wagon, except the old fuel wagon that is twenty-eight years old and unsafe to carry a heavy load.

I would recommend that the sum of one thousand dollars be appropriated for the purchase of hose and hose fittings.

I would also recommend that Engine No. 1 be thoroughly remodelled. This engine has been in service about twenty-eight years and is in a dangerous condition. It was repaired fourteen years ago, and I think it unsafe to use much longer without a thorough repairing. I would recommend that the sum of two thousand dollars be appropriated for this purpose.

I would also recommend that the pay of the officers of this department be increased. I know of no department where the officers receive the same remuneration as the privates, and I would ask that the sum of eleven hundred and ninety dollars be appropriated for this purpose. This would allow the following pay per day : Lieutenants, $3.25 ; Captains, $3.50 ; and Assistant Chief, $3.75. The same to go into effect May 8th, 1901.

Fire Record.

During the past year the department has answered one hundred and fifty-six alarms of fire, forty-eight of which were bell alarms, and one hundred and eight were still and telephone alarms. The causes of the alarms were as follows :—

REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS.

OFFICE OF THE INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS,

BROOKLINE, February 4th, 1901.

To the Board of Selectmen : —

GENTLEMEN, — I herewith respectfully submit the twelfth annual report of the Building department.

Owing to the fewer number of buildings erected during the year, the inspection work has been less than for the previous few years, enabling me to attend to it in the afternoons, staying in the office from 8 to 12 mornings.

I have not found it necessary to prosecute anyone for violating the law, although in several instances (generally out-of-town builders) have come very near it, — the parties, when finding that the law was to be enforced, deciding to do as requested. The building law is now in the hands of a committee for revision, and it is expected that many changes and additions will be made, more especially in regard to apartment houses and wooden buildings within the more thickly inhabited parts of the town.

The practice of putting the builders' valuations of properties in the books that are open to the public has been discontinued, as they were very misleading, especially to mortgagees, and the valuations as given below are much less for that reason, but I believe more nearly correct.

Owing to the fact of having found it necessary to keep a more accurate and detailed record of the business of this office, and also to the fact that the addition of the Gas department has entailed a large amount of clerical work, the work in the office has been considerably more than formerly, and as we anticipate a busy ensuing year, I strongly endorse the board's plan of having a clerk in the office throughout the day and changing the office hours of the Inspectors somewhat, giving them more time for inspection, as we find the more often we inspect a building the less friction with the builder.

Below are the building statistics for the year ending January 31st, 1901.

Whole number of permits granted, 209. Of these 88 were for wood and frame, 21 for brick and stone, and 100 for alterations and additions, showing a large falling off in new buildings, but 100 per cent increase on alterations, etc. The new buildings were divided as follows:—

REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR OF PLUMBING.

OFFICE OF THE INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS,
TOWN HALL, BROOKLINE, MASS., January 31, 1901.

Mr. Ernest L. Lyon, Inspector of Buildings :—

DEAR SIR, — I herewith submit my eighth annual report, for the year ending January 31, 1901.

The whole number of applications received for permits to do plumbing was 285. Of this number, 26 were for brick and stone buildings, 75 were for wood and frame buildings, 126 were for additions and repairs, and 58 were for improving the drainage.

The aggregate cost of the above plumbing was $107,851, as against $149,240 in 1899, a loss of $41,389. This shortage is mainly due to the decrease in the number of new buildings for which applications were filed to install plumbing (101, as compared with 184 in 1899), and incidentally to the marked advance in prices of building materials during the spring and summer.

It may be mentioned that the number of applications received for additions and repairs to plumbing already existing was much greater than that of any previous year, and also that comparison is made with a period in which the amount and cost of the plumbing installed has never been exceeded since a record was kept by this department.

During the year water fixtures have been installed in various buildings as follows :—

Water closets	455
Sinks	321
Wash trays	206
Wash bowls	341
Bath tubs	262
Other fixtures	24
Total	1,609

Tests and inspections have been made as follows :—

Water tests	217
Peppermint tests	42
Other tests	7
Total tests	266

Number of visits of inspection, 998.

The regular work of inspection, and the routine work of the office has been much the same as in previous years ; an improvement in the method of recording work has been adopted.

There have been no changes in the existing law, and if one may judge from considerable favorable comment received, its operations are proving satisfactory.

As in the past, a very large part of the plumbing was installed by persons from neighboring cities and towns, many of whom have little knowledge of our plumbing laws ; these people have been aided by giving such information and advice as seemed proper, to the end that they might not be obliged to make difficult and expensive changes in their work, and that the sanitary efficiency of such work might be promoted.

The laws have been generally well observed ; occasional instances of carelessness have occurred, but it has only been necessary to warn the offenders to secure prompt and complete compliance with the existing regulations.

Respectfully submitted,

MICHAEL DUFFLEY,

Inspector of Plumbing.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF EXAMINERS OF PLUMBERS.

TOWN HALL, BROOKLINE, MASS., February 1, 1901.

The Board of Examiners of Plumbers submit their report for the year 1900.

In May, Mr. William K. Melcher, who had served on the board continuously and efficiently since its organization in 1893, resigned, and Mr. Ernest L. Lyon, who was appointed to succeed him as Inspector of Buildings, became ex-officio a member of the Board of Examiners. Mr. Michael Duffley was appointed by the Board of Health the third member of the board. The board organized by the choice of Horace James as chairman, and Michael Duffley as secretary. The board held two meetings for the examination of applicants for licenses, namely, April 21st and December 5th. Roy H. Proctor and Charles J. Gillespie were certified to the Inspector of Buildings to be licensed as journeymen plumbers.

The licenses of six master plumbers and twelve journeymen plumbers have been renewed, as required by statute.

The amount of fees collected for plumbers' licenses was $10.00, and said sum has been paid into the town treasury as required by law.

REPORT ON LICENSING AND SUPERVISION OF GAS FITTERS.

OFFICE OF INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS,
BROOKLINE, MASS., February 1, 1901.

To the Board of Selectmen:—

GENTLEMEN,—I have the following report to make relative to the supervision of gas fitters, etc.:—

Whole number of permits granted, 854. Of these, 14 were afterward cancelled. The permits were divided as follows:—

New buildings piped	94
Changes, extensions, etc.	379
Stoves and heaters connected	234
Meters connected	268
Fixtures hung or installed in new buildings	128
Total	1,103

The explanation of the apparent discrepancies in number of permits granted and the final total is, that in some cases, such as connecting meters and stoves in same building, one permit was granted for both. The delay of the gas fitters in applying for permits to do certain kinds of work, while it is very annoying and makes a great deal of work in following up the jobs, is, in a way, unavoidable, as, when the gas fitter receives a number of small orders at the same time, it is often necessary for him to get the men started on the work at once, and then send in the application. But sometimes they delay sending for permits for days, and in these instances they should be promptly prosecuted. We now have a case on hand of a man doing gas work without a licence, which is to be brought up in court within a few days, and it is hoped that this will be a lesson for others.

The number of persons licensed and registered this year is 72, all but 6 of whom held Boston licenses. Of these, 35 were masters and 37 journeymen, making a total of 94 masters and 134 journeymen registered since the gas law was adopted in 1899.

The Examining Board has certified to me two persons for masters' licenses and four for journeymen's, to whom licenses have been issued and the fees (six dollars) turned over to the Town Treasurer.

Appended is the report of the Board of Examiners of Gas Fitters.

ERNEST L. LYON,

Inspector of Buildings.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF EXAMINERS OF GAS FITTERS.

The Board of Examiners of Gas Fitters organized with choice of Luther M. Merrill as chairman, and Alfred G. Sanborn as clerk, and voted to hold meetings for examinations the second and fourth Mondays in each month, if necessary. Ten such meetings were held, at which twelve applicants were examined, and the following certified to the Inspector of Buildings for licenses: Frank E. Small and A. Frank Bonney as masters, and Lionel McKenzie, Edward P. Kaine, R. A. Craige and Frank P. McMahon as journeymen.

REPORT OF THE SEALER OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

BROOKLINE, February 1, 1901.

To the Honorable Board of Selectmen:—

GENTLEMEN, — I have the honor of submitting the report of the Sealer of Weights and Measures for the year ending January 31, 1901.

Whole number of scales, weights and measures examined.	11,188

Number of scales, weights and measures found under legal standard	520
Number found over legal standard	75
Number of visits made to stores and pedlers	148
“ “ “ “ “ “ on complaint	18
Number of “weighed out” packages tested	167
“ “ “ “ “ found short	4

One dealer was especially complained of for selling short weight packages, but several visits were made and thirty-seven packages tested, every one being found correct.

Of the eighteen complained of during the year, three were notified that their scales, weights and measures must be brought up to the legal standard within two days or prosecution would follow, six were using defective scales and weights which were repaired by the Sealer, five were reported to sealers of adjacent cities, and the complaints against the remainder were found to be, after investigation, largely imaginary on the part of the complainant.

Seventy-four places of business were visited and 1,085 scales, weights and measures were inspected and sealed, for which fees amounting to $51.10 were collected and paid over to the Town Treasurer. Ten thousand one hundred and three scales, weights and measures were inspected and sealed at the office, for which no fees were charged, in accordance with Chap. 65, Sec. 23, of the Public Statutes.

The town scales were inspected, adjusted and sealed October 6th.

Of thirty-one itinerant peddlers reported by sealers of adjoining cities and towns, twenty-three were examined and eleven measures and one scale condemned.

The number of scales, weights and measures condemned for the year amounted to but $3\frac{3}{10}\%$ of the whole number inspected, against $6\frac{7}{10}\%$ the previous year, showing a decrease of $3\frac{2}{5}\%$. This is very gratifying, as it shows that dealers are more careful to have their weights and measures up to the legal standard, thereby insuring our citizens a greater degree of justice.

An examination was made to ascertain the weight of bread being sold in town both in stores and on teams, and it was found that several dealers were selling bread very much under the weight required by law. As the loaves were uniformly large enough in size to compare with those of proper weight and the dealers showed evidence of carelessness rather than intent to cheat, no prosecutions were made, but they were notified that the required weight must be furnished, or immediate prosecution would follow, and this has thus far had the desired effect.

The obliging of peddlers to obtain a license from the Chief of Police and have their teams inspected and wagons numbered has greatly decreased the number of hawkers and peddlers to be found upon our streets, and limits this class of business to men who show more regard for the law than formerly.

Of the several bills relating to the sealing of weights and measures presented to the Legislature the past year, only the two which are intended to benefit the public were approved, and which I herewith append.

ACTS OF 1900, CHAPTER 339.

AN ACT TO REGULATE THE SIZE OF BERRY BASKETS.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

SECTION 1. All baskets or other receptacles used or intended to be used in the sale of strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, cherries, currants and gooseberries shall be of the capacity of one quart, one pint, or one half pint, Massachusetts standard dry measure.

SECT. 2. Whoever sells or offers for sale a basket or other receptacle not conforming to said standard, to be used in the sale of any of the aforesaid fruit, and whoever sells or offers for sale any of the aforesaid fruit in any basket or other receptacle not conforming to the said standard, shall be punished by a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than ten dollars for each offence.

SECT. 3. The said baskets or other receptacles shall not be required to be tested and sealed as provided by chapter sixty-five of the Public Statutes, but the sealer or deputy sealer of weights and measures of any city or town, or the deputy sealer of the Commonwealth, may, when he so desires, and shall upon complaint, test the capacity of any basket or other receptacle in which any of the aforesaid fruit is sold or intended to be sold; and when the same is found to contain less than the standard measure it shall be his duty to seize the same, and to make complaint against the vendor for the violation of the law.

SECT. 4. This act shall take effect on the first day of January in the year nineteen hundred and one. [Approved May 23, 1900.]

ACTS OF 1900, CHAPTER 369.

AN ACT RELATIVE TO THE SEALING OF BOTTLES AND CANS USED BY MILKMEN.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

SECTION 1. Cans, bottles or other receptacles used for the distribution of milk or cream to the consumer shall be sealed as measures, under the provisions of section twelve of chapter sixty-five of the Public Statutes; and no fee shall be charged or received for sealing the same.

SECT. 2. This act shall take effect in cities on the thirty-first day of December of the current year, and in towns on the first day of March in the year nineteen hundred and one. [Approved June 6, 1900.]

The former act will give jurisdiction over a class of fruit and berry pedlers who frequent our streets in the summer, selling their merchandise at reduced prices, but, in most cases, in very much undersized baskets. The latter classes all milk receptacles as measures, and will relieve the sealers from being obliged to overhaul milk teams upon the streets, as has often been found necessary when dealers have refused to comply with the Sealer's notice, and gives both the towns and the cities and the sealers that protection in cases of seizure and the condemning of milk jars the need of which had become apparent when cases have been carried to the higher courts by jar manufacturers.

A dealer is now liable to prosecution if he does not conform to the Sealer's notice, but it is recommended by the State

Deputy that we first notify the sealer from whose district he comes, and it is incumbent upon the dealer to have the work done by that sealer. While this will decrease the number of jars and cans to be sealed in Brookline, as many of our milk dealers come from other districts, yet on the whole the duties will be augmented by the more frequent inspections and the communicating with other sealers.

A visit was received January 1st from Mr. S. V. Palmer, the State Deputy Sealer, who, after looking over the work of the year, expressed himself as well pleased with the accommodations being provided for the Sealer at the Town Hall, and the work done in Brookline up to that date.

During the summer Mr. William F. Coughlin was appointed a Deputy Sealer, without pay, which greatly facilitated the handling of milk jars and was advantageous in many ways, and I wish to acknowledge my appreciation of his services; also the courtesy and assistance of the Chief of Police, Dr. F. H. Osgood, and other officials and citizens of the town who have kindly aided me.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLARD E. WARD,

Sealer of Weights and Measures.

GENTLEMEN, — The Committee on the Care and Management of the Public Baths respectfully submits its fourth annual report.

The total number of baths taken during the fiscal year, February 1st, 1900, to January 31st, 1901, inclusive, was 51,453, as against 49,391 during the corresponding period of the previous year,—a gain of 2,062. The following tables explain themselves:—

January	329 00
Total receipts	$6,151 50

The appropriation for maintenance for the fiscal year beginning February 1st, 1900, and ending January 31st, 1901, was $8,000, and the expenditure for the same period, $7,994.10. The details of this account appear in the report of the Town

Treasurer. Deducting from the latter sum $6,151.50, which represents the receipts of the Bath House for the fiscal year, we find that the actual cost to the town for maintenance for twelve months was $1,842.60, as against $2,366.50 for the previous year. It will be seen by these figures that the cost was less for the last year than the year before, and, considering the moderateness of the fees charged and the large number of free baths given, the Committee considers the financial showing a favorable one.

Heating and Lighting.

397 tons of coal were used during the year at a cost of $1,411.02, and coal cost 78 cents a ton more than the previous year. The heating apparatus has, as before, worked well even in the coldest weather. One of the two boilers is amply sufficient to do all the required work; therefore, they are used in alternation. There is in this way a saving in wear and tear in the plant. The heat in the hair-drying room is now supplied by high pressure, resulting in some economy.

The lighting was mainly by gas, costing altogether $449.85, the electricity only costing of this sum $28.00.

Water.

The large tank in the Natatorium holds a little over 70,000 gallons of water. While the exact amount used to keep it filled cannot be given, it is interesting to know how much town water has been consumed for every purpose in the Bath House. For the twelve months this was found to be about 17,000,000, as against 18,000,000 gallons during the previous year. For this no water charge has been made.

Non-residents.

6,163 non-residents have availed themselves of the privileges of the Public Baths during the year, 3,651 of them being men, 1,074 boys, 1,339 women, and 99 girls. This is an increase of 612 over the previous year. They have not in any way interfered with resident bathers, and have materially contributed to the receipts. Since January 1st, 1899, non-residents have had the privilege of buying commutation tickets. During the last year $871.50 was received from the selling of these tickets, which came largely from non-residents. It is undoubted that this way of paying for baths has materially added to this class of attendance.

A considerable number of students from Wellesley College and from the Boston Normal School of Gymnastics received swimming instruction in small classes. As many of these students are soon to be teachers, there can be no doubt that the public will receive direct benefit from the knowledge they gained of swimming and life-saving.

Fee System.

During the fiscal year, as already stated in Table I., 6,307 rain and tub baths were taken, only 437 of these being paid for. If we add the 3293 free baths taken in the Natatorium by public school pupils, 361 by the police, 786 by the Vacation School children and 165 by all others, we get a total of 10,475, which is about one-fifth, or twenty per cent, of the whole number of baths taken during the year. This is certainly a large percentage. It must be said, of course, of the public school children, that they took their baths as part of the school instruction.

The Committee would again reiterate the opinion founded on the experience of former years, that they feel they were justified in adopting the fee system, not only because it has made the Bath House far less a burden to the taxpayers of the town, but because it has enabled them to exercise a proper control over those who have taken baths. It is a question whether during the past year many persons have not availed themselves of the free days who were able to pay. Often they come on free days, not because they are unwilling to pay, but because it is a convenient day for them. The Committee are considering the desirability of asking all those who can afford to pay to do so.

Employees.

The heating plant is necessarily expensive in proportion to the size of the building, and bathers must be taken care of in varying numbers, not to be definitely gauged in advance. Prompt and efficient service is, therefore, of the first importance. The staff as at present organized is composed of a superintendent, an assistant, a matron, two laundresses and two engineers. In the busiest season and during vacations extra help is occasionally required. It will be readily seen that the salaries of this number of employees must be considerable, but there can be no reduction without impairing the efficiency of the establishment.

Bathing Suits.

Bathing suits are furnished free, with towels, to all persons using the Natatorium, unless provided by themselves. Such suits must meet the requirements of the Committee. At first, bathing suits were a large item in the expenditures, but strong, durable and inexpensive materials have since been made use of, and this expense materially lessened.

School Instruction.

During the fiscal year 3298 swimming lessons were taken as part of the regular school instruction, and adding the 786 given to the Vacation School children, there were 4079 taken by the pupils of the public schools altogether. It will be seen that the number taking lessons in the course of the regular school instruction was 1537 less than the previous year. This may be partly accounted for by the fact that a large number of children attending the schools make use of the Bath House at all seasons of the year, learning in that way to swim without special instruction, and also by the fact that high school pupils have their time during school hours so filled with work that it is not considered expedient to give any of it to swimming instruction, and it is also the case that many of them have already learned to swim before reaching the high school, and hence it is unnecessary for them to take lessons. Instruction, therefore, is confined to the upper grades of the grammar schools, and probably, as time goes on, more children from the lower grades will also be able to take part in it, and the numbers tend to increase rather than diminish.

This year, for the first time, the Director of Physical Training in the public schools has had charge of the swimming instruction. This department of our school work has again met with the approval of the Massachusetts Humane Society, and it has had a special form of certificate prepared, to be given to school children showing proficiency in swimming and life saving. We feel that the thanks of the town are due to this society for its encouragement of the work of our public baths.

As already stated in Table III. the total number of private lessons given was 5717, as against 5180 the previous year. Dr. Street resigned as instructor, and in his place Mr. G. T. Holm was appointed, and has given entire satisfaction. He, with Mr. Fletcher and two sisters of Dr. Street, continue to give lessons as before, paying over to the town 40 per cent of the total receipts. It will be seen that there has been a gain of 537 in the number of lessons given, and it is probable that this number will be somewhat increased from year to year, judging from present indications.

Swimming Club.

It is fair to say that the last year has been the most successful the club has known. The Committee have watched its development with great interest, especially as it has made such good use of its opportunities that it has now become one of the strongest clubs in the country, and it has done this in a quiet way by hard and honest work. Last year it won first prize at a number of local competitions, and was only half a yard behind the winning team in the relay race at the New York Sportsman's Show.

It has, of course, been a great advantage for the club to be able to practice in the Natatorium, but on the other hand the club has done a great deal to enhance the interest of the town by making the Public Baths known to thousands who would not otherwise have heard of it. It should be a source of great satisfaction to our citizens that the Brookline Swimming Club, purely on its merits, is second to none in the country, and we wish that they might show their recognition by becoming members in greater numbers than at present, which can be done on the payment of only one dollar a year.

Holidays.

The experiment has been made of opening the baths on holidays; but little use has been made of them on some of these days, as will be seen from the following figures: February 22 there were 25 bathers; April 19th, 88; May 30th, 113; June 17th, 74; July 4th, 93; Labor Day, 112; Thanksgiving, 17; Christmas, 26.

It is therefore proposed to open the Bath House during the holidays only in the warmer weather, when the attendance seems large enough to make it worth while to do so.

Hygienic Uses of Water.

In the report last year we referred to the action of water upon the skin as an important agent in improving the health.

Since that time hydrotherapy has been considerably extended, and within a few years it must become a valuable means of treating a number of diseases. The man in this country who has done the most in the direction of the use of water in disease is Dr. Simon Baruch of New York, who, for a number of years, has strongly urged it, and has published a valuable book on the subject. In this he says, referring to the physiological effect of water: "The inference is as clear as day that an enormous influence must be exercised by procedures which impress such changes upon the calibre of the vessels, the action of the heart and the composition of the blood in health, and that its effect in disease must be equally pronounced." He says further that the respiration is most favorably influenced by cold water, and refers to some experiments on muscle fatigue which was removed and superior muscular capacity established by the use of water. Experiments detailed show what he calls an enormous enhancement of tissue change resulting from the use of rather mild cold baths. We know that the skin is an important organ of excretion, and these tissue changes if carried on within normal limits are of great value in helping to maintain the proper adjustment of waste and repair, and are a means of preventing disease. Dr. Baruch also says: "The skin is of the greatest importance as a heat regulator, depending on its first being an organ of excretion and second an organ of sense. The cutaneous nerve endings stand guard, as it were, over most of the functions of the human body."

These brief quotations from a well-known authority give a suggestion of the position which may yet be assumed by the use of water as a means of preserving the health and treating disease, and are of great interest in connection with the work of the Public Bath.

General Remarks.

Since our last report the town on the 9th of May last suffered a severe loss in the death of Mr. James B. Hand, one of the most valued members of our Committee. Mr. Hand was on the building committee which had charge of the erection of the Bath House, and before that had rendered most efficient aid in getting the necessary appropriations at the town meetings. The following resolutions were entered on our records at the time of Mr. Hand's death:—

“Resolved, That in the death of James B. Hand the Brookline Public Bath Committee has lost an esteemed and valuable member.

“Born in Newfoundland 71 years ago, he came to Brookline in early manhood, and here, ever since, he worked faithfully at his business, but never failed to find time and strength to aid a worthy cause. His deep interest in the welfare of the people of Brookline, especially of the poor and of the young, was well known to his colleagues of this Committee. He was especially interested in all efforts to give children such an education as would enable them to be self-supporting by the possession of trained hands, strong bodies and, last but not least, right principles and habits of thought and action. To this end he coöperated heartily all his life with organizations and individuals engaged in the work that lay so near his heart.

“His great interest in all public improvements, combined with his ability and enthusiasm in whatever he undertook, were of great value to the town, but perhaps his greatest effort was in the entirely new field of providing for the town its greatly needed improved public bathing facilities. In this work he was one of the pioneers, and his associates will not soon forget the unfaltering courage he always displayed when advocating this measure for the promotion of the bathing habit, and for teaching children and others an art the possession of which may enable them at some time to save their own lives or those of others.

“So well equipped to continue his good work, and so endeared to all who really knew him, his associates of the Committee had hoped his life on earth might continue much longer, but it was otherwise ordained. The influence of his life, however, will ever be with us; be it ours to make a practical reality the high ideals of public service for which our beloved colleague stood.

“Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be sent to the Brookline papers and to the family.”

The year just passed has been the most prosperous in our history in all directions. The attendance has been greater than the previous year, and the income materially larger. It has been a source of some surprise to the Committee that there should have been such a steady increase, as it was not unnatural, after the first year or two, to expect that there might be some falling off. Especially is it gratifying that the receipts have increased, as the expense to the town of carrying on the Baths has been thereby materially reduced, and this has been effected without curtailing its usefulness.

It may be said here that the Committee have had many evidences of the increasing interest in providing bathing facilities for the public in the number of persons from a distance who have visited the baths. Among these during the past year may be mentioned representatives of the Worcester, Lowell and Somerville city governments.

The Committee can this year for the fourth time testify to the good work done by the employees, especially Mr. Rich and his assistant. Beginning without any knowledge of how such an establishment should be managed, the superintendent has gradually acquired skill and experience in the performance of his peculiar and arduous duties, and has now become what we may call an expert in his department, whose services are of great value to the town.

Estimates of Appropriation for 1901.

Wages	$5,150 00
Fuel	1,500 00
Lighting	500 00
Bathing suits and towels	150 00
Repairs	250 00
Miscellaneous supplies	150 00
Contingencies	300 00
Special repairs and improvements	1,052 00
	$9,052 00

The last item in the appropriation asked for is for the following purposes: First, $467.00 for inside painting of the walls and ceiling of the Natatorium. This work was not thoroughly done when the building was erected, and the constant moisture from the tank for four years has taken the life out of it, so that it is shabby and not the protection it should be to the walls. Second, $85.00 to improve the dressing-room doors. These are about a foot above the floor level, making it possible for boys to crawl under and pick the pockets of the bathers while in the water. These doors should be carried down nearly to the floor. Third, $500.00 for permanent seats in the galleries. These are required at all exhibitions and when there are visitors. They can be built in for the above sum.

There were 11 deaths during the year from diphtheria, none from scarlet fever, 2 from typhoid fever, 3 from measles, 1 from whooping cough, and 21 from consumption.

It should be stated that of the 247 cases reported as diphtheria, 51 were healthy persons in whose throats diphtheria bacilli were found. Previous to 1899 no cases of this class would have been reported because not detected. There were 36 deaths from pneumonia, 20 from cancer, and 47 from heart disease.

The number of deaths from all causes between January 1, 1900, and December 31, 1900, inclusive, was 285, as against 255 in 1899, 264 in 1898, and 220 in 1897. Deducting the still births, 13 in number, leaves 272 deaths during the year. With a population of 19,935, according to the census of 1900, 272 deaths give a mortality of 13.64 per one thousand inhabitants for 1900, as against 11.63 for the previous year.† When it is remembered that this number of deaths includes (as is usual in the reports of the Board) those of 33 residents who died away from home, and also of 21 non-residents who died while temporarily sojourning in Brookline, the mortality of the past year is a very small one.

*No record kept of typhoid fever cases until 1882.

† The mortality for 1899 was calculated on an estimated population of 20,374.

The number of births reported during 1900 was 471, as against 475 in 1899 and 472 in 1898.

The laws in regard to vaccination are being well observed, and there have been no cases of small-pox.

Cases of chicken-pox that closely resembled small-pox have been reported to the Board, and in each case thoroughly investigated. The building used for small-pox patients is kept in readiness for use, but so long as each and every citizen does his duty in regard to protecting himself and his household (including his servants) by vaccination and occasional revaccination, the building is likely to remain vacant. The laws made for the protection of school children against small-pox and other contagious diseases are more faithfully lived up to at present than for several years past, an improvement largely due to the cordial co-operation of Superintendent of Schools George I. Aldrich.

The diphtheria epidemic that prevailed throughout almost the whole of eastern Massachusetts during the fall and early winter found Brookline still unprovided with adequate hospital accommodations. The Board met the situation, however, by erecting close to the old diphtheria building, a fairly comfortable structure that received from 12 to 20 patients, according to the urgency of the occasion. This was put up in a week, and was used for patients who were less ill than the others, and for those who had become convalescent, the old building being reserved for the more serious cases. Later it was found necessary to use the so-called probation ward and the small-pox building (not used for small-pox for six years) to accommodate patients that needed hospital isolation and care, thus bringing up the number of patients at the hospital at one time to 35. The absence of an isolation hospital at such a time would have meant a large increase in the number of cases of diphtheria in the town, not to mention great loss of schooling for many children, for most of the patients in the hospital came from crowded tenements in the more densely populated districts, a large proportion of them, about one-third, living in the district bounded by Boylston and Cypress streets and the Boston and Albany railroad. It was not considered necessary the past year to compel any patients to go to the hospital, a fact very gratifying to the Board, and to those in charge of the hospital.

A new ambulance, constructed according to plans prepared by the Agent and the Bacteriologist of the Board, has given great satisfaction. It is made as far as possible to resemble, outwardly, a common depot carriage, to avoid unpleasant conspicuousness, but at the same time possesses every essential of the best form of ambulance. It has a rear door as well as side doors, and every modern appliance for moving safely and comfortably the sickest patient, whether child or adult, and, furthermore, is easy to disinfect. The ambulance is kept at the hospital, and when going for a patient one of the nurses usually accompanies the driver.

Though the cost of maintenance of such hospitals is necessarily considerable, the Board considers that money spent for the prevention of suffering and death from the more or less preventable diseases, is money wisely expended. Of the 151 patients admitted to the hospital during 1900, 137 had diphtheria and 14 scarlet fever. Of the 137 diphtheria, all except 4 recovered (a mortality of less than 3 per cent), and of the 14 scarlet fever patients, the whole number recovered. To the use of anti-toxine, provided by the State Board of Health, the very small death rate in the diphtheria hospital is in large part due.

A supply of State Board anti-toxine is constantly kept on hand by the local board, and for convenience is kept at Young & Brown's drug store, where any physician or his messenger may obtain it free at any hour of the day or night.

Though neighboring towns have had a scarlet fever epidemic the past year, as well as a diphtheria epidemic, Brookline has been spared the former, a fact mainly due, it is believed, to the Board's policy of rigidly isolating every case needing it.

The circulars of suggestions for preventing the spread of scarlet fever and diphtheria have recently been revised.

The experience of the past year has clearly shown the present and future need of more adequate hospital accommodations, and for the thorough consideration of this important matter the Board appointed a committee consisting of the chairman and Messrs. Merrill and Conant, with the Agent and the Bacteriologist of the Board. The medical members of this committee visited a number of isolation hospitals, among others those of Boston, Worcester, Newton and Cambridge, and in order to secure for the town the best expert advice in planning the new hospital buildings, which are necessarily of high-cost special construction, they availed themselves, with the approval of the Board, of the experience and advice of Dr. John H. McCollom, the superintendent of the contagious department of the Boston City Hospital, who endorses the plans prepared for the committee by Messrs. Shepley, Rutan and Coolidge. These plans are the result of much careful study of the whole subject of isolation hospitals and of special consideration of local requirements.

The medical inspection of the public schools and of the parochial school have been made as circumstances have required; at times daily, at other times every second day. During a part of the year they seemed unnecessary, and were therefore wholly suspended until needed. These inspections are paid for by the Health department. As a result of this work and the liberal use of cultures in the schools, it has not been necessary to close a school, or even a single room, the past year.

Considerable pains have been taken to trace the spread of typhoid fever and diphtheria to infected milk, but no conclusive evidence was found.

The number of deaths from consumption (21) shows a slight decrease compared with the previous year. The vital importance of the earliest possible recognition of this too common disease, and the removal of the patient as early as possible from the climatic and other conditions in which he or she contracted it to a more favorable climate and surroundings, cannot be overestimated, and the opportunity for the poor now offered by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in the excellent sanitarium for such patients at Rutland, in central Massachusetts, is being availed of by a number of Brookline residents. After a death from consumption, disinfection by the Board is now required in every case; and also after the removal of a consumptive patient, whenever in the opinion of the attending physician or Agent of the Board disinfection is necessary.

The free bacteriological examinations provided by the Board for the early diagnosis of diphtheria and typhoid fever have been much more extensively taken advantage of the past year than in previous years, and with great benefit to both patients and their families. To encourage parents and others to have cultures made early in all cases of sore throat, the Board in October gave notice that any person having a sore throat and unable to employ a physician could send direct for any one of the medical inspectors of schools, to decide by a culture whether he had diphtheria or not. The Board also authorized its Agent to send a school inspector to make the required cultures for release in cases of diphtheria infection where the family can ill afford to pay for such service. Any physician who has in his care such a patient may communicate with the Agent of the Board. These measures have given satisfactory results for all concerned.

The obvious advantages of a local laboratory, among others the securing of earlier reports from diphtheria diagnosis examinations, are now so generally recognized that the work of that department has increased threefold, making the employment of a laboratory attendant necessary.

During the year 3503 diphtheria cultures from 1923 persons, and 83 specimens of sputum, suspected to be tubercular, were examined, and 61 typhoid tests (Widal's) were made. (Special attention is called to the report of the Bacteriologist.) To facilitate the making of these tests by physicians, diphtheria culture outfits and sputum bottles are constantly kept on hand at the drug stores of Messrs. Young & Brown, Harvard Square, and A. J. Hayman, corner Beacon and Park streets. Every evening all cultures made during the day are taken to the laboratory. The following morning, about nine o'clock, reports are telephoned to the physicians. By this arrangement a report is received much earlier than before the local laboratory was established, a very great advantage to the patient and to the family.

The attention of physicians is respectfully called to the importance of taking cultures from all cases of sore throat, as it is the opinion of the highest authorities that by inspection alone it is impossible to know whether or not there is an infection with diphtheria bacilli. The Board has been handicapped in its efforts to prevent the spread of diphtheria by the failure of some of the physicians to make the cultures necessary for a correct diagnosis.

It is also very important that physicians should make cultures from the well members of every family in which there is a case of diphtheria, as the report of the Bacteriologist for the past year shows that about 18 per cent of those thus exposed have virulent bacilli present.

It is only by the early detection of all cases of diphtheria, however light, and of healthy persons infected with the bacilli, that the Board can control the spread of the disease. To accomplish this the Board has to rely on the intelligent co-operation of the physicians.

Formaldehyde disinfection of rooms, bedding, etc., after scarlet fever and diphtheria, has been continued, and proves to be effective.* After cases of these diseases, the disinfection is done by the disinfecter appointed by the Board, and is done free of expense where the householder is unable to pay for it. During the year ending January 31st, 1901, formaldehyde disinfection has been done after 198 cases of diphtheria, 28 cases of scarlet fever, and by special request, after 12 other cases of infectious disease; for example, consumption and measles. Infected library, school and other books, clothing, etc., are disinfected by formaldehyde in a cabinet specially constructed by the Board and tested by the Bacteriologist. The work of the disinfecter was so much increased the past year that the use of an assistant and a horse were necessary a large part of the time.

Intermittent fever (malaria) seems to be less prevalent than in previous years, and it is believed this may be attributed in part to the draining of certain districts.

The securing of greater cleanliness and tidiness of sidewalks, streets, squares and yards, especially back-yards, has been receiving the attention of the Board, and the rubbish barrels placed by the Superintendent of Streets in a number of localities in need of them, have done such good service that their number has been increased. In its efforts for this improvement in the cleanliness and tidiness of our town the Board earnestly asks for the help of all the citizens, and especially of the school children.

Deciding, after inspection, that certain dwelling houses had become unfit for occupancy, the Board took the necessary steps to have them vacated and put in order before again being occupied. (See report of the Sanitary Inspector.) This required a large number of visits by the Inspector, in one instance not less than 50, before the premises were finally made fit for occupancy. More house inspections ought to be made next year to prevent overcrowding and other unsanitary conditions.

The appreciation by the citizens, especially the children, of the value as a health measure of frequent bathing, continues to be shown by the experience at our Public Bath House, where over 51,000 baths were taken the past year, a good increase over the attendance of any previous year.

Before closing this report of an unusually busy year, the Agent of the Board wishes to acknowledge the assistance he has received from his colleague, Dr. Denny, also to thank the physicians of the town, especially the Medical Inspectors of Schools, and the many other persons, town officers and private citizens, who have assisted him with his work, some with professional service, many with gifts of books, magazines and toys for the Board of Health Hospitals, others with information or valuable suggestions. At the hospitals the nurses have served faithfully and well, though at times under very trying circumstances. Mr. Estey, also, who has acted as ambulance driver, special police officer and general care-taker, deserves mention for the efficient manner in which he has discharged his various duties.

The Boards of Health in the several cities and towns shall cause a record to be kept of all reports received in pursuance of the preceding sections, and such record shall contain the names of all persons who are sick, the localities in which they live, the diseases with which they are affected, together with the date and names of the persons reporting any such cases. The Board of Health shall give the School Committee immediate information of all cases of contagious diseases reported to them according to the provisions of this act.

SECT. 4. The Secretary of the Commonwealth shall furnish the Boards of Health with blank books for the record of cases of contagious diseases as above provided.

[The Board of Health considers small-pox, scarlet fever, measles, diphtheria, membranous croup, cholera, typhus fever and typhoid fever to come within the meaning of sections one and two of the above, but disinfection after measles and typhoid is not insisted upon.]

* In Brookline disinfection after small-pox, scarlet fever, diphtheria and consumption is done by the Board of Health, and is done free of expense where the householder is unable to pay for it.

ORDERS OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

1. Ordered, That no child be allowed to attend school from any household in which there is or has been a case of scarlet fever, measles or diphtheria, until all danger of conveying such disease by such child is passed, and the following conditions have been complied with, namely: that six weeks shall have passed from the commencement of the last case in the household if scarlet fever; one week shall have passed after recovery, if measles; and if diphtheria, two weeks shall have elapsed from the date of the second successive negative bacteriological culture, said cultures in every case to be made from both nose and throat. Any pupil coming from such household shall be required to present to his or her teacher a certificate from the attending physician, or the Board of Health, or its agent, stating the facts necessary to entitle the pupil to readmission, in accordance with this order.

2. Ordered, That no child who has visited a house in which there was at the time a case of scarlet fever shall attend school until the expiration of two weeks following exposure, unless he has already had that disease.

3. Ordered, That no child ill with whooping-cough be allowed to attend school; and further, that no child from a household in which there is a case of whooping-cough shall continue in school, unless he or she has already had that disease.

4. Ordered, That no child from any house where there is a case of scarlet fever or diphtheria shall be allowed to mingle with persons from any other house until after the removal, recovery or death of the patient and the disinfection of the premises.

5. Ordered, That every house infected with diphtheria, scarlet fever or small-pox shall have affixed on or near the front door a card, furnished by the Board of Health, stating the disease to be avoided; and any unauthorized person removing such a card shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars.

6. Ordered, That the clerk of the Board of Health be directed to notify the Trustees of the Public Library of the existence of any case of contagious disease as soon as reported.

7. Ordered, That such rooms and such articles in any house, as in the opinion of the Board of Health have been subjected to infection or contagion from small-pox, scarlet fever, diphtheria or consumption, shall be disinfected by the Board. The attending physician or the Agent of the Board of Health shall decide in each case as to the proper time for disinfecting, and shall then notify the Board; but in no case of scarlet fever shall disinfection be done in less than four weeks from the commencement of the last case in the household (except by special permit of the Agent of the Board); and in diphtheria disinfection shall not be done until after at least two successive negative bacteriological cultures from both nose and throat have been obtained; and in all cases a certificate of the attending physician shall be required, stating that all danger of infection from the patient is passed; said certificate in case of diphtheria to be based on the result of bacteriological examinations as above prescribed. Disinfection by the Board shall also be done in every case after a death from consumption, and after the removal of a consumptive patient, whenever in the opinion of the attending physician or of the Agent of the Board, disinfection is necessary.

8. Ordered, That no public funeral shall be held over the remains of any person who has died of small-pox, scarlet fever or diphtheria, without the written permit of the Board of Health, and under such regulations as may prevent the spread of either of said diseases. Ordered, further, that the remains of any person who has died from either of said diseases shall at once be placed in a tight or sealed coffin, and shall not thereafter be exposed to view or disturbed except for burial.

9. Ordered. That the undertakers of the town be notified to warn families, in the case of the death of a member from contagious disease, against a public funeral.

10. Ordered. That circulars suggesting means for preventing the spread of scarlet fever and diphtheria be sent to every house in which a case of said fever or diphtheria shall be reported.

11. Ordered. That no person infected with diphtheria, membranous croup or scarlet fever, shall leave the Board of Health Hospitals until the Board of Health or its agent shall find and certify that all danger of communicating such disease has passed.

12. Ordered. That no person other than patients, physicians and nurses shall enter the Board of Health Hospitals, except with the special permission of the Board, or of its agent.

13. Ordered. That visiting the grounds of the Board of Health Hospitals shall be allowed daily between the hours of 2 and 3 P. M. only, except with the special permission of the Agent of the Board; but in no case shall children be allowed to visit the premises.

14. Ordered. That no article of food be sent to the patients in the Board of Health Hospitals excepting fruit, which must be left with the nurse in charge.

15. Ordered. That in the case of death where the deceased has not been attended by a practicing physician, the certificate of death shall be issued by the Medical Examiner.

16. Ordered. That no dead body of any person shall be carried to any cemetery, or from one place to another within the town, in any public vehicle other than a hearse or undertaker's wagon provided for that purpose.

17. Ordered. That the use of "wall draperies" in any room or place used for a funeral or for the preparation or retention of any human body before or in connection with such funeral be and the same is hereby forbidden.

18. Ordered. That no person shall spit upon the floor of any public conveyance, shop, store, hall, church, school-house, railroad station or other public building in said town, or upon the steps of any of said conveyances or buildings, or upon the sidewalk (spitting into the gutter or street is not forbidden) of any public way of said town.

19. Ordered. That no person or corporation shall keep or allow to be kept upon any premises in his or its possession, within the limits of this town, more than one cow, without securing a permit from the Board of Health to do so. Such permit shall expire on the first day of May, annually.

20. Ordered. That no person or corporation shall use any building as a stable for cows, unless such building is properly lighted and ventilated; has a tight floor and roof; good drainage, connecting wherever practicable with the public sewer; a supply of pure water, and not less than one thousand cubic feet of air space for each animal.

21. Ordered. That manure shall not be allowed to accumulate in the neighborhood of barns. Yards surrounding buildings where cows are kept must be well drained and free from standing water and filth. The barns shall be kept as clean as possible, and the floor shall be sprinkled before being swept.

22. Ordered. That animals kept for the production of milk shall not be fed upon swill.

23. Ordered. That neither hogs nor manure shall be kept in cellars of cow stables, except by special permit of the Board of Health.

24. Ordered, That a person having any infectious disease (the Board considers consumption to come within the meaning of the statutes in regard to infectious diseases), or having recently been in contact with any such person, shall not be allowed to milk cows or handle cans, measures or other vessels used for milk intended for sale, or in any way take part or assist in the sale of the same, until the Board of Health is satisfied that all danger of communicating such disease is past.

25. Ordered, The premises where cattle are kept shall be open at all times to inspection by the Board of Health, or its appointed officer.

26. Ordered, That upon satisfactory evidence being furnished to the Board of Health of violation of any of the above regulations, the permit will be revoked.

27. Ordered, That from May 1st to November 1st no vault or cesspool shall be emptied by any other than the odorless process, nor by carts not of the Odorless Excavating Company, except permission be first obtained from the Chief of Police.

28. Ordered, That the manure from livery stables shall not be removed between the hours of sunrise and sunset.

29. Ordered, That no manure heap shall be allowed within one hundred feet of any dwelling, unless so covered as not to prove offensive.

30. Ordered, That all householders be required to keep the waste material set out by them for removal by the town in separate receptacles. In one or more of such receptacles, only ashes, tin cans, and other incombustible waste material shall be placed for removal; in a second, preferably made of sheet iron and having a close-fitting cover, only the swill; in a third, only dry combustible waste, such as paper, old shoes, house sweepings and such other waste material as it is customary for the Health department to remove.

31. Ordered, That no person shall overhaul the contents of receptacles for waste material set upon the sidewalks to be removed by the town.

EXTRACTS FROM THE PUBLIC STATUTES.

CHAP. 80, SECT. 18. The Board of Health of a town shall make such regulations as it judges necessary for the public health and safety, respecting nuisances, sources of filth and causes of sickness within its town. . . . Whoever violates any such regulation shall forfeit a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars.

REPORT OF THE SANITARY AGENT.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH,
BROOKLINE, MASS., January 31st, 1901.

To the Board of Health:—

GENTLEMEN,—I have the honor to submit the following report for the year ending January 31st, 1901:—

The number of visits of inspection was 218. All complaints alleging nuisances were fully investigated, and where real nuisances were found to exist they have been abated under direction of the Board. These nuisances usually consisted of filthy yards, cellars and henneries, defective house drainage, overflowing cesspools, offensive stables and similar nuisances.

Stables to the number of seven have been complained of during the year, and certain sources of annoyance and offense were corrected in all of them.

On complaint, investigations were made during the summer of the plumbing and drainage of four tenement houses where there had been cases of infectious disease. The Board required extensive changes to be made in the drainage of all of them, which was carried out under the direction of the writer.

In October, on complaint, a nuisance in premises on Hart street, which had long been a source of annoyance, if not of disease, was abated by the Board, and the owner was also required to connect her dwelling with the sewer and install modern plumbing and drainage, which she did. In December the attention of the Board was directed to the unsanitary conditions prevailing in seven different tenement houses in various parts of the town. Certain much-needed sanitary improvements were required and made in six of them; no action seemed necessary in regard to one found unoccupied and very much out of repair.

An event deserving of special mention was the abatement of a long-standing nuisance and the correction of especially disgraceful conditions in certain tenement premises on Emerald street. Serious efforts had been made by the existing and former Boards to remedy the evils complained of, but owing to legal and other difficulties, but little progress was made. In July, however, the Board caused a legal notice of ejectment to be served on the occupants, as a result of which entirely new plumbing and drainage was substituted for the old, the interiors of both houses were thoroughly renovated, the yard drained and graded, the old vault in the cellar abolished, its material and contents carted off, and the whole premises left in good sanitary condition. We feel sure that the results obtained will conduce to the preservation of the public health.

In conformity with the Acts of 1896, Chapter 418, the Board caused the usual inspection of bakeries to be made. As a result two water closets were required to be removed, and improvements in their general condition as to cleanliness made in two other bakeries.

During the year the Board has granted permits to build and maintain seven cesspools and one temporary privy in places where there were no sewers. Fifty-eight permits for improving the drainage have been granted.

From February 1st, 1900, to January 31st, 1901, Mr. W. E. Ward, Disinfecter for the Board, disinfected with formaldehyde and corrosive sublimate the infected rooms after 198 cases of diphtheria, 28 cases of scarlet fever and 5 cases of consumption. By special request he also disinfected the infected rooms after seven miscellaneous cases of infectious disease; for example, measles and typhoid fever. He disinfected in a formaldehyde cabinet about 450 school and library books that were under suspicion, and burned several wagon loads of badly infected bedding, clothing, etc., by direction of attending physicians or of the Agent of the Board.

Respectfully submitted,

MICHAEL DUFFLEY,
Sanitary Agent.

REPORT OF THE BACTERIOLOGIST.

LABORATORY OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH,
BROOKLINE, MASS., February 1st, 1901.

To the Board of Health:—

GENTLEMEN,—I have the honor to submit the following report for the year ending January 31st, 1901:—

The work carried on at the laboratory during the past year has been of the same character as during the preceding years. It has consisted of—

- (1) The examination of cultures from suspected cases of diphtheria;
- (2) The examination of sputum for the early detection of cases of pulmonary tuberculosis;
- (3) The test for the presence of the typhoid, or so-called Widal's reaction.

All of the above examinations are made without charge for residents of Brookline. The necessary outfits for the use of physicians are kept at Young & Brown's, Harvard Square, and also at Hayman's drug store, corner of Beacon and Park streets.

In addition to these, other microscopical and chemical examinations which aid in the diagnosis of non-contagious diseases have been made for the physicians of the town. A small fee has been charged, which has contributed somewhat to the support of the laboratory.

It was hoped that at the beginning of the year the laboratory would be established in its new quarters in the Court House building. It was found inexpedient, however, to complete the furnishing of the rooms until after the additional appropriation for the Health department was made at the special town meeting in January. On account of this delay the new laboratory will not be ready for occupancy until after the middle of this month.

There have been 3503 cultures from 1923 persons examined during the past year, or nearly three times the number of the preceding year. The increase is due partly to the greater number of cases of diphtheria, and partly to the more general use of cultures by the physicians.

Of the 1923 persons from whom cultures were made, 554 presented symptoms more or less suggestive of diphtheria, and among them 209 were found to have the bacilli of diphtheria present. More than one-third of these positive cases were not considered to be diphtheria by the attending physicians, and consequently would not have been promptly isolated and treated, had no cultures been made.

Cultures from 1369 healthy persons were examined. The experiences of the previous year having shown that diphtheria might be spread by healthy persons with the bacilli in their throats, special efforts were made to detect as many of these individuals as possible. When a school child has been taken sick with diphtheria, the school inspectors have made cultures from those children sitting adjacent to the child, or from all the children in the same room. 1154 cultures have been made in this way, and 43 healthy children with the bacilli in their throats or noses were discovered. In 18 of these the bacilli were very few in number and present only on one day, as the cultures which were made on the day following and subsequently were negative. It is hard to explain these cases which appear to be so slightly and transiently infected. It seems probable that they are not a great source of danger.

Of the 25 cases which were positive on more than one day, 4 were found by inoculation tests to be virulent, 12 were non-virulent, and in 9 the virulence was not tested. Very few of the 1154 school children had been much exposed. In many cases the cultures were made as a precautionary measure where the exposure was only suspected. This explains the occurrence of so few positive cases showing virulence.

In marked contrast to the school cases were the results of examinations of cultures from the healthy members of families where one or more persons had diphtheria. Realizing that the well members of such families may be a source of danger, some of the physicians have been making cultures from all who have been thus exposed. In this way cultures from 218 persons were examined, among whom 39 (18 per cent) were positive.

The bacilli from healthy persons who had been exposed were always found to be virulent when tested, and were therefore capable of transmitting the disease to others.

With very few exceptions, none of these healthy persons with virulent bacilli developed symptoms of diphtheria; many of them doubtless would have done so had they not received a protective dose of antitoxine. The antitoxine prevents, for a few weeks at least, the development of serious symptoms in the individual so protected, and is, therefore, of great benefit, but it does not prevent the germs multiplying in the throat and nose, and of so being transmitted to others. As no symptoms develop after antitoxine is given which would enable a physician to recognize a case as dangerous, it is only possible to discover the infected throats by means of cultures.

It is very much to be desired that more cultures should be made by the physicians from those who have been exposed, and especially from those who have received protective doses of antitoxine. The failure to recognize these cases often seriously impairs the effectiveness of measures which the Board takes to prevent the spread of the disease. The isolation of a case of diphtheria in the Board of Health Hospital accomplishes little if one or more healthy children with equally virulent bacilli in their throats are left at home. Such undiscovered cases may go about spreading the disease, and may re-infect the rooms which have been disinfected by the Board on the removal of the case to the hospital.

When healthy persons have been found with diphtheria bacilli in their throats, they have in most cases been isolated at home, but occasionally in the hospital. It has been the practice during the past year to determine as early as possible by means of inoculation tests the virulence of the bacilli in such cases. These have been made by the writer at the Harvard Medical School, through the courtesy of Prof. H. C. Ernst. When the bacilli were found to be non-virulent, the infected persons and their families have been freed from all restrictions, except that in no case during the past year has a child been allowed to return to school until the throat has been entirely free from bacilli.

The following are the results of the examinations of cultures, arranged in tabular form:—

	Total Number Examined.	Negatives.	Positives.	Number of Cases in which the virulence of the Bacilli was tested.	Found to be Virulent.	Found to be Non-Virulent.
Cultures from persons showing symptoms	554	345	209	*8	7	1
Cultures from persons exposed in families where there were cases of diphtheria	218	179	39	7	7	0
Cultures from healthy school children. Exposure slight or only suspected.	1151	1108	†43	16	‡4	12
Totals	1923	1632	291	31	18	13

In addition to the above mentioned, 1580 cultures were examined from those convalescent from diphtheria in order to determine when it was safe to release the patients from quarantine.

In January the Board of Health amended its orders so that two successive negative cultures from both throat and nose are now required for release. This change was necessary because it has often been found in this and other laboratories that the bacilli of diphtheria may persist in the nose a long time after they have ceased to be present in the throat.

There were 83 specimens of sputum examined for the presence of the bacilli of tuberculosis, 24 with positive results. There was also a specimen of cerebro-spinal fluid examined in which the bacilli of tuberculosis were found.

Sixty-one tests were made for the presence of the typhoid reaction in specimens of dried blood from suspected cases of typhoid fever. The reaction was present in 18 of these.

*These tests were made with cultures sent in during the convalescence of cases when the bacilli persisted for a long time. In the one case where the bacilli were non-virulent the diagnosis had been tonsillitis.

†Eighteen of these showed very few bacilli and were positive only one day.

‡Two of these were found to have been exposed at home.

The following table shows in brief the work which has been done in the laboratory:—

	1899	1900
Cultures examined	1242	3503
Specimens of sputum examined	91	83
Typhoid tests	25	61
Totals	1358	3647

Before closing this report I wish to express my thanks to Dr. George S. C. Badger and Mr. George P. Sanborn for their assistance in making the examinations.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANCIS P. DENNY,

Bacteriologist.

REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR OF MILK AND VETERINARY INSPECTOR.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH,

January 31, 1901.

To the Board of Health:—

GENTLEMEN,—As Inspector of Animals and Milk, I have the honor to submit the following report for the year ending December 31, 1900:—

The following letter, from the State Board of Cattle Commissioners, seems to be of sufficient general local interest to warrant me in bringing it to your attention:—

“BOSTON, October 1st, 1900.

“Dr. F. W. Osgood, Inspector of Animals:

“The Board of Cattle Commissioners hereby directs that you shall make a general inspection of the neat stock in your town, and incidentally other farm animals, to commence at once and to be completed on or before the 15th day of November, as required by Chapter 408, Acts of 1899. You will be provided with a book to carry out the provisions of Section 23 and a book to carry out the provisions of Section 29.

“Cattle are not to be quarantined as tuberculous unless they show enough evidence of disease to make it possible to condemn them on a physical examination, except the udder of a milch cow is tuberculous. On no account are cattle to be quarantined simply for the purpose of testing them with tuberculin when they show no physical signs of disease. The only exception to this rule is: That it is the duty of the inspectors of animals to quarantine all cattle brought into the state without a permit from this board, until the owner furnishes the Cattle Commission with satisfactory certificates of a tuberculin test. Before quarantining any cattle you should decide upon what cows you are going to quarantine, then send the papers on a number at once, so that our agent can see them all on one visit.

“As Section 29 requires that the results of your inspection shall be incorporated in the annual report of this board, you will see that it is necessary to have your returns by November 15th in order to prepare them for publication. Your books go forward today by express.

“MASSACHUSETTS CATTLE COMMISSION,

“AUSTIN PETERS, Chairman.”

A careful inspection of the animals was made and the required returns sent to the Board of Cattle Commissioners early in November.

No tuberculosis was found by this examination.

Of course it is not necessary for me to point out to your Board the uselessness of an examination of cattle for the existence of tuberculosis under the limitations of this order. If there is a real danger that those who subsist largely upon the milk of tuberculous cows, as in the cases of infants and certain invalids, protection should be sought through well-known and scientific methods, since it is very often impossible to determine by physical examination whether a cow is extensively diseased or entirely free from tuberculosis.

Nine glandered horses have been destroyed during the past year, as against three in 1899. Five of the nine cases occurred in one stable. All of the necessary measures for the proper and thorough disinfection of these premises were instituted by your agent. The contagion in these cases was undoubtedly contracted outside of the stables, where, in the larger outbreak, it evidently had remained undetected for a considerable period of time.

It is a well known fact that glanders is very prevalent in several of the adjoining cities, but the horses of Brookline have in the past, so far as I have been able to ascertain, been particularly fortunate in not contracting the disorder.

As the contagion of glanders is largely spread through the unavoidable promiscuous use of public watering troughs, I would recommend that, if possible, some action should be taken that will keep these that are situated within the limits of our town in as cleanly a condition as may reasonably be looked for from periodical inspections and the application of such measures as may, from time to time, be found necessary. Besides this, owners of horses should be urged to report to your Board the early existence of any suspicious cases that are within their knowledge.

The premises of all applicants for a license to keep more than one cow, under Sections 17 and 18 of the Orders of your Board, have been inspected and their condition certified to you. No such licenses have been granted until all the necessary conditions were complied with.

As the Department of Milk Inspection enters upon the work of the coming year, a number of changes must necessarily be made, owing largely to the fact that our laboratory in connection with this work has been moved from its former location to the new police building, where it will be maintained in connection with the town's bacteriological laboratory.

Under these conditions I beg to suggest:—

First, That, in my opinion, the efficacy of the department will be desirably increased by the examination of at least twice as many samples of milk.

Second, As the state law has been changed so that hereafter we shall be obliged to send the results of each inspection to the several dealers within ten days of the time at which the samples were taken, it will be necessary to at once prepare a new set of blank forms for this purpose.

The use of milk preservatives has been a little more general than last year. Of the various agents in common use for this purpose, formaldehyde has been found more frequently than any other in the samples examined. This is probably due to the fact that a large amount of advertising has been done by the proprietors of "Freezine" and "Preservaline," both of which contain some preparation of formaldehyde. "Preservaline" is probably the least objectionable of any of the preservatives generally used; its only effect on the milk being to render the casein a little more difficult of digestion by children and invalids. Nevertheless its use is prohibited by statute, and, therefore, the practice must be suppressed and those who are responsible for its continued use must be prosecuted.

As inspector of provisions I feel that it is better for me to call the attention of your Board to a practice which I have noticed among some of those who deal in such articles of food as sugar, meal, butter, fruits, vegetable, etc., that are exposed for sale in a way that allows the customer to come into undesirably close contact with and to handle the various articles. The remedy for this condition can only be attained through a willingness on the part of the customers and dealers to heartily co-operate with your Inspector in his endeavors to limit the practice as far as possible. We have found in several marked instances that a simple suggestion made to the dealer has been sufficient.

During the past year 449 samples of milk, 28 samples of butter and 17 samples of vinegar have been examined.

The samples of butter were all found to be of good quality, that is, they were what they were represented to be. Samples of cheap butter, or cooking butter, are those usually taken by the collector, as these grades are more liable to sophistication than are the higher grades of butter.

A number of the samples of vinegar were found to be spurious, but, as has been the case in previous years, the dealers were apparently innocent of intentional fraud, and therefore no prosecutions were made.

Licenses to sell milk were issued during the year to the following-named dealers:—

Sick Poor, Miss Chapman and Mr. James.

REPORT.

The almshouse has recently been inspected by the State Inspector of City and Town Almshouses, and is reported to be in a satisfactory condition in every particular. A new system of hot-water heating has been introduced in place of the hot-air heating formerly in use. There have been during the year fourteen inmates, the same number shown by the report of last year. At the present time the number of inmates is ten, but one of these is a woman who pays her board, as she has some money but no relatives or friends to care for her in her old age. One man was removed to Tewksbury when he became too ill to be properly cared for in the almshouse, and died there a month later. Another man, who was old and feeble, died after a short illness. A man who was admitted early in the year was discharged in three months, and a woman was admitted for only one night. Three aged women have been admitted who will probably remain permanently. They have received regular out-door relief for several years, but are now too old and feeble to take care of themselves.

The almshouse is still under the efficient management of Mr. and Mrs. Esty, but the increase in the number of inmates has made it necessary to employ a woman to assist Mrs. Esty, especially in the care of the aged and infirm women.

The almshouse expenses have been $2,997.20, an increase over last year of $1,141.45, which is in part accounted for by the cost of the new heating plant.

The list of those who receive regular out-door relief shows a slight increase over last year, due, in most cases, to illness in the families relieved. We are glad to record that two widows with children, who have been for several years among our beneficiaries, have recently become self-supporting. One widow has died, after a long and painful illness. Three of the number have been removed to the almshouse since last year, as stated elsewhere. Of those who receive regular outdoor relief, only two are men, one of whom is a helpless cripple and the other nearly blind.

The amount expended for the care of the sick-poor is much less than last year, and the number is correspondingly smaller. This does not, however, included cases of contagious diseases at the hospitals, under the care and from the appropriation of the Board of Health.

Of the insane, one has died, but the number remaining under our care, 29, is still larger than last year. Three children are at the School for Feeble Minded. At the Hospital for Dipso-maniacs there have been at times during the year various persons, who have reimbursed the town. There are six children under the care of the town who are boarded in country families. The entire amount expended by this department is $10,862.58.

The Board has much to regret in the loss of Mrs. James M. Codman from their number. Mrs. Codman has resigned from the Board after an active and devoted service of more than twenty years, during which time she has done much to bring the work of this department into a high state of efficiency.

REPORT.

The Brookline Water Board herewith submits its twenty-fifth annual report, it being for the fiscal year ending January 31, 1901. As in former years, the reports of the Superintendent of the works and the engineers at the pumping stations, with pumping statistics, are appended.

At the annual town meeting held March 29, 1900, Mr. Oscar B. Mowry was re-elected a member of the Board for three years. The Board organized by the choice of William K. Melcher as Chairman. Zeph. R. Forbes was appointed as Registrar and Clerk, and Fayette F. Forbes as Superintendent of the works.

This department has had a busy and prosperous year, and a substantial gain in our receipts for water has been made.

Our office is now situated in that portion of the Town Hall that was remodeled, and is a great improvement over our former limited quarters.

The following brief report upon the extension and maintenance of this department is followed by a financial statement which gives receipts and expenditures in detail.

Extensions.

The work in this branch of our department during the past year consisted chiefly of changing the water mains in Boylston street, in conformity with the widening, and of extending street mains in various new streets.

The widening and consequent change of location and grade of Boylston street necessitated the relaying of all old mains changing all service-pipes, hydrants, and water-cart feeders, and laying additional mains in such portions of the street as required by the new width.

The changes were commenced in the early spring and continued throughout the season in conjunction with the reconstruction, and have been completed with the exception of a few minor details.

The estimated expense of this work was $13,000, and this sum was, by request, set apart by the Selectmen for this purpose from the general appropriation for the Boylston Street Improvement.

It was thought advisable to increase the size of the main pipe in Boylston street, between Chestnut Hill avenue and Hammond street, and the matter being brought before the town, at a town meeting held February 5, 1900, an appropriation of $3,000 was secured for this purpose. This work was done, and the cost of the same was charged to the regular extension account, as it was thought that this provision for the future should not be charged to the expense of the street widening.

The total amount expended to date for these changes, excepting the above mentioned $3,000, was $12,502.63, leaving a balance of $497.37.

The few remaining changes to be made will be done as soon as the weather permits, the cost of which will not exceed our balance.

Short extensions to our distributing system have been made, for a detail of which attention is called to the report of the Superintendent hereto appended.

To provide for the next season's work, cast-iron pipe and special castings have been contracted for, in accordance with authority granted by the town, and the material will be delivered in the early spring.

Maintenance.

In our last annual report it was stated that a bill authorizing the town of Brookline to take an additional two million gallons of water per day from Charles River, was before the Legislature. This bill was strongly opposed before the legislative committee by various mill owners, whose manufactories were located on the Charles River below our works, and by some of the municipalities in the Metropolitan district. This opposition seemed to be actuated chiefly for certain financial reasons, but all arguments were met with such facts and figures that a favorable report to the Legislature was secured. This bill was passed by the Legislature, and signed by the Governor on June 21, 1900.

Our system of supply and distribution has been largely increased during the past few years, and it was found that while our high-duty pumping engine was of ample capacity at present to maintain the supply of the town at all times of the year, the two relief pumping engines, which have been in use twenty-six and twenty-one years each, respectively, working together could not be depended upon to do this work during the dry periods of the summer months. It was therefore deemed expedient to recommend to the town the purchase of a new high-duty pumping engine of the same capacity as the one already installed at our station. The matter was brought before the town, at a town meeting held November 22, 1900, and the following vote was passed: —

Voted, That the Water Board be authorized to contract for a five-million vertical triple-expansion high-duty pumping engine, and to build the foundations for the same, and to make such changes in the low-service pumping station as may be necessary, at an estimated expense of $40,000.

Specifications have been prepared and bids solicited through the medium of advertisements placed in the Engineering News and local papers, and by posting notices in three public places in town in accordance with the by-laws of the town. The bids are to be opened February 19, and it is expected that the pump will be set up and ready for use by June, 1902.

Meters.

Meters have been set as heretofore at the request of the water-taker, and while we do not have at present a general meter system, we feel that substantial gains to this end are being made.

During the past year, the question of meter rentals was considered by the Board, and it was found that by the original ordinance it was intended that these rentals should equal the cost of maintaining the meters owned by the town. The first cost of the meters and the maintenance of the same has been reduced so that the Board felt justified in recommending to the town a reduction of 50 per cent of all meter rentals, and a vote to this effect was passed by the town, at a town meeting held November 22, 1900.

The following table shows the number and size of all meters now in service:—

Quality of Water.

Vigilant care has been exercised in guarding the source of supply from any possible contamination and the quality of the water delivered to the town remains unchanged.

Chemical analysis of samples of water taken from the pumping station, the covered reservoir and from Charles River have been made from time to time by the State Board of Health, the reports of which are on file at this office.

Buildings.

The buildings of this department are in good condition and are insured with reliable companies.

Appropriations Required.

FOR THE EXTENSION AND MAINTENANCE OF THE WATER WORKS FOR THE YEAR ENDING JAN. 31, 1902.

For general extension (with receipts)	$16,000 00
For general maintenance (with receipts)	18,000 00
For salary of Water Board	900 00
For salary of Water Registrar	1,800 00
For salary of Superintendent	2,500 00
	<hr/> $39,200 00
For extension authorized Jan. 17, 1901	1,200 00
Amount required on account of new pumping engine	25,000 00

Special Appropriation.

For addition to work shop and stable	$2,500 00
Total	<hr/> $67,900 00

The amount recommended for general extensions is the same as that appropriated for this purpose last year.

An increase of $1,500 is recommended in the maintenance account, to provide for the increased cost of the care of the works. Heretofore all repairs made on drinking fountains and water-cart feeders have been made by this department and a bill therefor rendered to the department ordering the work. This has been found objectionable and it is deemed advisable that this Board should have the charge of drinking fountains and water-cart feeders, and make all repairs on the same, charging the same to general maintenance of this department.

The high cost of coal made an increase of over $600 in our pumping expenses the past year, and as there is no prospect of a reduction in price, this additional expense should be provided for.

The appropriations recommended for salaries are the same as the amounts appropriated for the past year.

During the past year changes have been made in the arrangement of the horse stalls in the shop and stable building and the stable accommodations have been greatly improved thereby. The building, with the exception of the first floor, which is devoted to stable uses, is wholly inadequate for our present requirements. The second floor is very much crowded, as it is used for the work rooms, for testing and repairing meters, cutting pipe, etc., and for the storage of hay, grain, pipe, meters and fittings. To provide the room that is required it is proposed to add another story to this building. The cost of this addition, based upon the estimate of a reliable builder, will not exceed $2,500. The Board, therefore, recommend the appropriation of this sum for this purpose.

Service-Pipe.

Number laid as per last report	3,496
Laid the past season	101
Total to date	3,597

The amount of work done in the past season, excepting that of changing pipes on Boylston street, made necessary by the widening of this street, is smaller than usual, as will be seen by an examination of the tables annexed. The larger mains which were laid in Boylston street, from Chestnut Hill avenue to Hammond street, will give ample fire service to this district for a great many years.

The eight-inch main in that part of old Boylston street running over Wright's Hill for a distance of 1450 feet, was left in place, and will supply all buildings which will front on this part of the street. This pipe was connected at each end with the ten-inch main so that a constant circulation of water would be secured.

The ten-inch pipe on Harvard street, which was planned to give a greater fire protection to the thickly-settled district of upper Harvard street and vicinity, has been extended from Babcock street to Beacon street, and connected with the twelve-inch main in the last-named street, thus completing this improvement, of which little has been done each year for the past three seasons. Mains were laid in the new streets on Corey Hill, and several short extensions were made. Four hydrants were cut in old mains where the number of new buildings seemed to demand more fire protection. It is the intention of this department to add hydrants wherever new buildings require it.

The maintenance of the works has gone on smoothly. It is to be expected that the expense of maintenance will increase as the plant grows in size and age, other conditions remaining the same. It may be mentioned in this connection that the number of miles which it is necessary to drive to attend to the calls of turning off and on water, resetting and removing meters and other demands of a jobbing nature, have increased to such an extent that another horse will be required the coming season. Changes have been made in the stable already, to furnish room for this additional horse.

The high-service standpipe was painted inside and out in October last. This standpipe has been in use sixteen years, but shows little effect of corrosion. It should be painted once in three years.

The past season has been an unusually dry one, and the consumption of water in consequence shows a larger increase than otherwise might have been expected. The per capita use of water has risen from 86 gallons in 1899 to 92.6 gallons in 1900.

During the summer months it was thought best to employ an officer to watch the grounds in the neighborhood of the pumping stations on Sundays and holidays, to prevent numerous boating parties from landing on the grounds owned by the town and making more or less litter, building fires, etc. The outlay for this purpose proved to be a wise one, as the expense of keeping the lands clean has been smaller, and no fires have burned over the meadows. It is probable that in the future similar care will be taken of these grounds. The lawns around the pumping stations have received the usual attention.

All the water at the low-service station was pumped by the Allis engine. This engine shows a slightly larger degree of economy in coal consumption than noted in former years. No repairs have been required except those of the ordinary kind.

The amount of water now used during the driest periods of the year is larger than can be safely furnished by the relief engines, and it was for this reason that the town was asked to give authority to the Water Board to purchase another engine.

It is expected that the new engine will be ready for use during the summer of 1902. The foundations will be built the coming season, and the necessary changes in the piping and floors on the engine-room made.

All the hydrants were carefully inspected, and the valve-stems repacked in October and November. Most of them were painted. From one to three examinations per week are made of the hydrants during the winter months to make sure that all are in working order.

The telephone poles on Hammond street, and for a distance of about 1500 feet on Lagrange street, have been taken by the telephone company, the Water department having the top cross-arm for its wires without expense. Several old poles on the remaining part of the line were replaced by new ones.

In the near future a new main must be laid from the corner of Fisher avenue and Boylston street to Beacon street, through Park or Harvard street, to reinforce the distribution system. This improvement should be the next to be made.

I subjoin the usual tables, etc., all of which is respectfully submitted.

F. F. FORBES,
Supt. Water Works.

LOW-SERVICE ENGINEER'S REPORT.

LOW-SERVICE PUMPING STATION,

WEST ROXBURY, MASS., January 31, 1901.

To the Brookline Water Board:—

GENTLEMEN, — I have the honor to present the report of the Engineer for the year ending January 31, 1901.

The total amount of water pumped was 710,089,065 gallons, an increase of 57,841,854 gallons over last year. The coal consumption shows an increase of 67,963 pounds, and the pumping time an increase of 318 hours.

Boilers.

The boilers are in good condition. The right-hand sections of the feed-water heaters have been taken out and part of the feed-water pipe increased from 1 inch to $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter. Fifteen new grate bars have been placed in the furnaces. I would recommend that the feed pipe be altered when repairs are needed on the remaining sections of the feed-water heaters.

Engines.

The engines are in good condition. All the pumping was done by the Allis engine. The duty of this engine is better than last year, although the coal used showed a greater percentage (11%) of refuse than that used last year.

A 4x36-inch air pump has been attached to the low-pressure plunger of engine No. 3 for the purpose of extracting the air from the main suction pipe. This pump, with the assistance of the small air-extractor driven by the machine shop motor, has so far kept the main pump free from any air which leaks into the 24-inch suction-pipe when the river is very low.

I subjoin the pumping record, all of which is respectfully submitted.

RICHARD J. FLINN, Engineer.

HIGH-SERVICE PUMPING STATION.

BROOKLINE, January 31, 1901.

To the Brookline Water Board:—

GENTLEMEN,—I have the honor to present herewith the report of the Engineer of the high-service pumping station for the year ending Jan. 31, 1901.

Some of the tubes in the boiler which came from the low-service station in 1894 are badly corroded. It will probably be necessary to re-tube this boiler soon, if it is found to be worth it. Boiler No. 1 is in as good condition as could be expected, after being in use over fifteen years. No repairs have been needed on the engines the past year, except those of the ordinary kind, and they are in good condition. A new vacuum pump was added to this station in October, also a new air-pump in January, for forcing air into the air-chambers.

The amount of water pumped was slightly in excess of that pumped in 1899, but the total coal consumed was somewhat less.

The buildings are in good repair, and little or no outlay will be required on them the coming season.

The following tables show the records of this station the past year.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM B. WEBBER,

Engineer.

REPORT OF THE PARK COMMISSIONERS.

The Board of Park Commissioners herewith submit their twentieth annual report for the year ending January 31st, 1901. The appropriations for the work under the charge of the Commissioners were as follows:—

Land for New Playgrounds.

Balance, January 31, 1900	$57,566 20	55191.2
Appropriation April 11th, 1900	100,000 00	100
Total	$157,566 20	155191.2
Expended	2,375 00	124651.10
Balance	$155,191.20	10540.10

Special Appropriation — Corey Hill Park.

Appropriation February 5th, 1900	$12,000 00	1300
Expended	11,505 25	1253.401
Balance	$494 75	46.60

Maintenance.

General appropriation for the maintenance of parks and public grounds, April 11th, 1900	$8,500 00	9000.
Expended	7,736 47	8512
Balance	$763 53	507.4

The last report of the Board showed a balance remaining from the construction of the Longwood-avenue bridge, of $18,677.38. Of this amount $12,000 had not been borrowed, and this portion of the account can be closed, but the remainder, $6,677.38, is a balance left in the Treasury from money borrowed for a specific purpose and should be disposed of by vote of the town.

Playgrounds.

The Board have purchased from the appropriation for playgrounds a small lot of land in the rear of the Sewall School containing 7,571 square feet, for the purpose of enlarging the playground connected with that school. The deed conveying the land contains also the grant of a right of way to Chestnut street.

The negotiations for the purchase of a playground between Washington and Beacon streets from the Griggs estate and others (referred to in the last report) were finally completed and approved by the Board of Selectmen, but owing to difficulties and delays connected with the deeds, the transfer of the property has not yet been accomplished.

The Board have been negotiating for property in other parts of the town, and with the approval of the Selectmen have nearly completed the purchase of a tract of land containing somewhat more than five acres in the vicinity of Dean road.

Corey Hill.

On February 12, 1900, the town appropriated the sum of $12,000 for the purchase of a parcel of land on the summit of Corey Hill, as per the following vote: —

Voted, That the Town Treasurer be authorized, when so directed by the Selectmen, to borrow the sum of twelve thousand ($12,000) dollars, appropriated at this meeting to pay for land on Corey Hill, giving therefor the note or notes of the town, signed by the Treasurer and countersigned by a majority at least of the Selectmen, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding four per centum per annum, payable semi-annually. Such note or notes shall be made payable in such annual proportionate payments as will extinguish the same in or within ten years from the date of their delivery; and the Park Commissioners are authorized to expend the said sum for the taking in fee, by purchase or otherwise, of such land for the purpose of a public park."

Under the above authority the Board have purchased 46,021 square feet of land on the summit of Corey Hill for the sum of eleven thousand five hundred five and twenty-five one hundredths ($11,505.25) dollars. The land includes the extreme summit of the hill and commands a beautiful outlook.

Marion Street Triangle.

The Town Engineer has made an estimate for improving the triangular piece of ground on Marion street which was conveyed to the town three years ago, and he finds that the sum of $1,300 will be necessary to grade, resurface and plant this triangle. The estimate for the maintenance of parks and other public grounds asked for by the Board does not include this amount, and if the town thinks it well to undertake the work this year, a special appropriation for that purpose will be needed.

Maintenance.

All of the public grounds in the town, including parks, playgrounds, schoolhouse grounds and the grounds in connection with the Town Hall and the Public Library, have been maintained in good order. In addition to the above work, a large amount of clearing and thinning out of the woods on the Newton-street land has been carried out under the personal supervision of Professor Sargent. A portion of the expense of this work will be returned to the town from the sale of wood. It will be necessary during the coming year to prune many of the remaining trees to insure their future health.

During the coming year it will be necessary to repair and resurface portions of the park roads, which have become badly worn by constant and increasing use.

Appropriation.

The following appropriation for maintenance is recommended for the ensuing year:—

For maintenance of parks and all public grounds	$9,000 00
For grading and improving the Marion-street triangle, if the town desires this improvement made this year	1,300 00

Respectfully submitted,

DESMOND FITZGERALD,
CHARLES S. SARGENT,
CHARLES H. PEARSON,

Park Commissioners.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON PLANTING TREES.

The death of Mr. William Stearns, October 16th last, deprived your Committee of a most conscientious and careful member, as he was ever ready to do what he could for the advancement of the town's interest, and the loss was deeply felt by many of his fellow-citizens who were accustomed to appeal to him as the best known man on said Committee.

One hundred and ninety-eight (198) trees were planted the past season,— Circuit road 15, Devon street 2, Beacon street 2, Rotch estate (Fisher Hill) 120, Harrison street 34, Crowninshield street 8, Powell street 15, and Addington road 2.

Forty-two (42) planting holes were prepared,— Thorndike street 37, and Francis street 5.

The following removals were allowed :—

- April, 1900. Elm, southeast side of Ivy street.
September. 2 Maples, northeast side Carlton street, near Beacon.
October. Elm, west side of Kent street, near Francis.
Maple, west side of Longwood avenue, near bridge (not cut).
Maple, west side of Kent street, near Francis.
5 Oaks, east side of Carlton street extension.
4 Oaks, on Euston street (not all cut).
Maple, corner of Babcock street and Manchester road.
Jan. 1901. Maple, west side of Monmouth near Carlton street.

Of the regular appropriation, $2,200, there remains a balance of $35.86.

The town has available for use from the Warren Tree Fund $204.37. This should be kept as a special reserve for contingencies.

It is recommended that the sum of $2,200 be appropriated for the ensuing year.

The rapid spread of the Elm Leaf Beetle in our direction warns the town that provision may, at any time, be needed to check its ravages; and several thousand dollars, perhaps, required to meet this emergency, in the purchase of spraying apparatus and labor.

The city of Springfield spent nearly five thousand dollars ($5,000) one year for this alone, so that it becomes a serious question. On the other hand, the pest may appear in mild form and inflict no great damage just at present; at least, let us hope so.

Several injuries to roadside trees have occurred through carelessness and indifference, and it is the intention of your committee to use the town appropriation to enforce more care, if necessary.

Mr. Barthold Schlesinger was elected a member of the Board of Trustees of Walnut Hills Cemetery in 1885, and served continuously until his death, which occurred in July, 1900.

By his death the Board of Trustees has lost an efficient and most valuable member, and the town an honorable, public-spirited citizen.

The Trustees make the following report regarding the various items for which the town appropriated money last year. The preliminary estimate for the receiving tomb was $6,500, but the lowest bid received for the plan, prepared by A. W. Longfellow, was $6,762 from Johnson Brothers of Brookline. As the season was well advanced before this bid was received, it was thought best to accept it. Unfortunately the contractors were greatly delayed on account of the difficulty of procuring slate of the quality and color called for by the architect, so that the cold weather came on before the roof was built; the structure was inclosed in a wooden frame, to protect it from the weather, and a few weeks in the coming season will suffice to finish it. In addition to the cost of the tomb should be added the architect's commission, amounting to $500.

The stable, shed and yard, inclosed by a substantial fence, has been built according to plans of Guy Lowell, architect, at a cost of $1,926.19, including the architect's fees. A very pretty structure fronting on Grove street is the result. The necessary grading and filling of the yard, which is in low land, cost $900 additional. The loam for the single grave lots cost $686.75.

As the old receiving tomb must be used until the new one is finished, nothing has been done towards removing the old structure or the grading.

The Trustees regret the necessity of asking for more money to complete these extraordinary improvements, but it is evident that the receipts from the sales of lots will not be sufficient to carry on the regular work of the cemetery and finish these improvements already begun and planned, and they therefore recommend an appropriation of $2,000.

FORTY-FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
TRUSTEES OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Trustees of the Public Library herewith submit their annual report. The increase of the circulation during the past year has been remarkable, as will be seen on reference to the figures in the Librarian's report. This we believe to be due not so much to the great increase in the town's population as to a fuller appreciation on the part of the citizens of the Library's advantages, and to our efforts to meet their wishes.

There has been considerable pressure brought to bear on us to establish branch libraries, notably from the inhabitants in the neighborhood of Coolidge's Corner. A room in that vicinity was offered us free of rent, for one year, if we would place there duplicates of books for circulation and the magazines usually found in a reading-room, and supply an attendant for managing the same. The estimated expense was so great, however, with the prospect of its becoming larger in the future, and the town appropriation not being adequate to meet it, we had to decline to undertake the work. We believe, however, that the request to establish a branch there may be reasonable, but are not now prepared to recommend the town to take action in the matter.

Our esteemed associate, Augustine Shurtleff, M. D., the oldest member of the Board in point of service, whose valuable work in connection with the Library was so highly appreciated, died on Jan. 27, 1901. He had been a member of the Board since March, 1869. Endowed with great literary taste and of ample leisure, he devoted himself to his duty as a trustee, and considered no labor too great where the Library's interests were concerned. He had seen the Library grow with the town from comparatively small beginnings to the position it now occupies as one of the first town libraries in the country. To his unremitting efforts, as much as to anyone else, the success of the Library is due. For years he was the chairman of our Library Committee, and as long as it was possible in his delicate state of health, was a punctual attendant at our meetings. We have lost a good adviser and a warm friend.

In our last report we mentioned the fact that in the near future a new Library building would be necessary, the present one being too small and poorly adapted to our growing needs. We would emphasize this now. A committee of the Board has had under consideration for some time the alteration of the Library building, if possible, to accommodate the new books, and also to provide means for a better and more economical administration.

Room for increase of books can be made temporarily; but the administration of the Library cannot, under existing circumstances, be improved. Therefore we would still keep this matter before the town, as the time is not far distant when the needs of the Library will require a new building.

The Librarian's report will give the details of the past year's work.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN.

BROOKLINE, MASS., February 1, 1901.

To the Trustees:—

I have the honor to submit my third annual report which covers the year ending January 31, 1901.

Circulation.

The statistics of circulation show a growth entirely unprecedented. The number of volumes issued for home use was 118,092, while the year previous it was 104,488 volumes, showing an increase of 13,604 volumes, or 13 per cent. Excepting from consideration the year 1894, when the circulation was greatly expanded by the introduction of the two-book system, we find that the increase of the past year has been nearly twice as great as that of the year previous, which in turn exceeded that of any other year in the history of the library. In other words, the circulation has grown during the last two years more than one fifth; and if the usefulness of the library is roughly measured by its circulation, these figures may be regarded as highly gratifying.

During the same period the quality of the circulation improved. In 1898 fiction (including juveniles) made up 66 per cent of the issue; in 1899, 68 per cent; while the past year it has been but 63 per cent of the whole. The falling off in the amount of fiction borrowed is attributable mainly to the better class of books issued through the schools, but in part to recently organized circulating libraries, which, furnishing the newest novels in almost unlimited numbers and delivering them at the readers' homes, are already supplying many persons who would otherwise depend on the public library. While, in the light of such competition, it may be necessary to expect in the future a material decrease in the statistics of circulation, yet if this decrease be confined to works of fiction and people continue to resort to the public library for the better class of books, it may be heartily welcomed. It should relieve us largely from the pressure for many ephemeral and comparatively valueless novels of the day, and free our funds for promoting the higher and more scholarly purposes of the library.

The system of delivering books at the door, with the announcement that at least one public library is to attempt the same arrangement, raises the whole question of distribution. An analogous method was tried by us last summer, by which we agreed to despatch books by mail or express to residents out of town who were willing to pay the cost of transportation. While this arrangement proved convenient for a few people, not more than a dozen took advantage of it. There is some uncertainty, therefore, whether a house-to-house delivery would greatly increase the use of books; while on the other hand, it is questionable whether it might not lower the standard of reading.

A better method of distribution would seem to be through one or more branch agencies such as are common with many public libraries. Instead of cutting people off from the library, these, if administered by intelligent employees, contribute more than any other means towards spreading its educative influence.

In smaller ways we have already tried to broaden the library's usefulness by sending deposits of books to the Heath Street boys' club, and as heretofore to the Union Reading Room. We have also begun furnishing collections of from ten to twenty volumes per month to the various fire engine houses, whose members cannot conveniently reach the library; and we have issued a far larger number of books to the children in the schools through their teachers than ever before.

Printed Lists.

A complete printed catalogue of the library was issued in 1873, and in 1881 a supplement was published. In the twenty years since that date no comprehensive catalogue has been printed, and the library has now reached a size and rapidity of growth which preclude such an undertaking. The only means of making known its resources, therefore, are through bulletins and special printed lists. During the year just closed our efforts have turned chiefly in this direction.

The number of bulletins printed bi-monthly has been increased from 2,500 to 4,000, in order to enable the police to distribute one copy to each family in town. At the same time various economies in form were deemed necessary which have prevented any increase in its cost. This bi-monthly publication serves for use at home as a permanent record of accessions.

For making the latest additions more immediately available, lists of new books with copious annotations have been printed weekly in The Suburban, and through the courtesy of its publishers reprints of these lists are now furnished to the library for free distribution.

A special catalogue of twenty pages containing "Books in French and German" appeared in February. Copies at two cents each have been sold to sixty-eight readers, and the demand for the literature represented in it has increased 24 per cent.

In March 300 copies of a preliminary list of the books in the school reference room were struck off and distributed to teachers. The collection then numbered about a thousand volumes which were arranged alphabetically in the 20 pages of this pamphlet. During the year this collection has been doubled, and a final catalogue of 36 pages has been printed, with the titles carefully classified according to the studies to which they relate, and the school grades indicated for which each book is suited.

At the suggestion of the Superintendent of Schools a "List of Books for Teachers" was printed, forming a twelve-page pamphlet. Besides books dealing with education and the art of teaching, there were included the most notable articles which have appeared in recent publications of the United States Bureau of Education, the Massachusetts Board of Education, and others, which unless brought to light in this way, are likely in spite of their value to lie buried in the cumbersome volumes containing them.

In September appeared a "List of Books for Boys and Girls," 128 pages, which had long been a pressing need. It was compiled with the utmost care with a view to including no dull or unworthy books. All works whose character was not well known were examined or read by the School Reference Librarian before being admitted to the list. A price of three cents was fixed for this catalogue, it being our intention for this, as well as for other publications, to charge a merely nominal price which shall place them within reach of every citizen and yet be sufficient to prevent their being wasted. So many requests for this list came from all over the country — one even from abroad — from libraries, library students, teachers, publishers, and others interested in children's reading, that it was deemed necessary to charge 30 cents for copies supplied to non-residents, except libraries which received it free with a request for exchange. It is a singular fact that three months after publication more copies had been sold to non-residents at 30 cents a copy, than to residents at the merely nominal price of three cents. Besides about a hundred copies exchanged with libraries, another hundred was distributed to the teachers and others, and the sales have amounted to 112 more.

With a view to making accessible the collection of photographs of paintings, now numbering about a thousand, a small catalogue of 32 pages has been prepared and is in press. The photographs are grouped first according to the nationality of the artist, and then subdivided in alphabetical order according to the artist's name. The lists will be distributed to public school teachers, and copies may be purchased from the library at five cents each. The photographs were purchased with funds subscribed by public-spirited citizens. The Italian schools have received a fair representation, the other schools very little as yet. Further gifts which would permit of enlarging and rounding out the collection would be most welcome.

The magnum opus of the year has been the preparation and printing of a new catalogue of fiction forming a substantial volume of 348 pages. The last similar catalogue was prepared six years ago with service engaged especially for that purpose. The accomplishment of so large an undertaking by the regular staff, in addition to carrying current work, bears sufficient witness to their highly commendable energy and devotion. Above two thousand new titles have been inserted; and twelve hundred titles have been removed, comprising works which have worn out, some of which were decided to be unworthy of retention, and many which had long since lost all interest for readers.

In order to prevent the future littering of the fiction shelves with novels of ephemeral interest, we have instituted the practice of entering all works which though of present interest are of doubtful permanent value, in a temporary accession catalogue on probation, so to speak. They thus must prove their fitness after a year or more of trial before being admitted to a permanent place in the library.

In connection with work on the fiction list, the collection of books has been thoroughly examined, all the juvenile works marked with a "j" to distinguish them from the adult fiction, and it is our intention at the earliest opportunity to take out the juvenile works and group them by themselves.

An entirely new shelf-list has been written for each part of this collection to supersede the copy for the old fiction catalogue which has had to serve hitherto, although manifestly imperfect and inadequate.

With the completion of these lists, the library finds itself unusually well equipped as regards special printed catalogues. There is contemplated, however, a small printed guide to explain the contents of the chief works of reference. With this in view, the collection in the reference room has already been carefully re-arranged and numbered. A new edition of the little catalogue of historical fiction, which is out of print, could easily be prepared and would undoubtedly prove useful.

It seems, however, as if fiction had too large a representation in the special catalogues commonly issued by libraries. While, as I have stated above, the cost of a complete printed catalogue renders such an undertaking out of the question, I beg leave to call attention to the desirability of a printed catalogue which should contain perhaps 5,000 titles of the best and most interesting works of history, biography, travel, etc. Such a work would need to be prepared with great skill, and could contain scarcely a tenth part of our collection; yet, as a reading list inviting special attention to so many as 5,000 of the worthiest and most entertaining books in the library, it would exert an influence so strong and elevating as would seem to justify the necessary expenditure of time and money.

One grave obstacle at present stands in the way of such a list, namely, it would crystallize the present shelf-numbers of the books beyond the possibility of change. I therefore feel the importance of explaining again the need of a complete reclassification. The matter has been entered into at length previously, so that it is unnecessary to repeat details. It will suffice to call attention to the fact that the present classification obstructs the full efficiency of the library, and further, that every book which has been entered and catalogued on the old system during the past year, has involved the additional expense of changing the number on the book-plate, and the label and the shelf-list, and the cards in the catalogue, at some time in the future. To accomplish this great change expeditiously with the present force would be impossible. A competent classifier and assistant, devoting all their time to this labor, should accomplish it in about two years. Such service could probably be secured for $1,200 per year, and I respectfully recommend that such an amount be allowed in our estimates, so that the undertaking may be entered upon as soon as possible, and the future duplication of present work obviated.

Delivery Department.

The limited facilities around the delivery desk, together with the remoteness of many of the books, make economy of administration there a constant problem. To promote the efficiency of the department it has received definite organization, with Miss Candage in charge.

More economical borrowers' cards and improved stamping outfits have been introduced; minor alterations have been contrived about the desk itself; some changes of method have been necessitated, and specially-designed book-trucks and racks for cards and supplies have been added, all with a view to accommodate current growth and contribute towards rapidity of service.

A method of reserving books has been extended, so that borrowers applying without success for any book other than fiction, may leave a cent and receive notice by postal card as soon as the book becomes available. This means that it is now possible to secure any especially desired book usually at short notice, and the plan so promotes the convenience of borrowers as to make it well worth the not inconsiderable labor involved.

Miscellaneous Matters.

In March an interesting old engraving representing Webster making his celebrated speech on the compromise measures in the Senate, March 7, 1850, — just fifty years previous, — was loaned by Mr. Martin Kingman, and exhibited in the reference room, with a key identifying the famous men composing that Congress.

At Easter time an appropriate selection from our photographs of paintings was hung in the reference room, and we were able to publish in the local papers a suggestive and valuable description which was kindly prepared by Miss Emma G. Cummings.

In May was hung an excellent collection of views of Paris, Vienna and Constantinople, for which we were indebted to Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Woods.

In June a fascinating group of water-colors representing the many different species of our common wild flowers was loaned by Miss Helen Sharp of Boston, and their beauty delighted visitors.

Colored posters, portraits of authors, illustrations of books, have been constantly gathered and disposed about the walls and on the bulletin boards with a view to enlivening the delivery hall; and, as usual, maps, special bibliographies, and collections of books have been displayed in illustration of timely topics.

The entire collection of books has been examined and checked with the shelf-list. This examination covers a period of two years, and shows an average of 91 volumes missing annually, of which number 39 were lost from the alcoves, the remainder from the shelves for new books in the delivery hall. Two-thirds of the missing volumes are juvenile. The facts indicate that one or more persons, probably juvenile, are deliberately stealing the town's books. All juvenile books have been removed from the delivery hall for the purpose of stopping these depredations, and every effort will be made to detect the thief. The co-operation of all townspeople might well be asked in the protection of their property.

Special attention has been paid to the collection of music, which has been increased by the addition of 139 volumes, in some cases several pieces by one composer being bound in a volume. We hope by degrees not only to fill the gaps in our collection of standard works, but to a certain extent to meet the popular demand for works of modern composers. The circulation of works of this class has been 28 per cent greater than last year.

Acknowledgement is due many donors whose names appear in appendix D. We are especially indebted to Mrs. William L. Candler for a fine elk's head and a deer head which ornament the walls of the delivery hall; to Mr. Edward W. Baker for a large photograph of his father Benjamin F. Baker, — for many years a trustee of the library, — which has been framed and hung in Gardner Hall; to Mrs. John Gibbs for a photograph of Dr. Charles Wild, also hung in Gardner Hall; to Mrs. C. F. Lord for a flourishing rubber plant which adds to the attractiveness of the children's room; to the Hon. Charles F. Sprague for numerous public documents; to Mr. Andrew Robeson, Mrs. William Leverett Chase, and Mr. Thomas Doliber, for collections of books; to Mr. Benjamin C. Dean for his personal efforts in searching for and purchasing volumes lacking in our set of the Massachusetts Acts and Resolves; and to an anonymous giver for a superb illustrated work published by Goupil & Cie, and entitled "Great Modern Painters."

The members of the Tuesday Club spent a morning here in November for the purpose of reviewing briefly the history and significance of the library, examining its activities, and especially of acquiring a more intimate knowledge of its resources, the reference collection, bibliographical aids, and material pertaining to the subjects on their programme. Other clubs have asked for similar opportunities, and the work seems so well worth while, that the librarian has designated Wednesday mornings as a time when without previous appointment his services will gladly be devoted to showing any individual or group of people over the library.

Children's Department.

Work with school children has progressed along the lines indicated very fully in the last annual report.

The school reference room contains over 2,000 volumes selected with the aid of the School Committee for the express purpose of supplementing school studies. Many duplicates are included, as for this purpose ten copies of one book are often more valuable than one copy of ten different books. By means of this collection the work with the schools is carried on without detriment to the general public.

A chest full of cards covered with mounted pictures, to illustrate subjects taught in school, was prepared through the personal efforts of the Portfolio Committee of the Education Society, and deposited in the school reference room, where they are easily accessible to teachers.

The most cordial relation between teachers and the library is desired, and for facilitating it the School Committee have extended the school telephone system to include the school reference room. Circulars have been sent out from time to time to the teachers. Conferences between them and the School

Reference Librarian are constantly held at the library, in the classroom and through teachers' meetings, and their mutual understanding of aims and methods is highly advantageous.

With the generous co-operation of teachers and Superintendent, the use of books through the schools has grown from 268 volumes in 1898 and 1,336 volumes in 1899, to 9,618 volumes during the past year. Of this last number 7,760 volumes, or 80 per cent, were non-fiction, a fact which testifies to the planting of a taste for instructive reading. In this way the library reaches the children in the lower grades, too young to hold cards of their own, and their reading is under the constant and beneficial supervision of the teacher.

Sixteen thousand four hundred and twenty-two visits have been made by children to the room in the rear, where their books for recreative reading are kept, and 6,198 visits, mostly by the older children, have been made to the school reference room for more studious purposes.

The School Reference Librarian, with the aid of the teachers, hopes to develop more definiteness of purpose in this reference work, to the end that the pupil may combine with a knowledge of where to look for a subject, the ability to seize and appropriate its salient points.

Pictures and lists and book-covers exhibited on the bulletin boards direct attention to excellent books, and on each Saturday afternoon a few of the best are displayed, while a brief talk regarding their contents is given to the boys and girls who care to be present. In these ways interest is excited in the best reading.

The foundation of all work with children must lie in implanting a love for good reading. The state requires that children be taught to read, surely it is no less a duty to see that their reading results in advantage rather than harm. But besides attempting to train them to resort to the library and seek the best that it affords, by lectures and reference work we seek to give them such a knowledge of reference books and the methods of getting at the library's resources as will permit of its intelligent use. As most important of all, however, we hope in time to bring about such an attitude of mind as will result in their regarding the library, not as a mere storehouse of entertaining or even instructive books, but as an institution for self-education. So that on their leaving the grammar school for business, as is often the case, all culture need not cease, but they may possess the ability and desire to use the library for making systematic progress in commercial or intellectual pursuits. A few notable examples of older boys and girls who have thus used the library and made themselves masters of some special line are eminently cheering; and if we can succeed in spreading this attitude, we shall achieve more perhaps than in any other way towards furthering the highest function of the library and justifying its claim to the title of "the people's university."

Respectfully submitted,

HILLER C. WELLMAN,
Librarian.

School Accommodations.

In providing the school facilities which the constantly increasing growth of the town demanded, the more thickly settled part of the town has been well accommodated. With the completion of the new Pierce Grammar school-house and the proposed new grammar school-house for the Runkle district, in addition to the recently occupied grammar school-house in the Devotion district, that section of the town lying east and north of Chestnut Hill avenue and the old Boston reservoir is well taken care of for the present.

The westerly and southerly parts of the town have not been so fortunate. The southerly part is still so sparsely built up that school facilities may safely be delayed until the nature of its development is more clearly indicated. On the westerly side, however, the situation is quite different. There is a large number of school children on Boylston street above Chestnut Hill avenue, on Dudley street and vicinity, and in the Holyhood district, all of whom are obliged to go to the Heath School, which is an old building utterly unworthy of the town of Brookline, and lacking in the chief essentials of a modern school-house. The staircase halls, corridors and dressing-rooms are cold, with no ventilation whatever. Most of the schoolrooms are insufficiently lighted. There is no sewer in the street, and we have therefore been obliged to maintain old-fashioned privies with an open vault, the odor from which is at times offensive. Leaching cesspools cannot be used, as the sub-soil is practically water tight. Even if a sewer were built it would scarcely be wise to expend the necessary sum for installing suitable plumbing in the present building. In our judgment the need for a new grammar school-house for this district is imperative. During the present month of February we have received three petitions for better school accommodations in this district, and a committee representing the parents and citizens has appeared before us to urge the same thing. We recommend immediate action and hope to be able to formulate some plan to be presented to the town at the annual meeting. It is likely that another lot will be needed, as it will be necessary to continue the present school until the new building can be erected, and the shape of the present lot, with certain restrictions, makes it desirable to secure another location.

The question of a primary school-house for the Holyhood district, which has been under consideration by the Board for many years, was again brought to our notice at the hearing spoken of. The policy of the Board for several years has been to locate primary schools as near as possible to the homes of the children. There are already pupils enough in this district to warrant the erection of a small primary school-house, and it is very likely that the recent widening of Boylston street, with the operation of a line of electric cars, will be followed by a more rapid growth of population in this part of the town. During the winter months the smaller children are carried in barges to the Heath School, but the distance is greater than is desirable for pupils of the primary grades, and we are of opinion that in justice to a large number of our citizens a primary school-house of four or six rooms should soon be built on land now owned by the town on Heath street, near Hammond street, which was bought for school purposes in 1873. We think, however, that the grammar school-house should first be provided.

The Pierce Primary school-house on Pierce street was abandoned for school purposes at the close of the school year in June last, and has since been altered for town offices. The Pierce Grammar school-house on Prospect street has been altered and remodelled and now furnishes accommodation for the kindergarten and two lower grades of primary pupils. The floors were stiffened up and supported by heavy iron girders; the stairs were relocated and rebuilt, with treads and risers more fit for the little children who now occupy the building. It was found necessary to renovate the entire plumbing, and to drain an old well found in the basement, which at times flooded the basement floors. A convenient room for teachers, with toilet conveniences, was furnished, and drinking water was carried to the second floor. The original appropriation for the work was $7,500; an additional appropriation of $1,850 was made at the town meeting held November 22, 1900; the expenditure was $9,317.78.

The new Pierce Grammar school-house on School street was built under the direction of a special committee of the town. It was occupied for school purposes at the beginning of the school year in September, but was not formally dedicated until January 9, 1901. A special appropriation of $9,500 was made for furnishing the building, to be expended under direction of this Board. So far the sum of $8,195.99 has been expended, for the following purposes:—

Furniture and fixtures	$5,646 11
Window shades and curtains	624 01
Furnishing Manual Training room	811 91
“ Domestic Science room	445 06
“ Physical Laboratory	50 00
	$8,195 99

It is desirable that the account should be kept open, to enable us to procure many things still needed to complete the equipment.

An estimate of the cost of tinting the walls and ceilings of this building, and of the new Edward Devotion Grammar school-house, has been made, and the amount is included in the appropriations asked for the support of schools for the ensuing year.

A special appropriation of $700 was made to defray the expense of furnishing the gymnasium in the new Pierce Grammar school-house, and $600.54 was expended.

A special appropriation of $500 was made for alterations and repairs in the chemical laboratory of the High School. The contemplated work has been done at a cost of $416.56.

A special appropriation of $1,600 was made to provide better facilities for the Kindergarten and the Domestic Science department at the Heath school. Additional room was secured for the Kindergarten by removing the partition which separated it from the cooking room; the Domestic Science department was accommodated by adding a story to the little shop in the rear of the school-house, making it, as originally intended, a two-story structure. The cost of the whole work was $1,597.02.

At the annual town meeting it was — Voted, That articles thirty-two and thirty-three be referred to a committee to consist of the Board of Selectmen and one member of the School Committee, to consider and report upon at a future meeting.

Article thirty-two called for an appropriation of $112,000 to pay for the erection of a manual training school-house on land owned by the town on Tappan street.

Article thirty-three called for an appropriation of $32,000 to pay for the erection of a gymnasium in connection with the proposed new Manual Training High school-house.

Mr. Joseph Walker was designated as the one member of the School Committee, and the joint committee thus constituted reported at the meeting held November 22, 1900. We quote from their report the following:—

“The construction of a new building for shops near the High School is clearly a judicious move to provide for present as well as future needs. The plans for such a building, which were brought before the town at the annual meeting, are the result of much painstaking study, are well calculated to meet the wants of the School department, and are not more extensive than a due regard for future growth makes desirable. The size, shape and position of the different rooms have been thought out with especial care. Some changes have been suggested, chiefly in the cornices and stone work of the exterior, which will materially reduce the estimated cost without injuring the looks or diminishing the usefulness of the building. Careful estimates indicate that the cost of the building with these changes will be inside of $100,000. We think that the original plan, with the modifications suggested, should be carried out.”

It was —

“Voted, That the School Committee be authorized to make contracts for the erection of a Manual Training High school-house at a cost not exceeding $100,000.”

The modified plans and specifications are practically finished, and contracts for the erection of the building will be made sufficiently early, it is hoped, to allow work to begin as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

At the special town meeting held June 28th, 1900, the School Committee asked for authority to make contracts and proceed with the erection of a grammar school building on the Druce street lot, for the Runkle district, and the following vote was passed:—

“Voted, That the School Committee be authorized to construct a new grammar school-house on Druce street, at a cost not exceeding $100,000, and that the sum of $50,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated towards the cost thereof.”

At the special town meeting held November 22d, 1900, the School Committee reported that the plans and specifications for the proposed building, as described in the report on Article 13 for the above town meeting, had been finished, and that the School Committee was ready to receive proposals for the erection of the building, which is in every way admirably adapted for school purposes, but unfortunately the lot was too small, and its grade such that the Committee thought it would be a mistake to place the building on this site. The Committee, therefore, asked permission to modify its plans, and the following vote was passed :—

“ Voted, That the School Committee be authorized to make such change in the design of the new grammar school-house for the Runkle district as seems expedient, provided the cost thereof be not increased by such change.”

Another plan has been prepared which provides a four-room building of the same general character and size as the existing school-house, to be placed directly opposite the present building, with a connecting building containing also four class-rooms, which will have a basement entirely above ground on three sides, in which can be provided two good rooms for manual training purposes. The upper story of this connecting building can be finished for the present as a hall, in which the whole school may be assembled, the partitions being erected only when the classes are large enough for subdivision. The modified plan will furnish, in addition to the four rooms in the present building, eight class-rooms with two additional rooms for manual training purposes. The development of this neighborhood is such that the accommodation thus provided will serve the needs of the town for many years, and it is expected that a considerable saving will be effected by the proposed change.

It is expected that contracts for the erection of this building will be made in the course of a few weeks.

Vacation Schools.

As the Superintendent in his report has gone somewhat into detail in describing these schools, it will not be necessary to do so here; but a few words will not be out of place. Five hundred dollars, the amount of money appropriated last year, was inadequate to try the experiment on a broad basis, but it demonstrated how much might be done. The children of all ages showed an eager and active interest, and the attendance of about two hundred was very well maintained. The location of the school at the Brookline-avenue Playground was well adapted to its purpose, being near the homes of the children for whom it was provided. That at the High School did not prove so successful, probably because of its location and the age of the boys. It seems to be a mistake to take boys much over twelve or thirteen years of age, under the existing conditions in our town, as they require special attention and discipline which is somewhat contrary to the spirit of the work. As the town grows larger, a special school, perhaps, can be provided for the larger boys, but for the coming year we believe that the best work can be done among the younger children.

While the first year's experience shows that there is much to learn about the proper organization of such schools, at the same time it demonstrated that there was an undoubted field for them. Not only must it be a relief to the parents to have their children cared for a portion of the time every day, but the children themselves receive benefit from having their play supervised. The summer vacations are so long that the children lose much of what they have gained during the school terms, and the vacation school is a means of continuing this beneficial relation with the schools and also keeping the school authorities in touch with them, which, as children of citizens of the town, it seems right they should be at all seasons of the year.

The amount asked for to carry on the schools for the coming year is one thousand dollars, which, while not large, will enable the children to have a good deal that was lacking last year, and accomplish more good than such a sum expended in any other direction.

Physical Training.

The Committee believe that progress has been made in developing the department for physical training during the past year under the direction of Mr. Hartvig Nissen. The teachers have improved considerably in their ability to instruct the children, and if we continue along the same lines they will by and by become a well organized body of teachers of school gymnastics and this will be of great benefit to the schools. To make the importance of this department recognized as it should be will take some years, as up to this time there has been no systematic plan of development adopted covering all the schools of the town. Much remains to be done in the way of putting apparatus into the grammar schools, lengthening out the period of time devoted each day to exercises and examining all the pupils at regular intervals.

The swimming instruction has been incorporated into this department, where it naturally belongs. The number of older children taking it has fallen off, but the younger ones have increased, and as time goes on it is probable that more of those from the lower grades will receive it, so that the older ones will already know how to swim before reaching the higher grades in the grammar schools.

The children attending the Vacation schools were allowed to take free baths at the Bath House and nothing did them more good. It was found that many of the smaller ones had never before had any opportunity to visit the building.

The School Room at the Public Library.

Through the department at the Public Library, supported by a separate appropriation and organized for the especial benefit of the public schools, the closest relations have been maintained with that institution. Connection by telephone, printed lists and circulars, and frequent conferences between teachers and the school reference librarian have drawn together the schools and library and brought about a highly advantageous co-operation in aims and methods.

The work has progressed substantially as outlined a year ago. In the school room at the Public Library on shelves accessible to teachers and pupils are more than two thousand volumes chosen upon the recommendation of the School Committee for their bearing upon school studies, and devoted exclusively to the service of the schools.

The liberal employment of illustrative books in teaching is a strong tendency of the times. How large has been the aid in this direction afforded through the special collection at the library is evidenced by the fact that the use of these books in the schools the past year has increased seven-fold.

It seems axiomatic to state that a primary obligation after teaching the child how to read is to see that he uses this great power, potent for good or evil, so that it results to the best advantage. Aside from the aid to teaching afforded by these books, therefore, an important part of the work is a wise but unobtrusive supervision of the children's reading, exercised at the library and through the character of the books selected and furnished to the pupils by the teacher. Four-fifths of the books thus read have been other than fiction, a fact which alone indicates the sowing of a taste for instructive reading which should prove a lasting benefit.

In addition to this, by sending pupils to look up in the reference collection subjects related to topics of study, and through the lectures delivered by the school librarian to pupils in the upper grammar grades, there is afforded appreciation of the resources of a library and familiarity with the methods of using them.

This co-operation between the library and the schools cannot but exert a strongly beneficial influence on the pupils' reading, and besides giving them a knowledge of books as sources of information which will be of material assistance in connection with their studies, it should promote a desire and ability to use books for the purpose of self-education after the school course is finished.

Penny Savings.

The cost of the penny savings system for the year ending January 31, 1901, was as follows:—

Salary of collector	$100 00
Printing stamps	31 00
Supplies and printing	29 07
Total expense	$160 07
Interest on deposits	$66 50
Miscellaneous receipts	9 57
Total receipts	$76 07
Net expense	$84 00

Comparative statement of expenses:—

1897-98	$441 85
1898-99	380 00
1899-00	306 13
1900-01	84 00

Beginning September 1, 1900, the services of a special collector have been dispensed with, and the work is now done by the regular school employees, thus saving to the town the salary of the collector.

Owing to the resignation of Mr. Dutton, the important duty devolved upon the Committee to choose a new Superintendent of Schools. The office of Superintendent in this rapidly growing town becomes every year of more importance. It is practically impossible for the Committee to obtain accurate knowledge of the schools from personal observation, or to supervise the details of school expenditures; and without close supervision there is certain to be laxity as to such expenditures, and in the work of teachers and pupils. Consequently a good Superintendent should not only be a man of character and ability, but must have familiarity with all systems of education in order to make intelligent recommendations to the Committee, must have sufficient force of character to maintain thorough organization and discipline in the school system, and is a much more valuable officer if, in addition, he brings good business methods and judgment to the settling of financial questions. Out of many able candidates, the choice of the Committee finally fell upon Mr. George I. Aldrich, for many years a member of the State Board of Education, and who had had a large experience in supervising schools in the vicinity of Brookline, and was believed to have the qualifications above named in a large degree. Mr. Aldrich entered upon his duties in September of the current year, and the Committee have found him painstaking and conscientious in the discharge of his duties. He is unremitting in visiting the schools and in familiarizing himself with all necessary details; and withal, has New England ideas of economy and the desire to receive a dollar's worth for every dollar spent. It is the hope of the Committee that the schools will enjoy a long prosperity under his supervision.

It is the belief of the Committee that in education the greatest stress should be laid upon what is substantial rather than what is showy, and that the requirements should be so limited in number that thoroughness is possible in the elements which are at the foundation of all learning. Moderate changes on the lines indicated have been made during the current year; and it is believed the schools are prospering and making some improvement in scholarship and discipline.

PROPOSED RUNKLE GRAMMAR SCHOOL, DRUCE STREET.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

To the School Committee of Brookline:—

In that portion of the regulations which defines the duties of the Superintendent of Schools is the following provision: "At the regular meeting in February he shall present a general report of his labors for the year then closing, accompanied by such suggestions in regard to the increase of the efficiency and usefulness of the schools as he may deem advisable." "The year then closing" would seem to be the town's last fiscal year, which ended with January 31, 1901, having begun with February 1, 1900.

As far as the annual school report deals with matters of finance it must, of necessity, concern itself with the period of twelve calendar months which ends with the last day of January. It is somewhat unfortunate that what we ordinarily speak of as the "school year" does not coincide with the town's fiscal year. By the "school year" is meant the period of forty weeks, which extends from the opening of schools on the second Monday of September to their close, on or about the last Friday of June. Thus, our last complete school year began with Wednesday, September 6, 1899, and ended in June, 1900. As far as the annual school report presents statistical information relating to school membership, attendance, etc., it must of necessity concern itself with this "school year." Obviously there would be certain advantages if this annual school report in its entirety—in matters of business and in matters of membership and allied subjects alike—could relate to the same period of time. Practically, this seems to be out of the question. The time for the preparation of the annual school report being fixed by the expiration of the fiscal year, the report makes its appearance in print something like ten months after the close of the school year to which it chiefly relate. Should the writers of the report confine themselves literally to the events of the last complete school year, they would deal largely with matters somewhat devoid of interest through the lapse of time, and would lose the opportunity of presenting to the town matters of immediate interest. These considerations seem to lead to certain conclusions relating to the annual school report, viz.: Such report ought to contain full information on all matters of expenditure during the fiscal year ending with the last day of January; it ought to afford complete information on points covered by the usual school statistics for the year which ended on the preceding June; it ought to afford also reasonably complete information as to the operations of all the schools during such year. In addition to the forgoing, as already suggested, the report may properly discuss topics which do not fall within the exact scope of the last school year, but for the discussion of which the time is opportune. Referring again to the regulations which relate to the annual report from the Superintendent, it appears that two injunctions are laid upon him:—

First, he is to present a general report of his labors for the year then closing; and secondly, he is to offer such suggestions for increasing the efficiency of the schools as he may deem advisable. So far as these injunctions concern the present incumbent, whose connection with the schools dates from September, 1900, it would appear that he can speak of the labors of five months only, and that it is quite too early for him to venture on any radical suggestions, involving marked changes in the administration of the schools. Brookline is not a large place, and at first thought, one might regard five months as quite adequate for the mastery of its school system; but such hasty judgment would be quite incorrect. Our system of schools, while of no great magnitude, is of great complexity. A period of a half school year is quite too short to enable one to so familiarize himself with the many lines of instruction that he may speak of them in confident terms. All circumstances seem to indicate that the first report which I have the honor of submitting to the Board should be brief as to length and cautious as to its recommendations.

According to the census made in September, 1899, there were then in town 2,934 children between the ages of five and fifteen years. Since the kindergartens admit children younger than five, and since the upper grammar grades and the High School contain pupils who are more than fifteen years, and again, since certain pupils attend private schools, we must not expect to find an exact correspondence between the figures of the census and the total enrollment in the public schools. From the attendance reports on file in the office, it is easy to gather the figures which show the numbers enrolled in the various schools. For this purpose I make use of the reports for the second month of the school year, which closed on Friday, October 27, 1899. I choose this month rather than the month preceding, since a considerable number of pupils do not get into school until after the expiration of the first month.

School Buildings.

At present the public schools occupy sixteen school-houses. These buildings differ greatly in attractiveness and in suitability to the purpose for which they are used. In case of structures erected at intervals during a period of many years such differences are inevitable. The town is fortunate, however, in having no crowded schoolrooms, and most of them measure well up to reasonably high sanitary standards. At present the School department has the management of interior repairs only, exterior repairs being in the hands of the Selectmen. In my judgment it is desirable that repairs of both sorts be attended to by the School department. With two building enterprises already in hand, viz., the Manual Training High School building and the Runkle Grammar school, it is to be regretted that urgent necessity exists for adding a third. Existing conditions at the Heath school, however, are of such a character that no time should be lost in replacing the present building. This matter has been emphasized in previous school reports, and I need only add a word of hearty concurrence in the repeated recommendation of very speedy action.

Physical Training.

I doubt if there has ever been a system of public schools in America which gave adequate time and attention to this matter. In an earlier day there was less need that the school should concern itself with this sort of training, but with the changes incident to the concentration of population, an added responsibility is laid upon the public school. I assume that the action of the Board in determining to employ a director of physical training is a recognition of this new responsibility. Mr. Hartvig Nissen entered upon his duties at the opening of the present school year. At my request he has prepared the following account of his services during the half year which has just closed:—

BROOKLINE, MASS., Feb. 1, 1901.

Mr. George I. Aldrich, Superintendent of Schools:—

DEAR SIR,—In September, 1900, I entered on my duty as Director of Physical Training in the Public Schools of Brookline. A school-year is short, although some results may even then be shown, but twenty weeks are not enough for a critical review of the effect of physical training, and I will therefore merely give an account of what has been done in this department during these weeks and make some suggestions for the future.

During the vacation last summer I made a plan for the fitting out of the gymnasium in the new Pierce School building and supervised the work thereof, and as soon as the schools opened in September I made a visit to each class-room—twenty-nine primary and forty-one grammar classes in fifteen school buildings, and the High School with four grades of boys and girls. There were two gymnasiums in the High School and one in the Pierce Grammar School.

On September 13th a meeting was called of all the teachers of Brookline, when I explained the reasons for a Physical Training department, and mapped out a general plan of work for the year, as follows:—

Primary schools, grades I., II., III., divide the fifteen minutes set aside for physical training every day into three periods—one for free movements, one for marching, and one for games. Grammar schools, grades IV. to IX., inclusive, use their fifteen minutes about ten o'clock every day for free movements and marching; once in a while a game with rubber balls or quoits may be taken in place of the regular exercise, as a reward for good work. All free movements follow my cards, which are progressive from day to day and from year to year,—twenty different lessons for each grade, or one hundred and eighty lessons for primary and grammar schools. The marchings are also according to printed lessons, both plain marching and fancy steps. All these lessons are practiced in the school-rooms, but where conditions allow, marchings are also practiced in corridors and halls, and will be taken out-of-doors when weather permits. The games in the primary schools are mostly with bean bags, and some of the better kindergarten games. When possible, games will also be introduced and urged in the school yards. An attempt was made in the autumn to instruct the children of the ninth grade to lead the younger children in different games during recess, and this will be continued in the spring.

In the Pierce School, grades VII., VIII. and IX. have taken their exercises in the gymnasium once or twice a week, and in spite of the very limited time the gymnasium has certainly proved a success. Here I have the pleasure of referring to the accompanying letter of the principal of the school, Miss Mary McSkimmon:—

“ Since September, 1900, the members of the four upper classes of the Pierce School have had the daily class-room gymnastic drill, supplemented by semi-weekly lessons in the gymnasium. These lessons have consisted in jumping, vaulting, rope climbing, use of stall bars, boom and balance boards. The boys and girls have taken them at separate periods.

“ In summing up the results of this work, the curious fact appears that the first and finest effect is shown in the mental and moral development of the children. Without one exception, those pupils who have taken hold of the work earnestly, have shown unexpected advance in every other line of work. Several have seemed to be awakened to mental effort who have been lethargic and uninterested in books from the beginning of the school course.

“ The growth in courage, self-reliance and self-control has been an ethical gain that is hard to overestimate. The gymnastic work with apparatus makes a demand for this kind of development that is not made by the restricted exercises in the limitations of the school-room.

“ Only definite and comparative measurements can give the actual degree of physical improvement, but the erect carriage, better control of body, and elimination of individual defects have become subjects of grateful observation.

“MARY MCSKIMMON.”

In the High School I found Mr. Louis Schmidt in charge of the boys' gymnasium, and as I knew him as a good and reliable teacher, and his record at the High School was good, I recommended that he be retained. He has faithfully worked with the boys and given each class two lessons a week, or as the third and fourth classes are divided, he has given twelve lessons weekly at the school. So far it has mostly been gymnastics, with and without wands and dumb-bells, and work in German and Swedish apparatus as well as gymnasium games. In the spring out-of-doors athletics, such as high and broad jumps, throwing the shot, etc., etc., will be practiced.

The girls in the High School I have taught myself, and, as a general rule, I have found the girls interested and eager to do well. A combination of the Swedish and German systems have been followed, and I have been gratified to see how well this has worked. The girls have the same amount of time for physical training as the boys, viz.: Class I. and II. an hour and a half, and class III. and IV. one hour weekly, although the changing of dress curtails the actual time of practice in the gymnasium. In the spring the girls will also have part of the work out-of-doors, such as marching and games. Boys and girls of the senior class are receiving instructions in fencing with foils, as an advanced stage of gymnastics.

Every Monday, between 3 and 4 o'clock, I have given instruction in theory and practice of the work to the teachers; and during school hours I have visited and taught the primary and grammar schools as well as instructed in the High School. Up to this day I have given

488 lessons in primary and grammar classes,
25 lessons in Pierce School gymnasium,
206 lessons in High School.

Total, 737 lessons in gymnastics.

On an average each primary school has been visited once every four weeks, and each grammar school once a fortnight.

A careful examination has been made of each class-room in regard to the seating of children and the light and ventilation.

The Heath-street School is a rather poor old building, and it ought to be abolished as soon as possible. The light and ventilation are poor, and seats and desks are not fitted for the children who occupy them.

Outside of this school I found about thirty rooms in which six to twelve adjustable desks and chairs—or 300 in total—would be required in order to have all children well seated. In seven rooms the chairs and desks should be turned so as to avoid light in front. In three or four rooms a rearrangement, with more care in the fixing of the furniture, is necessary. In the eighth and ninth grades of the Devotion School there ought to be different sizes of chairs.

The ventilation is generally good, except in two or three rooms; especially is the third grade in Sewall School very hard to ventilate.

The sitting and standing of the children is constantly looked after, and the necessity thereof strongly urged on the teachers, who frequently delight in showing the good results of their instructions.

An excellent addition to our physical training is the swimming instruction offered to non-swimmers of the grammar and high schools. Every Tuesday and Friday between 2 and 5 o'clock the bath-house is given up to the public schools—Tuesdays for girls, and Fridays for boys. Besides, those who come for their lesson on the regular day are admitted free of charge on other days in the week for practice. During eighteen weeks I have given instruction in swimming to 78 boys, 91 girls and 18 teachers, or in all 1,035 individual lessons. The average attendance of the boys has been 24, and the girls 33. At this time 27 boys, 24 girls and 6 teachers have learned to swim.

An Emergency Class in swimming for High School boys has just begun, under the instruction of Mr. George Holme, and fifteen boys are eagerly trying for the honor of being the best all-around swimmer.

On the 21st of November last a clinic for the treatment of habitual curvature of the spine—scoliosis and lordosis—extreme round shoulders, and some few other cases which could be especially benefited by corrective and medical gymnastics, was begun in the Pierce School, with the hearty support of Miss McSkimmon and the kind assistance of Misses Harriet R. Palmer and Louise Wellman. Fourteen girls and six boys were examined, and prescription of exercises for daily use given to each one, and nearly all attend the clinic every Wednesday between 2.30 and 4 o'clock, where they receive medical gymnastics.

Two girls and two boys have just been re-examined, and a decided improvement is apparent in each case; one of the girls who had a double scoliosis ten weeks ago is now perfectly straight; and all the children are showing the benefit of the exercises, both in their carriage and their improved health and brighter looks.

Since this clinic has begun I have had several requests from parents of children, both in grammar and high school, to examine their sons or daughters and prescribe special exercises. Many physicians of the town have also given their hearty approval of this idea, and there is no doubt in my mind that this form of physical training will gain in favor and absorb a great deal of the director's time.

So far I have reason to be well satisfied with the work. The teachers have shown interest, and willingly done their best to accomplish what has been asked of them, and in many cases very good exercises can be seen. The children also seem interested, and show their appreciation of my visits. But I shall never be really satisfied before I have time and opportunity to do full justice to the children and their parents, as well as to the community. Our educators are willing to admit the theory, that good physical exercises enable the children to study better, and consequently a little time given up to those exercises will be regained in the better and quicker mental work. And who of us have not frequently practiced this theory, when we, tired and wearied from study, either go out for a walk or stroll around in the house, only to continue our study with new strength and more energy. But in our schools we have not yet put the theory into practice, we are too frequently met with the excuse, that there are so many things to do,—too many studies to accomplish,—and five minutes given to gymnastics, are five minutes lost of study hours. Still, those who have really lived up to the theory, all agree that it is very practicable. I know some teachers, outside of Brookline, who give twice the amount of physical training to their children that the programme allows, simply because they get more and better work mentally thereby. In Germany, Sweden and Norway, the school hours are nearly 50 per cent longer than here, still there is no more overwork among the children—but they have invariably three hours gymnastics a week from the time they are eight years old till they leave high school.

It is often said that all special teachers are asking for more time. This may be, but there is a vast difference between physical training and the other "special" departments. Physical training is the only one which all the time is aiming at the health and best physical condition of the children, thereby making them able to endure the strain of the other studies.

The American children are bunches of nerves, and they must be taken good care of, if they shall be able to go through the school and take up the everlasting fight for a living and a place in this world; and it would be a blessing to the coming generations, if more time could be given to physical training in our schools today.

In order to find out how other communities treated this important subject, I sent a circular letter with half a dozen questions to some thirty of the best known cities in this country, the result of which is shown in the accompanying table

The showing is greatly below what I expected. Many of these cities do not give any attention to physical training, and the greater number treat it as a means of recreation instead of what it ought to be,—an excellent training both for body and mind, and the best medicine for the restless and nervous children. Those who knew Boston school children ten years ago and see them now cannot fail to see the great change in this respect.

It will be noticed that Boston gives more time to physical training than any other city. Gymnasiums are rare in the grammar schools, but New York, Brooklyn, Chicago, Boston and a few others are now fitting up corridors and halls with gymnastic apparatus and fixing gymnasiums in their new school buildings.

Many high schools are entirely without a physical training department, others are giving an hour or two a week to it. But besides the regular time, several schools are provided with gymnasiums and teachers, for the sake of voluntary classes, which generally are well patronized.

Brookline is above the average, but that is no reason why we should be contented. This community has the facilities and ought to go ahead, and not rest before our schools are shining examples both physically and mentally.

I suggest that twenty minutes daily be given to physical training in all primary and grammar schools; that a room in William H. Lincoln and Edward Devotion schools be fitted for gymnasiums; that a wooden building with gymnasium and dressing-rooms be built at the Lawrence School grounds, and that all new school buildings hereafter shall contain a gymnasium with baths and lockers; also, that shower baths be put in the lavatories in Pierce School, and in a convenient place in Lincoln School.

I further suggest that one hour and a half of physical training a week be compulsory for all children at the High School during school hours and that voluntary classes in the afternoon be established for those who will avail themselves thereof. It would also add greatly to the benefit of this school if a bath could be arranged in connection with the girls' dressing-room. There is a bath at the boys' side.

In closing I wish to extend my heartiest thanks to yourself, the School Committee, the principals and teachers for the courtesy and willingness always shown towards me and my efforts to improve the physical condition of the children.

Respectfully submitted,

HARTVIG NISSEN,

Director of Physical Training.

Vacation Schools.

Years ago the American public school was in session during more weeks of the year and more hours of the day than at present. Now, with a school year which is nominally forty weeks in length, we succeed in keeping school for something like one hundred eighty-five or ninety days. The summer vacation is thus a very long one, and in urban communities, during recent years, there has been a growing feeling that something should be done to utilize, in ways both pleasant and profitable, some portion of the children's time. The earliest efforts have usually been made by philanthropic people, often acting through some existing organization. A sufficient measure of success has attended these efforts to lead to the appropriation of public funds for a continuance of the work. For such purpose $500 was expended by the Board during the summer of 1900, and the following report of the undertaking has been placed in my hands.

I may remark that we have yet very much to learn in regard to vacation schools, and such knowledge can be had only through experimentation. While we speak of these vacation enterprises as schools, it is evident that they should differ materially from the schools which the children attend during the remainder of the year. Attendance on vacation schools is voluntary, but in order that the project may succeed, it must be punctual and regular. In those places where manual training has no place in the public schools, such instruction has proven one of the most successful lines of effort in the vacation school. Even in Brookline, I incline to the opinion that shop work of one sort or another should be given a prominent place in the summer schedule. Bent iron work, for instance, would be a novelty to our boys, and would appeal strongly to them. While play, organized and free, may properly form a part of the summer program, it seems to me absolutely necessary to make the remaining portion of the program distinctly serious in character. Reference has been made to the report on last summer's work, prepared by Mr. A. S. Thompson, the director of the school. Mr. Thompson's report is as follows:—

To the School Board of the Town of Brookline:—

It gives me pleasure to report to your honorable body the condition and progress of the Vacation Schools in your town during the summer of 1900.

When the school opened there were three regular teachers besides Mr. J. G. Thompson and myself. On the High School grounds, Mr. Schmidt was in charge of all the boys over eight years of age. At the Winthrop School, Miss Jacobus was in charge of all the girls over eight years old, and Miss Bosworth had all the boys and girls eight years old and younger. Mr J. G. Thompson was at the Winthrop School to assist in keeping out those who were not members of the school.

This teaching force was inadequate to handle the large number of children who had been given vacation school permits. At the High School there were fully one hundred and twenty-five boys who clamored for admission. It was a difficult task for Mr. Schmidt and myself to sift out those who really wanted to attend from those who came merely to make a disturbance. It became necessary to make three divisions, one of which came from nine to ten o'clock; another from ten to eleven, and the third from eleven to twelve. During the second week two young men, G. S. Nyhen and Radford McCormick, were employed, and each of the three divisions was kept all the forenoon. From this time forward the school was unusually successful. The energy which displayed itself at first as rowdiness was soon transformed into a spirit of determination to play skillfully the excellent games which Mr. Schmidt taught them.

At the Winthrop School also the number of children was too great for the teaching force, and Miss Caroline Brown was secured as an assistant to Miss Jacobus, and Mr. J. G. Thompson took charge of the small boys for Miss Bosworth. On pleasant days the girls were taken to the playground and taught to play vigorous games. It was always difficult to control the enthusiasm while playing the games. A spirit of animosity was easily aroused. I am glad to say that this spirit decreased toward the end of the school. The children were very respectful and had an excellent disposition toward the teachers.

The following statistics show the average daily attendance; the cost per pupil based upon the average attendance; the regular schools from which the pupils attended; and number in groups according to age:—

AVERAGE DAILY ATTENDANCE.

	1st week.	2d week.	3d week.	4th week.	5th week.	6th week.
High School . . .	95	90	85	75	88	92
Winthrop School . .	107	113	107	103	79	101
	<hr/> 202	<hr/> 203	<hr/> 192	<hr/> 178	<hr/> 167	<hr/> 193

The youngest divisions were the most regular in attendance. The per cent of attendance was very difficult to obtain, but fully 66 per cent of the children who started, finished the term.

The whole cost per pupil based upon the average attendance was two dollars and sixty-four cents ($2.64). A few days before the close of school an effort was made to ascertain what regular school the children attended. The following is an approximate estimate:—

Parsons . . .	30	Parochial . . .	15
Lincoln . . .	50	Other Schools . .	20
Winthrop . . .	45		<hr/>
Boylston . . .	15	Total . . .	200
Pierce . . .	25

At the High School a rather large per cent of the boys came from the Lincoln School. An extra large playground in the more thickly settled part of the town would reach a class of children who should be reached, but who will not go far from home. The ages of the children as nearly as could be ascertained were:—

Number from	6 to	8 years (inclusive)	.	.	58
"	"	9 " 10 "	"	"	42
"	"	11 " 12 "	"	"	45
"	"	13 " 15 "	"	"	55

An effort should be made to reach more of the younger children. With a sufficient teaching force there would have been a large increase among the younger pupils. They became more interested in the work as it progressed, and when once they were acquainted with the school they were in their places every day and the attendance was good.

After relief in the teaching force came, the trips to the fields began. The schools were taken in divisions, and an effort made to inculcate a love for nature. Land and water formations and other natural phenomena were discussed, yet the children seemed much more interested in whether they were to be taken out in a boat or in bathing than they were to know how the fish got air or the characteristics of the different birds.

There were several trips made to Jamaica Pond, and every division was taken on the cars to Reservoir Station. Walks were taken over Chestnut Hill and around the reservoir. The older ones were much interested in the Metropolitan Water Works system. All of the children went to City Point, the girls on one day and the boys the next. After a lunch was served, bathing suits were provided and all of the children went into the surf. Considerable interest was shown in the fort on Castle Island, and in the ships as they passed in and out of the harbor. The attention of the children was called to the action of the tides. Some were much surprised to know that this water was a part of the great Atlantic Ocean. The funds for all these trips were provided by friends. The money appropriated by the town was used only for the regular expenses of the school.

One of the most important features of the vacation school was the trips of the children to the swimming tank. The Bath House Committee very kindly gave us the privileges of the Bath House two days of each week. The boys went on Tuesday and the girls on Thursday. These were without doubt the most enjoyable days of the week. The children looked forward with great eagerness to the day upon which they could go to the Bath House. The teachers and the children appreciated greatly the kindness of the Bath House Committee in giving to the school the free use of the house and tank. They could have done nothing which would have been more appreciated or be of more real benefit to the children than these swims in this commodious tank were during the oppressive summer days. The easy and safe manner in which the officers of the Bath House handled so large a number of children was greatly to their credit.

It was thought at the beginning that the children could be taken to the basement rooms of the Library and there make use of the books. With such large classes, and all so enthusiastic over their games and field trips, we had more than sufficient to fill the time, and it seemed better to succeed in fewer lines of work than to undertake too many. I think another year some progress might be made in this line of work, especially if a good reader could be secured to read books to the children either at the Library or at each school building.

I am strongly in favor of the good games which require skill to play them,—games which train the hand, eye and brain; which give good healthy exercise and keep the mind occupied and active. At the beginning of the school, boys had to be urged into the games, while at the close they would play with eagerness.

It seems to me the school was a fine success, and did a grand good work for the children who attended. The teachers became well acquainted with the pupils, and endeavored to give them new courage. Much credit is due to the conscientious work of the teachers.

The teachers were much encouraged by the frequent visits and kind attention of members of the School Committee who had this work under their special charge.

August 25, 1900.

A. S. THOMPSON, Supervisor.

During recent years the annual school report has usually contained communications from the principal of the High School and from the directors of drawing and music. At my request, the incumbents of these three positions have presented in writing such views as they deem of present importance, and I give them place at this point.

The graduating exercises of the class of 1900 were held in Shailer Hall, Thursday evening, June 21. An inspiring address entitled “America in the High School” was delivered by Rev. Henry S. Nash, D.D.; the diplomas were presented by Mr. Prentiss Cummings; the J. Murray Kay prizes were awarded by Mr. Horace E. Scudder, and the Lincoln medals by Mr. S. T. Dutton. The prize winners were as follows:—

The J. Murray Kay prizes—

For elocution, won by Edward W. Morse, Jr., and Florence Ethel Elliott.

For historical essays, won by Edward W. Morse, Jr., (subject of essay, “Brookline’s Street Policy,”) and Laura Noble Whitney, (subject of essay, “Evolution of Brookline Village.”)

The William H. Lincoln medals—

English, won by Wilhelmina C. Morlock.

French, won by Consuelo Beard.

Latin, won by Charles L. Chandler.

Physics, won by Robert E. Blakeslee.

Mathematics, won by Ruth R. Blodgett.

There were thirty-six members of the graduating class, fifteen boys and twenty-one girls. Of these thirteen qualified for higher institutions, five being admitted to Harvard, two to the Lawrence Scientific School, one to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, one to Boston University, one to Bowdoin College, two to the Boston Normal School of Gymnastics, one to the Framingham Normal School. Besides these there were two others, one a senior, another a special student, who successfully passed preliminary examinations for Bryn Mawr. Charles C. Soule, Jr., entered the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Six pupils of Class II. took preliminary examinations at Harvard, two for the Lawrence Scientific School, one for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and one for Radcliffe. All of these received passing certificates. Six others were credited with the preliminary requirements for Smith.

Three members of the Class of 1900 are studying in Germany, three are attending a commercial school, one the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, one is an assistant in sewing at the Lincoln School, three have returned to the High School for one or more studies, four have entered the employ of Boston firms, and two are connected with manufacturing concerns. In several instances we were able to procure desirable business positions for our boys immediately after their graduation. The number of applications made to us by business men who desire trustworthy and efficient assistants increases year by year.

PREPARATION FOR COLLEGE.

The schools were never so well equipped to prepare for college as at present. The new members of the teaching staff, Mr. Brooks, Dr. Roberts, Mr. Snow and Mr. Chase, are all men of force who combine sound scholarship with successful experience in preparing pupils for college. It is certainly reasonable and highly desirable that in a school where there are as many boys as girls, half the teachers should be men.

The school curriculum is sufficiently broad and flexible to enable the student to avail himself of any group of the various optional studies now required for admission to Harvard, and to travel by the most direct route toward the desired end. Short cuts or superficial cramming courses based upon examination papers are not, however, encouraged or permitted, since they do not in reality prepare for college. Notwithstanding this fact, our students who have entered Harvard have been below the average age of admission. Of seven who passed the examination last June, only one was eighteen years old, and two were but sixteen.

A distinct advantage which we have in preparing for technical schools is the manual training department, which enables a boy to anticipate a large proportion of the required shopwork, and thereby greatly to relieve the pressure in certain courses during the first two years at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the Lawrence School at Harvard.

TRAINING FOR BUSINESS.

It is an interesting question how thoroughly and how directly the school can train for bread-winning pursuits. The division of labor in the modern industrial world has been pushed so far, and, as a consequence, occupations are so infinitely diversified, that no elementary school could safely undertake to give specific training for all or any one of the numberless business opportunities which await its graduates. An insuperable objection is that the average boy shows no special aptitude for one more than for a score of possible careers open to him, and that his choice of an occupation is, after all, largely a matter of accident. Furthermore, such a policy is undesirable in that it would lead to the futile attempt to master in the class-room certain "trade tricks," not in themselves highly educational, and thereby substitute special accomplishments for more substantial acquisitions, which are of general application. From the standpoint of vocation, education is not merely a preparation, it is a corrective, extending the outlook and furnishing supplementary resources, which the subordinate positions, at least, of a business career do not afford. And in attempting to measure the results of school training, it should always be remembered that the potential is of greater moment than the actual. That which is of the greatest worth is quite incommensurable. It is generally assumed that there is a pronounced difference of opinion between the practical business man and the educational expert. From the one, the idea frequently finds expression that vocational aims should more largely dominate school practice. The other usually deprecates early specialization, emphasizing the larger if less immediate results which come from a broad and liberal training. The two ideas are not wholly inconsistent, and from such evidence as I have collected, I am convinced that the difference of opinion is more fancied than real.

Believing that such a question was not to be determined on a priori grounds, but from evidence collected at the point where the school and the business world meet, I addressed a letter of inquiry to some of the successful business men of Boston who had given positions to boys from the Brookline High School. Two inquiries were made: first, What is your estimate of the boy or boys from our school, as to technical training (penmanship, spelling, accuracy in computations), general education, spirit (willingness, patience, earnestness), punctuality, trustworthiness, and capacity for growth? secondly, What sort of a training does the business man want? "Hitherto, we have relied upon a general rather than a specific training to prepare for business, but we are quite willing to change our policy if, in the judgment of those most interested and best informed, it is desirable." The replies to the first inquiry were, I may say in passing, extremely gratifying, showing that our boys had in practically every instance, met satisfactorily the demands made upon them. The responses to the second question were also surprisingly uniform in character. All, without exception, expressed a preference for liberal rather than specific training. Here are typical extracts from a few of these letters:—

"We think that your plan of providing a general education is a sound one, and more likely to furnish a more useful foundation than any attempt at special or specific training with a view to turning out ready-made workmen without knowledge of the kind of work likely to be required. With such an education, and with habits of punctuality, order, and especially of application, we think that any youth of average ability would soon master the special requirements of a business office. Advancement and success will then depend on individual effort, and success in improving upon what he has been called upon to do, and in seeking in anticipation opportunities for further usefulness. For it must be remembered that an office is not a school, and that employees and superiors are not teachers nor philanthropists, but often rivals and competitors."

Another writes: "I have your letter of the 20th. I think it very injudicious to put into schools what may be called trade instruction, including book-keeping and commercial courses, stenography and type-writing. The effort to teach book-keeping in a school is like trying to teach chemistry without a laboratory. Any well-trained high school boy whose mind has been developed in a proper way can master double entry book-keeping in from a week down to a day. If a boy's mind is trained as it should be in a high school, to comprehend the simple rule 'What I receive is made debtor to what I give,' and can apply that rule, he is master of double entry book-keeping. All the rest is rubbish, mere differences in method."

And another: "Answering from an employer's standpoint your question as to whether a secondary school ought to give boys a specific and technical or general training to prepare them for bread-winning, I would say that from my experience, most emphatically, a general training. If you will send us boys trained to think logically, to reason from cause to result, such boys will make a success. What I mean is, that if a boy has been taught to reason rightly he will find out very soon after coming to us that advancement is not due to favoritism or luck, but to fitness, and if certain specific and technical requirements are necessary for that advancement, he will set himself to work to acquire them, and, knowing that an opportunity is dependent upon their mastery, will acquire them much more quickly than he will in school without any such inducement.

"If I may venture another suggestion that experience has taught me as important: We think the boys would get along faster if they knew enough about hygiene to keep themselves well and strong for their work, enough elementary political economy as a framework, to fit in the facts of every-day business life as to the relation between employer and employee, and give them in this respect an opportunity to reason rightly."

These views of practical and successful business men are certainly reasonable, and leave little to be desired from the educational standpoint.

Respectfully,

D. S. SANFORD.

The report of Miss Irene Weir, director of drawing, is as follows:—

It may be of interest to the community to know something of the plan upon which instruction in the subject of drawing and painting is based in the public schools of Brookline.

In all subjects, and particularly in those which concern themselves with the æsthetic sense, through the training of hand and eye, modern science has taught us much.

Through child study we have discovered the young child's need for color, and for the use of flexible and easily molded material like the brush and clay. To appeal also to the child's interests, helping him to express his idea of the things about him through clear and definite forms, is found to be a natural first step. The child has plenty of imagination, but no power of expression; therefore, our first concern is to aid him to a clear expression of his idea through clay, color and cut forms. This, however, has nothing to do with art, and may easily become a meaningless repetition of crudities extending on year after year with no improvement, unless we can devise simple exercises which will change such awkward results into artistic forms of expression.

Art is merely the doing of a thing well, i. e., in its best way. Expression of any kind through sound or form can only become an art when laws of order, restraint, and selection enter in. These laws form the basis of all arts, and may be resolved into a few simple principles which even the child may comprehend. Rhythm or measure, balance and harmony, are found in poetry, music and sculpture, painting and architecture, and their presence is the test of the æsthetic value of such art products. To train the pupils to appreciation and understanding of such principles is possible, and is vastly more important than to secure mechanical skill or power of accurate imitation. For these are principles which form the basis of good taste, and good taste concerns itself with every act and duty of daily life. For this reason the cultivation of the æsthetic sense instead of being the luxury of the few or an unimportant side issue, in reality is one of the most practical and vital forms of training for the average child. Therefore, even the telling of the story through clay, color or cut forms, may become an artistic form of expression if it conforms to laws of order, rhythm, selection. This, then, is the first step of the way.

The following quotation is from a recent report in one of our college journals: "As a matter of fact no subjects in the curriculum stand more securely than the art subjects, on the basis of social efficiency. Every human being, whether he will or no, is compelled to the use of form and color, every day of his life, in his dress and surroundings. It is not less vulgar or less degrading to use glaring and offensive color combinations or bad forms in dress, than to use corrupt English. Even the opponents of art education are ready to admit the importance—even to the national morality—of having the homes of the people attractive, beautiful, simple. . . . Everything has to be drawn or modelled, the dress and the pattern of the goods, the jewelry, the lace, the pictures, or the statue, or the palace, with all its articles of use or luxury, the dishes, the beds and chairs, even the crowns and thrones. We produce cotton and wool, or metals in the raw state, at a living wage, and export them to France to have them returned to us in a few weeks doubled or trebled in value—by what? by the addition of taste in design. France, England, Germany and Austria vie with each other in founding schools of design and improving courses of study and knowing that an important advantage gained will frequently repay the money invested even within ten years. The secret of all this, of course, lies in the fact that drawing is the foundation of industry, and that art as applied to industry is a basis of public wealth."

The truth of the above statement needs no proof. From the economic standpoint alone, the most important object which any course of art training can obtain is to establish in the mind of the child principles of good taste. It is for this reason that we have placed greater emphasis during the past year, upon design, aiming to develop by a series of problems in balance, rhythm and color harmony, those principles upon which rest all the arts of construction and design. From the purely economic standpoint, therefore, the emphasis must fall here—but from the standpoint of the child's own well-being, it rests here also. For the power to do a thing well — which is art — requires the full and complete training of hand and eye, and a concentration of brain energy scarcely equalled by any other mental process.

From beginning to end, the child's observation and perception must be aroused, that his crude "symbols of knowledge" may more truly represent living forms. He must be brought face to face with nature and life, he must observe and record, he must measure and determine, he must develop the sense of proportion, of accurate judgment; he must know something of the simple principles of perspective and their application to common objects, to interiors, street views, to landscape, including houses, barns, and buildings in general. Therefore, from the third year to the high school, training in these principles forms a large part of each year's work, adding to those first simple principles of good taste greater knowledge of the facts and appearance of things, and the laws which govern pictorial expression. This ability, however, to see and record, is not, and never can be, an end in itself. It is merely a means to an end — the accumulation of knowledge is never an end — and only when its place is thus recognized can it be called art training. There must be, for the child's own sake, a step beyond.

What have the arts stood for in the past, and what relation have they to the present? They have stood for much that is finest and best in history; they are the imperishable records of a nation's life, and somehow or other at this point we must contrast the child's simple inefficient forms of expression with those past arts, else they can never become for him more than meaningless symbols, and his attempts will have no relative significance. We must in some way add a training in design, and we must also bring into the school-room good examples of textiles, of iron work, of pottery, of the many applications of design to the making and beautifying of every-day articles of use — else the most important thing for which art training should stand will be subverted to lesser ends. Mere mechanical training will never suffice. We have outgrown the age when a few copies of Greek or Egyptian ornament satisfied. A carefully planned series of problems must be devised, which will insure free and unrestrained inventions on lines of good taste, at the same time relating such training to the best craftsmanship of the past. There is nothing which Brookline more seriously lacks than material of this kind. A report is scarcely the place where such a plea should be made, but we cannot refrain from expressing a hope that in the new manual training school ample room may be reserved for such a collection, and that the town will consider the wisdom of bringing together at least the beginnings of such a collection. On the side of picture study, the many cheap and excellent reproductions make it possible for the child to become familiar with the finest paintings and noblest cathedrals. But the average public school children are going to become neither painters nor architects. They are, however, going to work in all sorts of industrial occupations, they are going to help in the production of marketable goods, they are going to dress in good or bad taste, and to make and have homes where order and beauty prevail, or where disorder and inartistic confusion reign. To my mind, therefore, the things which tend to the improvement of the home, the comfort, well-being, and harmony of the family, the order, security and beauty of the city, and, finally, the best and happiest life of the individual — these are the essentials, and good taste is the broad foundation-stone upon which these things rest, and through it even life itself may become a fine art.

This, then, in general terms, is the plan upon which art instruction in the Brookline Public Schools is based. A more detailed account of means and methods can be found in the schedule of regular lessons, which is in the hands of every teacher.

February 7th, 1901.

Faithfully yours,
IRENE WEIR.

In regard to music, Mr. S. W. Cole, director of this branch of instruction, submits the following:—

A review of the work in the department of Music shows the usual amount of interest and success. Prominent among the public occasions of the year was the performance of the cantata "Ruth," by Alfred R. Gaul, which was given by the High School Chorus and Orchestra in Shailer Hall, Tuesday evening, June 5th, 1900.

The most unique feature of this occasion, and one which deserves special mention, was the successful rendering of the solo parts of the cantata by members of the High School Alumni, Miss Marion Richards, '98, soprano; Mrs. Maud Cushing Nash, '96, soprano; Miss Linda G. Coolidge, '95, alto; Mr. William H. Smith, '97, bass.

The members of the chorus took a lively interest in the study of this work from the first, and it was a happy feature of the occasion to welcome among us again the familiar faces of the past members of the school. It was greatly to be regretted that the condition of the Town Hall made it necessary to give the concert with a reduced chorus suited to the limited stage accommodations of Shailer Hall.

In May, 1900, Miss Ella F. Story, the assistant music teacher, who had served the town in that capacity since 1891, tendered her resignation. Miss Edith H. Snow, of Bangor, Maine, a graduate of the department of Public School Music, New England Conservatory of Music, was elected to this position in June, 1900, and began her services at the opening of the present school year.

The High School Orchestra is doing its regular work successfully. It happens this year that there are fewer present members of the High School among our number than at any time in the history of the organization. The reason for this is that there are but few in the school who play orchestral instruments. This lack is made good by the presence of several promising young violinists from the grammar schools, and by a number of the former members of the school. It is particularly gratifying to state that the present members of the organization show a greater interest in the study of serious music than has been shown by any previous membership.

Now that music has won its way to a permanent place in the public school curriculum, and is recognized as a useful and agreeable study by both parents and children to the extent that, in Brookline at least, all the children of the public schools participate in the music lessons, it seems fitting to briefly call attention to the important bearing that music has upon other features of public school education. The moral power of music in the public schools was recognized by Horace Mann in his eighth annual report as Secretary of the Massachusetts Board of Education, but there is one feature of the subject which even he, educational prophet that he was, scarcely recognized,—namely, the value of music as an illustration of coöperation or combined effort. The music lessons are necessarily in concert, and stand for whatever is best or worst in a given school. In music, as nowhere else in all school life, it is easiest for both regular teachers and pupils to evade personal responsibility, and therefore, the results in music become in a sense the thermometer of the spirit, if not of the educational worth, of a school. It is well-known fact that the musical ability of many regular teachers is small, which must certainly be even more true of many of the pupils. It would not be difficult to find illustrations of a combination of these conditions where most satisfactory musical results are obtained, because both teacher and pupils have united to do their individual best and to make the most of their musical abilities and opportunities. It is needless to say that where such coöperation exists there is character building of the best type; where at least the effort is made to do the utmost possible towards reducing the number of those who are content to be nobody and to do nothing. Where music is thus taught it becomes a moral force which blesses both the school and the community.

Music has a very direct bearing also upon the reading and speaking. The music lessons were begun this present year with the determination on the part of the teachers of music to make the year's work tell as much as possible along these two lines,—namely, to impress every boy and girl with a sense of their personal responsibility for the success of the music in their school, and to improve the quality of tone and articulation. It is not an easy task to keep all these aims constantly in view, but it is certainly true that signs of improvement are not wanting and these lead us on to the confident expectation that another report will show still more improvement, and to the further hope that the community may one day congratulate itself upon the establishment of a department of elocution in its public school system.

Respectfully submitted,
SAMUEL W. COLE.

Revision of Regulations.

The last edition of the School Regulations was printed in May, 1897. Our supply of this pamphlet being exhausted, it was deemed advisable by the Board to revise it before reprinting. This work has been done and the new rules of the School Committee and regulations for the public schools go into effect on March 1, 1901. At this time I call attention to one change of considerable importance. The revised rules provide for the designation of a principal teacher in every school building of more than one room. Previously the high and grammar schools have had responsible heads, and, in some instances at least, in primary buildings there has been a partial recognition of some one teacher as responsible head of the building. The action of the Board makes such partial recognition complete. The new regulations define clearly the duties, responsibilities and authority of principals. Since these are distinctly increased in the primary buildings, the Board has recognized the fact by making the principal's salary larger by $25.00 than the salaries of subordinate teachers. There can be no doubt that the efficiency of the schools will be enhanced by this distinct recognition of a responsible head for each building.

Evening Schools.

On the evening of Monday, October 22, 1900, the following evening schools were opened:—

At the Lincoln building, a school for teaching industrial or mechanical drawing, and one for the common English branches. These schools are designed for boys and men. Up to Friday, February 1, 1901, the drawing school was in session upon fifty evenings, when it was deemed best to end the work of the season. The average attendance upon the drawing school, 6.4, was very unsatisfactory. While the work of the common school at the Lincoln is still in progress, this is a convenient point for noting the fact that its average attendance for the first fifty evenings was 25.

At the new Pierce building, instruction in stenography and typewriting was offered to a class chiefly composed of young women. This class is still maintained. Its records for the first fifty evenings show an average attendance of 9.4. At the Pierce building, instruction in the English branches also has been offered to girls and young women. For fifty evenings the average attendance upon this class has been 14.5. Brookline, being a place of more than ten thousand inhabitants, is called on by the public statutes to maintain evening schools. The statutes say nothing as to the number of such schools which the town shall maintain, nor as to the time during which they shall continue. The town, however, has complied generously with the spirit of the law whose purpose it is to secure opportunity for getting an education to those whose needs cannot be met by the day schools. Great care was taken in the selection and employment of experienced teachers, and their number has been large enough to meet the need of evening school pupils for a large amount of individual instruction. The school rooms have been those occupied by day pupils and have been provided with all needed equipment in the way of books and supplies. It is, then, disappointing to find that the average attendance on the four classes referred to above, aggregates only 55.3. Within easy reach of the Lincoln and Pierce buildings there must be a much larger number of persons who would do well to avail themselves of the opportunities generously offered by the town in these evening schools.

It is doubtless true that officials charged today with the administration of schools are confronted with more numerous and more difficult problems than have perplexed the officials of earlier times. Whether the schools of the present are better or poorer than those of the past, they are certainly more complex. A careful comparison of the Brookline schools of today with those of fifty years since would disclose very remarkable differences. Just now I am not interested in the relative efficiency of the two periods — although that is a perfectly fair inquiry — but I have in mind the great increase in the number of subjects taught and the radical changes in the methods of instruction and discipline. As suggested on an earlier page, the Superintendent requires more time for observation and reflection than a half year affords, in order to reach conclusions upon many matters of grave concern which may be worthy the attention of the Board. As illustrating the number and scope of the questions which call for consideration, let me cite the following: Do pupils work under too great pressure during school hours, and are they compelled to spend too much time in study outside of school? Is the curriculum overcrowded, and if so, what are the items which should be cut out? Should any mathematics, except arithmetic, be taught below the High School? Should either or both French and Latin be taught in the grammar grades? If one, which shall it be? If both, which shall precede? Is the time at present devoted to manual training for boys and domestic science for girls reasonable in amount and wisely distributed? These may serve as examples of reasonable questions which demand the most careful consideration. Finally, there is the financial question. It would be easy to show that the per capita cost of educating the children of Brookline is certain to be high. If I gauge correctly the temper of the town, it is entirely willing to deal generously with its schools, but wishes to be assured of adequate value received for all money expended. If I say that in a town of great wealth there is likely to creep in a tendency toward lavish expenditure, I am not to be understood as suggesting that such evil now exists in the School department. With the growth of the town, however, an annual increase in the size of the school appropriation is inevitable, and the Superintendent cannot escape a large measure of responsibility for the use which is made of such grants of money. There is one direction in which, in my judgment, the town can scarcely go too far. I refer to the payment of such salaries to teachers as will command the very best talent anywhere to be found. As is the man or woman, so is the teacher, and then, so is the school. As Mr. James Bryce puts the matter: "We may overrate the importance of educational machinery; we may expect too much from modernized curricula; we cannot overrate the excellence of the teacher, or spend too much pains in endeavoring to secure it. With good teachers nearly everything will have been gained; without them hardly anything."

A year from this time, if it shall prove my privilege to prepare a second report for the consideration of the Board I shall hope to be able to speak with some measure of confidence on matters with mere mention of which I now find it advisable to content myself.

Voted, That the Town Treasurer be authorized to borrow from time to time, when so directed by the Selectmen, a sum or sums not exceeding in the aggregate $200,000, appropriated at this meeting towards paying the land damages and cost of constructing the alteration, widening and relocation of Boylston street, giving therefor the note or notes of the town, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding four per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, signed by the Treasurer and countersigned by a majority at least of the Selectmen. Such note or notes shall be made payable in such annual proportionate payments as will extinguish the same in or within ten years from the date of delivery thereof.

The entire amount provided for by this vote was obtained of Blake Brothers & Company on ten notes, each for \$20,000, dated April 2, 1900, bearing interest at $3\frac{1}{2}\frac{5}{100}$ per centum per annum, semi-annually, the principal being payable \$20,000 the first day of April in each year from 1901 to 1910 inclusive.

As the money was not all needed at the time of the negotiation of the loan, it was taken one-half in April and the other half late in June, whereby a considerable saving in interest was effected.

I have examined the accounts of the Treasurer as heretofore at the close of each month's business, and have found them to be correct, with the balances, cash on hand and in bank, as entered on the cash book. I have had in my hands all the notes and bonds paid during the year and find them properly cancelled.

* Includes $130.41 expended on account of Boylston-street Improvement in 1899, and transferred from Borrowed Money to General Fund in 1900.

I have verified the Collector's Accounts; the Taxes collected, as well as those abated by the Assessors, and find them as stated in the Collector's Report, page 108; also the Receipts from Water Rates, which I have checked by the books of the Water Department, and find the amount of the collections as stated in the report, page 109. I have compared the Sewer Assessments reported collected, with the original entries made by the Town Engineer in the Sewer Assessments book, and find the amounts correctly stated.

The accounts of the Trustees of Walnut Hills Cemetery have been examined from time to time, and those of the Trustees of the Public Library at the close of the year, and I have found the accounts to be correct, and that the official statement of the Treasurer of the Trustees is in accord with the facts as shown by the books.

A statement giving the estimated value of town property is appended.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD B. HILL, Town Accountant.

REPORT
BOARD OF ASSESSORS
BROOKLINE,
MASSACHUSETTS,

FOR THE YEAR ENDING JANUARY 31, 1901.

BROOKLINE :
THE RIVERDALE PRESS : C. A. W. SPENCER.
1901.

REPORT OF THE ASSESSORS.

The Assessors of the town of Brookline for the year 1900 submit the following report:—

At the beginning of the year the board organized with R. G. F. Candage, chairman, and Harry H. Whitney, clerk.

The district allotments, for convenience of the board, have been the same as in previous years, dating from 1895.

The work of canvassing the town by the Assessors was begun May 1st. Notice to the public was made through the Brookline Chronicle during May, and printed notices were left at all dwellings and places of business in the town requesting all subject to taxation to bring in true lists of their polls, their personal and real property.

The canvass of the town to ascertain names of all poll taxpayers, and examination and valuation of real estate, began May 1st and was completed in June.

The probate records of several counties, registry of deeds of Norfolk, corporation and bank stock lists at the office of the Tax Commissioner at the State House, were consulted as in former years.

The appropriation of $800 for additional clerical assistance, $1,000 for Assessors' plans (to be spent under direction of the board), and $1500 for salary of the clerk, with $4500 as salary for the three principal Assessors, we recommend to be continued.

The number of polls assessed was 5630, a gain of 265 over last year; transfers of real estate 584, an increase of 13; persons assessed for a poll tax only 3449, a gain of 171; resident taxpayers (individuals) on property, 3202, a gain of 184; resident estates, trusts, firms and joint ownerships, 555, a gain of 67; non-resident individuals, 473, a gain of 15; non-resident estates, etc., 146, a gain of 9; dwelling houses, 3076, a gain of 124; number of tax bills, 7827, an increase of 417, or nearly 6 per cent; acres of land 3629.53, a shrinkage of 345.79, gone into new streets, acquired by the town, or otherwise taken from the area taxed last year; horses 1592, a gain of 14; cows, 384, a gain of 5; sheep, 300, decrease 20.

Valuation of real estate	$54,453,100 00	a gain of	$1,910,000 00
Valuation of personal estate . .	23,567,400 00	a gain of	1,453,200 00
Total	$78,020,500 00	a gain of	$3,363,200 00
Add bank and corporation stocks	12,000,000 00
Total value of all property .	$90,020,500 00

The total town appropriations were $1,006,834.29; state tax, $36,360.00; county tax, $59,517.85; sewer tax (Metropolitan), $23,334.87; amount appropriated for park tax (Metropolitan,) $20,000.00 = $1,146,047.01. Balance in the treasury, $99,265.00; estimated receipts, $260,250.00 = $359,515.00, deducted, left the amount to be raised by taxation, including overlay of $19,847.58, at $806,379.58, which made the rate $10.20 per thousand dollars, a decrease of thirty cents per thousand from the year 1899.

The foregoing report epitomizes the changes and growth of the town for the year past as well as enumerates the totals.

Herewith we present a condensed statement of the taxation of the town for the year 1900, and a table of aggregates of debt, expenditures, valuations and rates from Feb. 1, 1847.
